Senator Hurley Denies Accusation Made By Billings

WILL MAKE STATEMENT SATURDAY

WILL MEET MONDAY

Supreme Court Ends Unique Hearing; Adjourns Until First of Week

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Senator Edward Hurley emphatically denied the accusation of Billings.

"The only statement I have to make at this time," Hurley said Thursday night, "is an absolute flat denial of the truth of everything Billings said insofar as it pertained to me myself.

"Billings was prompted. I will have a complete statement of denial to give to all the newspapers tomorrow."

Hurley was attending the F. O. Eagles convention here and newspapermen had difficulty in contacting him.

FOLSOM PRISON, Calif., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Grasping eagerly at a straw of liberty, before him in the form of a pardon application hearing, Warren K. Billings, Folsom lifer, denied to the California supreme court last night that he was implicated in the San Francisco preparedness day bombing, July 22, 1916.

At a strange court session, held in Folsom prison, the little convict pleaded eloquently for the right to walk as a free man from the penal institution in which he has spent almost 14 years.

By convening within the prison, the court made new judicial history, just as it has been doing since July 29 when Billings' pardon review became in reality a "re-trial" for Billings and Thomas J. Mooney, the two men convicted of the bombing murders.

In general Billings told a forceful story and conducted himself on the stand with credit to the University of California law school extension courses which he has studied during leisure hours since he came here as a boy of 23.

Under direct testimony and cross examination, Billings did not spare himself and neither was he gentle in making charges against those associated with him in sabotage work from 1913 to 1916.

Carried Gun

Billings admitted that he was a bad character, told the court details pertaining to dynamite transportation in 1913, said he possessed burglar tools and carried a gun but he did not falter once in insisting that he had nothing to do with the bombing outrage in which 10 persons were killed.

'On July 22, 1916, I was walking down Market street ruining paint jobs on automobiles by squirting paint remover on them," Billings said.

The sabotage work, he explained, was done for the Automobile Mechanics' union which was then on strike. One squirt of the fluid from a syringe and a car needed refinishing, according to Billings. The purpose of this was to flood workshops with automobiles, so that the public, unable to obtain

RELIEF AHEAD FOR SUFFERERS IN ARID AREAS

Hoover and Governors of 12 States End Conference, Promise Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(UP)—A vast relief organization was in the process of formation today to provide autumn and winter aid for nearly 270,000 drought suffering farm families.

Speed was the farewell note sounded by President Hoover to the departing governors or representatives of 12 drought stricken states who worked out with him the details of a national relief program at a White House conference last night.

Immediate action was promised by the state executives in naming the state and county committees which are to form the nucleus of the relief organization.

Each governor who considers a situation requiring emergency relief exists in his state is to appoint a chairman of a state drought relief committee. Then will follow organization of a committee composed of a banker, Red Cross representative state agricultural official, railway representative and farmers.

The governors present at yesterday's conference indicated they would have the state committees ready early next week. Completion of the 250 or more county committees may take longer.

These committees, under the agreement made by Mr. Hoover with the governors, will have as their first objective the providing of relief over the winter for families deprived of support through loss of crops. Other objectives are prevention of unnecessary sacrifice of livestock and protection of public health.

These aims are to be accomplished, the president said, through a four-fold program:

1.—Placing of loans privately, or where necessary with assistance of state or national agencies.

2.—Red Cross assistance.

3.—Increasing employment.

COMMUNISTS' CAMP THREATENED BY MOB

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(UP)—A crowd that threatened to destroy the Communists children's camp near here was dispersed by state troopers today, and quiet was restored after a hectic night.

Three troopers were on guard at the camp at Van Etten, where 70 children are spending a vacation that is scheduled to en dtomorrow. Last night a mob of 1500 men and boys, many of them carrying torches, gathered in front of the camp and threatened to burn it because two of the Communist leaders refused to accept an American flag which patriotic organizations had offered.

Air Line Between L. B., Las Vegas Opens August 31

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Inauguration of an air passenger service August 31 between Long Beach and Las Vegas Nev., by the Boulder Air Lines, was announced here today following word from J. W. Squires, president of the company, now in Las Vegas.

The line will operate a one-day trip between Long Beach and Las Vegas, stopping at Stove Pipe Wells, in Death Valley, during the winter season. From Las Vegas sight seeing trips will be held over the Boulder dam site and the Grand Canyon.

YAWL SAFE IN PORT

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Aug. 15.—(UP)—The yawl Contender, sought in the Pacific ocean by a coast guard cutter after it had reported dwindling food and fuel supplies, entered the harbor early today under its own power. Commodore Walter Horne of the Long Beach Yacht club, owner of the Contender, hailed coast guard headquarters as he passed and said his yacht and the 25 aboard were in good shape.

47 MINERS ARE STILL TRAPPED UNDER DEBRIS

PRINCETON, B. C., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Crews of exhausted, determined miners still fought and hacked their way into tons of debris in the wrecked Coalmont mine today in a dogged but apparently hopeless effort to rescue their 47 fellow workmen who were entombed by an explosion Wednesday night.

Not for a minute, since the disaster, has the rescue work ceased, although all officials have given up hope that the trapped men will be rescued alive.

Grimy with coal dust, their faces streaked with sweat, the rescue workers reeled from the portal throughout the night and today, to drop from exhaustion. Two hours sleep was the rule and then back into the tomb.

The feverish haste of yesterday had given way to grim determination today. The spirit of the pithead, the traditions of those who work under the ground, has an inviolable law that these men must do nothing else until they have

KILLER HANGED AT SAN QUENTIN TODAY

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Aug. 15.—(UP)—John Gomez, 22 sentenced to death for the murder of George "Dad" Jones, Livermore taxi driver, last May, was hanged today on the gallows at San Quentin prison.

George Ryley, 21, was to have been executed today also, but late yesterday the state appellate court granted him a stay of execution until September 8 to enable his attorneys to ask for a writ of habeas corpus.

Calvin Coolidge Says

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE

Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 15.—The old frontiers and back country of our nation have vanished. We do not have any longer a strictly rural population. It is difficult to find any region that lives unto itself. Wherever we go we find similar brands of ready-made clothing and shoes worn by both men and women, the standard house furnishings. But the change of even greater importance is the similarity of information and opinions.

One great factor in this improved condition of the people is good roads. They are a by-product of the automobile. When the motor car brought the increased power to travel, people began to insist on adequate highways that were adapted to their needs. Now all kinds of cars with people from all sections are circulating all over the country. Another important influence is the radio. A third is the motion picture.

These influences have supplemented the schoolhouse in banishing ignorance. They have stimulated and unified the thought of the people, broken down sectional prejudices, and welded us all into one nation. They are outstanding examples of how commercial activity ministers to the spiritual welfare of the people. Deligence in business has carried us to a higher mental and moral plane.

ITALIANS RAP LEAGUE IN 26 PAGE LETTER

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 15.—(UP)—A violent attack on the present administration of the league of nations was contained in a 26 page document which the Italian government sent to the league secretariat today for distribution to all members of the league of nations council.

Although the document is secret so far and has not yet been given to members of the council, it was understood to be directed particularly against Sir Eric Drummond, British secretary general of the league, on the ground that the executive power of the league rests with an Englishman and a Frenchman and that 40 per cent of the high functionaries of the league are either British or French.

The Italian note, it was un-

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE SHOWS DROP IN JULY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(UP)—United States foreign trade dropped in July to the lowest figure in five years, with exports totaling $269,000,000 and imports aggregating $219,000,000, the commerce department announced today. This compares with exports of last July of $402,861 000, a decrease of $133,861,000 and imports of $352,980,000, a drop of $133,980,000.

Exports for the first seven months of this year dropped $680,629 000 below those for the same period last year, from $3,025,949,000 to $2,345,320,000, while imports showed a decrease in the same period of $684,477 000, dropping from $2,639,355,000 to $1,954,878,000.

Midwest And South Given Some Relief

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Rain fell throughout the east and in scattered sections of the west, midwest and south today, breaking into the last strongholds of the $750,000,000 drought of 1930.

In most of the state east of Ohio, rain fell steadily, but lightly, throughout last night and continued today. North central states where the worst of the drought was broken several days ago, received no further relief. The west coast continued dry. Rocky mountain states, in most of which there has been no drought, had light rains. Scattered areas in the south were dampened.

At Cleveland there was a short but heavy rainfall about midnight, giving the vicinity a thorough wetting for the first time since June and breaking the longest drought there since 1881.

Light rains fell in some parts of southern Illinois and Kentucky, where drought suffering has been more acute than in most other sections of the country.

The rains were not heavy enough to cause any considerable rise in the streams, all of which have reached unusually low stages during the last month.

Among the cities which reported light but continued rains today were Washington, Boston, Detroit, New Haven, New York, Harrisburg and Philadelphia. A comparatively heavy rainfall of about 1 inch fell yesterday at Memphis, Tenn. Showers were general over Ohio. Pittsburgh and Los Angeles had no rain since Wednesday.

There has been no rainfall in the Chicago area for several days, but the drought here has not been so severe and recent rainfall took care of immediate needs.

ILLINOIS FLIERS HELD BY SHERIFF

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Paul Montgomery and James Malone, southern Illinois fliers held in connection with the aerial bombing of a non-union mining district near Providence, Ky., last Monday, will be held here and not immediately extradited to Kentucky, Sheriff William Flanigan said today.

A federal warrant charging conspiracy to violate certain sections of the federal aeronautical laws, was issued against Montgomery last night, and pending disposal of that charge, the two will be held in Murphysboro.

Requisition papers for Montgomery's return to Kentucky on a criminal syndicalism charge had arrived yesterday.

Triple Slayer, 63, Electrocuted In Arkansas Prison

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 15.—(UP)—William H. Howell, 63-year-old triple slayer, was electrocuted at the state penitentiary here today. He was the first white man the state had put to death in six years.

Howell killed Cliff Deffenbaugh, superintendent of the Crawford county poor farm; Mrs. Deffenbaugh, and Jeff Nicholson, inmate of the farm, in 1927, when he became enraged because of his dismissal from the farm where he also was an inmate.

With the words "I forgive everybody for it," the aged man—the oldest ever to pa. the supreme penalty in Arkansas—walked calmly to the chair.

The current was turned on at 7:10 a. m. and he was pronounced dead four minutes later.

BIG DIRIGIBLE NEAR COAST OF IRELAND TODAY

Reported to Be Making Record Time and May End Flight Tonight

BULLETIN

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(UP)—The air ministry received a message late today that the steamer Cameron, reported the R-100 seventy miles south southwest of 53.58 north, 27.07 west, at 3:11 o'clock, G. M. T., 10:11 a. m., E. S. T.

This position would put the airship almost 700 miles southwest of Erris Head, Ireland.

Atmospherics were very bad, the ministry announced.

ABOARD THE DIRIGIBLE R-100, Aug. 15.—(UP)—The dirigible R-100, encountering less favorable weather conditions than on the early stages of the return flight to England, made steady progress today over the rain-spattered Atlantic ocean.

Holding steadily to its course along the 53rd parallel, the trans-Atlantic ship was handicapped by clouds and rain in its effort to set a new speed mark across the ocean and was forced to cut its fast pace to about 50 miles an hour.

The crew was straining to obtain the best speed of which the R-100 is capable on the over-water flight of less than 2,000 miles and officers of the ship were confident that the temporary rain clouds would not prove a handicap.

With the ship progressing steadily more than 600 miles out from Belle Island around midnight, E. S. T., only favorable weather was needed to assure a record-breaking flight to Cardington that would surpass the speed mark of the Graf Zeppelin.

The first reduction in the speed of between 72 and 80 miles an hour made by the R-100 down the St. Lawrence valley from Montreal was noticed over the St. Lawrence gulf and became more apparent as the dirigible failed to find the favorable tail winds predicted over the ocean after passing Belle Isle just before 11 a. m., E. S. T., yesterday.

Hope was still held, however, that the dirigible would be able to speed up to around 90 miles an hour and reach Cardington late Friday night or early Saturday.

TRIBES WARNED NOT TO ATTACK BRITISH

KARACHI, India Aug. 15.—(UP)—King Nadir Khan of Afganistan warned members of the Shinwari and Mohammedan tribes today not to join forces with Afridis in their revolt against the British government.

An official communique issued here today characterized the situation on the northwest frontier as one of considerable gravity. Some quarters regarded the announcement as a possible prelude to a declaration of martial law in the Peshawar district.

TO MAKE REVERSE GEAR TRIP

Riding backwards, the same manner in which they travelled here from New York in 18 days, Hargis and Creighton took off at 8 a. m. for San Francisco, the first big city on their west to east course.

O'BRINE AND JACKSON IN GOOD SHAPE

NOW MAKING MONEY

LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD, ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Five days short of a month in the air, the endurance monoplane, the Greater St. Louis circled monotonously overhead today.

As new hours were added to the refueling endurance record of Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, the prediction of the fliers that they would remain aloft 1000 hours became accepted as the real belief of two experienced aviators, rather than a wild hope.

The orange and yellow monoplane was 48 hours past the Hunter brothers' record at 8:52:30 a. m. CST., and at 3:11 p. m. had been in continuous flight 608 hours.

As long as the six-cylinder challenger motor continues to drone with its present regularity, Jackson and O'Brine saw contracts that mean money, and a chance to set up a record that should be unbeatable for a long time.

Four advertising contracts totaling $1800 were closed by W. H. Pickens, their manager today and $100 for each hour in the air up to 70, that the fliers surpass the Hunter brothers' mark of nearly 554 hours, was rolling in, at the rate of $1.55 a minute. The hourly offer was from the company which is supplying gasoline.

Messages from the endurance plane continued to indicate the motor was functioning well, although eating more gas and oil than earlier in the flight. Jackson and O'Brine remained in good spirits, although undoubtedly weary from remaining in the cramped quarters of their cabin, with only the catwalk about the motor available for a stretch of their legs.

GIRL KILLED WHEN TRUCK STRIKES BUS

SAN DIMAS, Calif., Aug. 15.—(UP)—A Sunday school party ended in tragedy near here last night when a bus carrying 19 children rolled over after a collision, killing a young girl.

The victim, Mary Greer, 14, of Charter Oaks, was found dead in the machine's wreckage but the other children escaped without serious injury. A blind corner was blamed for the collision between the bus and a heavy truck.

FLIER, 18, RESUMES FLIGHT TO COAST

It was understood the Italian note did not propose any reorganization of the league but that Italy expressed a desire for radical changes in the league administration such as the establishment of a "committee of direction" with Sir Eric Drummond as chairman or "prime minister." The Italians also suggested that the present four secretaries be increased to eight to act as "ministers" or members of a "league cabinet."

It was believed the document would be debated eventually in the league assembly, where Italy would count on the support of a number of smal states who desire to be more closely represented in the league administration.

TELEVISION BLUSH

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Television has progressed to the extent where it can now broadcast a bride's blush. Scientists doing research work for the Bell Telephone Laboratories here recently announced that they had not only televised a blush, but had broadcast the warmth of the blush by means of heat radiations sent by photo-electric action.

SAYS GERMANY LIVES BEYOND STATE'S MEANS

BERLIN, Aug. 15. — "Germany has lived beyond her means. There has been too much waste and extravagant expenditure in our public and private business!"

With a voice pitched high with emotion and shaking his fists vehemently Adam Stegerwald, Reich Minister of Economics, thus "bawled out" the Solons of the German Reichstag for failing to support the government's new taxation program.

Taking even his cabinet colleagues by surprise, the minister's speech caused a painful sensation. because it bore out, almost word for word, the charges raised against Germany's financial policy by Parker Gilbert in the latter's last official reparations' report published immediately after the General Agent had left Germany for the United States.

"We are facing the appalling fact that we have cherished dangerous illusions all these years and that, through our mismanagement of finances, people lost confidence in the government altogether," continued the minister, while dozens of deputies thronged around the platform and the crowds in the galleries pricked their ears in amazement at the frankness of the minister's charges.

"A serious business depression throughout the world has also entangled Germany. We are in the midst of a very serious financial and business crisis, which we shall have to overcome by the most drastic means conceivable. Now has come the hour for quick action.

"In the situation we are in nothing can save us but the most rigid economy all along the line. Our situation is entirely different from what it was a year ago. Between 1924 and 1928 two and a half to three billion marks worth of foreign capital flowed to Germany and gave a million people work and bread. Today this flood has not only ceased, but large amounts of German capital go abroad instead. German agriculture working without profit for the last years, cannot afford to buy German products for lack of capital. z"We have lived beyond our means in every respect, and we are paying the price for it now. The Reich, the Federal Republics and the communities, in the midst of the depression, are forced to meet short-termed obligations or have to transform them into long-termed ones with heavy sacrifices. Confidence in the government's leadership and the administration is severely shaken. Almost every important trade is down. The building trade at present employs about half a million men less than a year ago."

HURLEY DENIES CHARGES MADE BY BILLINGS

refinishings, would demand that garages take action to end the strike.

A surprising and sensational phase of Billings' testimony pertained to his arrest in Sacramento in 1913 when he was convicted of illegal possession of dynamite.

He said that State Senator Edgar N. Hurley, Oakland, Calif., paid him $25 and expenses to transport a suitcase of dynamite from San Francisco to Sacramento. According to Billings, he was not sure that he was carrying dynamite but suspected it. He advised that in his opinion the explosive was to be used in destroying electric towers at Sacramento in connection with an electrical workers strike.

Accuses Hurley

In 1913 Senator Hurley was prominent in certain labor circles in Oakland. Other than naming Hurley as the man who paid him, Billings said he knew nothing of Hurley's labor activities.

The court delved deeply into Billings' life previous to the preparedness day parade and frequently asked him to tell the state of his morals from time to time.

"I know it was not creditable," Billings said, "but in 1913 my attitude was to earn a living in the easiest way."

An interesting incident in connection with Billings' 1913 arrest was that it resulted in the present hearing being held. Billings served two years in prison that time and after conviction of the preparedness day bombing was sent to Folsom for life.

In California previously convicted men must have a recommendation from the supreme court before the governor may grant a pardon and that is the sole reason the court is now "re-trying" the case through the avenue of Billings' application hearing. The case of Mooney, who was convicted on virtually the same evidence, must be acted on by Gov. C. C. Young.

Justice John W. Preston of the supreme court, a former prosecutor, conducted the questioning for the court and under his searching examination Billings held up well.

The little convict, seated in a big chair which was placed in front of a "master key door" to all Folsom cells, confirmed in part the repudiation story of John MacDonald, missing witness whose return to California to tell that his identification of Billings and Mooney was "a pack of lies" aided in bringing about the bombing retrial.

Billings said he did not know MacDonald prior to his arrest and that MacDonald's repudiation of his identification at the trial must have been correct as he was not near Steuart and Market streets, where the blast occurred.

Scorns Parole

Preston devoted much time to wondering why Billings never applied for a parole, although eligible for one for six years.

"I feel that paroles are for those who were guilty but repentant," Billings said. "I am absolutely innocent and therefore feel I should have a full pardon."

"Why didn't you apply for a parole and then seek a pardon while on parole?" Preston wanted to know. Billings indicated that he felt his case was virtually hopeless and said he did not want to complicate Mooney's pardon application with his own, fearing that his previous criminal record would be a factor against Mooney, who was a "first termer."

Expressing confidence that Moonel is innocent too, Billings told the court that Martin Swanson, Pacific Gas and Electric detective, had offered him $5000 to aid in "framing" Mooney on a dynamiting charge prior to the Preparedness Day bombing and that he refused to have anything to do with it.

Last week in San Francisco during the hearing, Edward Cunha, assistant prosecutor who aided in convicting Billings, quoted him as saying after his arrest: "You know part of the story and expect to get the rest from me but you won't."

Billings declared that was not true and under cross examination by Cunha said he did not recall ever talking with Cunha before the trial.

Not Socialist

Billing denied being connected with socialistic or communistic organizations and that he had no desire to overthrow the government by armed force. Preston hammered away on this point for many minutes, finally asking:

"If your vote could change the government what would you do?"

"Electric a Democratic president, governor and congress," said Billings.

At this point Edwin V. McKenzie, Billings' attorney, said laughingly: "That is a good statement, as four of the seven supreme court justices are Democrats."

The prison session opened at 5 p. m., after the lockup. The witness chair was in front of a steel door which, when closed, automatically locks every cell in the prison. These precautions were taken to prevent a demonstration or riot on the part of Folsom's 2200 convicts. Billings was the only man not locked up, aside from a few special duty men.

A point stressed by Billings in his story was that he did not intend going on the lecture platform to tell the world that "California had framed him." Such a thing never entered his head, he explained.

No Reason to Kill

"I had no reason to kill anyone on Preparedness day," Billings told McKenzie as the hearing neared midnight. "I agreed with President Wilson that the United States should be neutral but I didn't feel strongly about it."

"President Wilson changed his mind," Justice Preston said, "did you?"

"By that time I was in jail," Billings said.

The unusual prison session was the first time Billings, the obscure member of the Mooney-Billings case, ever told his story in detail. Ever since conviction, the aggressive Mooney has directed a fight for freedom from his San Quentin cell, but Billings at Folsom has done little until this year.

At 11:50 p. m. Justice William H. Waste, announced conclusion of the prison session.

"The hearing will convene again next Monday at 10:30 a. m. in the state building at San Francisco in an effort to bring this matter to a conclusion as speedily as possible."

FAST THINKING PUTS JERNIGAN ONE HOP AHEAD

Whatever is said about Sam Jernigan, sheriff, in the present campaign, the following story will indicate that he at least is "on his toes."

Jernigan was campaigning out at Midway City the other day when he ran across several men, building a service station. He stopped his car, reached over in the back and took a handful of campaign cigars out and started to the service station.

Going up to the man he thought looked like foreman, he said,

"Well, you having much trouble with candidates out this way?"

Then Jernigan handed him a cigar and kept on talking. "My name's Sam Jernigan. I'm running for sheriff."

"Sure, I know you, Mr. Jernigan," the foreman answered.

The foreman lit the cigar and then laughed. "Sorry I can't vote for you. I live over in Long Beach," he said.

"All these other men live in Long Beach too?" Jernigan asked, in a dismayed voice.

"Yes, all of them," he was told, and the foreman laughed long and loud, for the joke was a good one, he thought.

"Well," said Jernigan, as he continued to hand out the cigars, "I'm over here campaigning for Bill Traeger, you know."

"I have tried to organize them into shifts," George Murray, manager of the mine said this morning as he rested for a few minutes on an oxygen tank near the portal, "but they won't hear of it. They work 18 hours, take a couple of hours sleep, and insist on going back.

"How are you, Bob?" he shouted with a forced smile at a miner who was about to re-enter the tunnel, dog tired.

"Fine," the man answered, "I had two hours sleep."

Murray, himself, had not slept for 36 hours. He was begrimed from the muck and dust and after damp.

Murray and John G. Biggs mine inspector, had both been "knocked out" twice by the effects of the after damp, and many of the men had gone "out," more than several times."

"They fell like flies," Murray said. "Three, at one time, dropped on their faces across the tracks in the tunnel. Others became delirious; some lost control of their legs and reeled from one side of the tunnel to the other."

A pall of silence had fallen over the little village today. Yesterday there was hope, today there was none, but the rescue work will continue, they say, until the blocked shaft and slopes have been penetrated and the fate of the 47 is known.

Heat Drives Bees Into Residences

TUSCOLA, Ill., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Residents of this vicinity had more than heat to spoil their sense of comfort during the recent hot weather. The additional annoyment was in the form of bees that swooped down on farm homes, seeking relief from the extreme heat in the open country.

B. Z. Smith, who lives a short distance west of here, has a rather extensive apiary on his farm. The bees began buzzing and swarming around his home soon after the hot weather set in and kept B. Z. busy.

Everything was tried to discourage the bees from entering the residence but to no avail. Finally Smith was forced to obtain a spray, filled it with a carbolic acid solution and routed the bees.

Live Fowls Sent By Air In Europe

MALMOE, Sweden, Aug. 15.—Shipping of live chickens by air from the Continent to Sweden is the latest wrinkle in Swedish farming. One of the largest consignments of this kind ever made recently was landed here on board the ordinary mail and passenger plane of the Swedish Aerotransport Company from Germany. It held 1,800 live chickens, stored in boxes, and due to the even temperature of the cabin and the smooth flying, every bird was alive and well.

They were immediately taken out and loaded into closed automobiles and rushed to the modern chicken farm near here, belonging to Mrs. Ebba Weibull, one of the largest fowl breeders in the country. Mrs. Weibull last year imported 4,000 birds via air, and this year she has received 4,800. Of the first shipment of 1,000 only four were dead when the plane arrived, she says, whereas many more would have perished if they had been sent by rail.

BOARD GIVING CONSIDERATION TO APPLICANTS

With the field of candidates for the position as assistant superintendent of Santa Ana schools seemingly narrowed down to two men, possibility that the official will be selected by the board within the next week seemed quite certain today. The return of Superintendent J. A Cranston to the city today from his trip through the East, following the session of the National Education association, which he attended, is also regarded as a factor that probably will lead to the immediate selection of his assistant.

The two men, who it is understood are most favorably considered by the board of education are J. O. McLaughlin, of Palo Alto, and Percy Davis, of Berkeley, formerly of San Bernardino, with some preponderance resting with Davis, who is a California trained executive. Davis, it is understood, is to be in Santa Ana again this afternoon for a conference with Herbert Miller, a member of the board, who was not present at the board meeting last Tuesday night when Davis presented his qualifications for the approval of the board members.

McLaughlin and Davis have been studying for additional degrees in universities, the former at Stanford and the latter at the University of California. McLaughlin for some years was a city superintendent in Oregon and assisted teacher training work at Oregon State college. Davis, it is understood, has been in business since leaving school administration work at San Bernardino, but has determined to re-enter this profession.

FITTS SUPPORTERS IN ORANGE COUNTY

A group of Los Angeles women were touring Orange county yesterday calling on members of the W. C. T. U. in the interests of the Buron Fitts candidacy for governor. They are enthusiastically for Fitts and believe his nomination to be certain.

Those in the party were Mrs. Alberta Andrews, 2207 Elsinor street, Los Angeles, president W. C. T. U. local, Echo Park, treasurer W. C. T. U. federation, representing 28 local unions of Los Angeles, with a membership of about 4500, and which voted unanimously in June endorsing Fitts for governor; Mrs. Nellie McDowell, 632 South Fifty-seventh street, Los Angeles, president Crusade W. C. T. U. local, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Bessie H. Wilson, 4714 Washington street, Los Angeles.

CANDIDATES FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY AND SHERIFF AT HUNTINGTON BEACH MEETING

Four candidates for district attorney, three candidates for sheriff and one candidate for coroner were represented in person or by proxy at the first public meeting of the present political campaign held in Huntington Beach last night at the city auditorium.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Citizens' league of Huntington Beach a new organization, of which Roy Callahan is president. Callahan acted as chairman of the meeting, introducing the speakers. No expression of the sentiment of the 200 to 250 men and women present was sought.

Logan Jackson

Logan Jackson, candidate for sheriff, the first speaker, pledged himself to a program of law enforcement if elected. He said that respect for law implied first of all a respect for the officers of the law and that the voters should select a sheriff who could command the respect of the public.

Jackson gave a brief recital of his experience as a constable, peace officer and sheriff that extended over a period of 10 years.

"I do not use liquor," he said. "If elected sheriff I will not employ in my office any person who does use liquor. It is preposterous for an officer who violates the 18th amendment himself to arrest somebody else for doing what he himself does. If they can destroy the 18th amendment they can destroy the whole constitution." Jackson said that the taxpayers spent $37,000 a year for the sheriff's department and were entitled to expect a great deal for their money.

R. E. Haynes

R. E. Haynes, candidate for district attorney, talked of the maintenance of prisoners and the condition of the penal institutions, which he said were overcrowded. He referred to his experience as district attorney and county attorney in border counties in Idaho, for six years. He laid stress on his experience in juvenile cases and declared that he was not candidate of any society, clique or clan.

"Big Bill" Sylvester

"Big Bill" Sylvester, candidate for sheriff, made a brief but interesting talk in which he recited his wide acquaintance in Orange county and his experience as a salesman in meeting the public. He urged the need of protective measures for boys and girls and the value of the sheriff keeping in touch with the young people through visits to the schools. He recited a wide personal acquaintance with the boys of Orange county, and pledged that the guardianship of the sheriff's office would be thrown about the boys and girls if he was nominated at the primaries.

Harry Westover

Harry Westover, candidate for district attorney, said:

"I congratulate the voters of Huntington Beach on holding a meeting of this character. There are so many good men in the political field at this time that the issues are clouded.

Westover pledged himself to abate the slot machines and punch boards operating in the county, if elected district attorney. He declared that if the slot machines were operating against the law, as they evidently are doing, and it was in the power of the district attorney to stop them, he surely would stop them. Continuing he said:

"Mr. West, the retiring district attorney, I am told, said that I am impossible. He said that the voters might safely elect Collins or Wetlin, but not Westover.

Experience

"They are telling that I have no ability, never tried a case in the supreme court, that I have had no experience, that I have had little experience as a criminal lawyer. But prosecutions are only about a third of the business of the district attorney's office. I have filed more civil cases in the courts than all my opposing candidates put together. When they say I have no experience they are telling a damnable falsehood.

"I stand for law enforcement. I stand for abolishment of slot machines and punch boards." You can tell a man by the company he keeps. The reference of the candidate for district attorney as to the company a man keeps, was so worded that it was apparent he meant he had no acquaintainship with the criminal element of the county, had not served this element as an attorney in the past and hence such element could expect no favors from him as district attorney, if he were elected to the office.

Ralph McFadden

Ralph McFadden, candidate for sheriff, spoke briefly, stating that law enforcement was his policy and that it meant enforcement of all the laws to the best of his ability.

"I feel the office of sheriff needs to be brought up to a higher and more modern standard and that changes and improvements can and should be made. The grand jury has made certain recommendations that have not been complied with.

"These grand jury recommendations should receive the serious consideration of any county official. They come from a body of citizenry who have made an unbiased investigation and given their recommendations in all sincerity of purpose and motive."

D. G. Wettlin

David Wettlin, candidate for district attorney, former city attorney for Huntington Beach and former deputy district attorney of Orange county, delivered an extensive address.

"The county of Orange is the largest business organization in the county and the district attorney is the legal advisor of all the county officers in county affairs," he said. "You voters are entitled to know the ability of the men you are asked to vote for. You put a district attorney on the job to prosecute criminals. He has to meet and cope with the best legal talent money can hire. If your district attorney cannot meet this type of opponent, then the office is a farce.

S. W. Kaufman

S. W. Kaufman, former deputy district attorney, was introduced as representing Sam Collins, candidate for district attorney. Kaufman directed much of his talk at Westover and Haynes, and recited the experience that Collins had in the office of district attorney, which he said, thoroughly qualified Collins for the office. He urged that a vote for Collins meant a vote for efficiency in the office of district attorney.

A. H. Dixon

A. H. Dixon spoke for Coroner Charles D. Brown. Dixon urged the support of the voters for Coroner Brown, who is a candidate for reelection. Dixon stated that the coroner was in reality the highest officer in the county and was over district attorney, sheriff and all, in that, if the need arose, the coroner was the only man whose power over all the county officers was supreme, in that the coroner was the only officer who could arrest the sheriff, the district attorney or the supreme judges if need arose. He said that Coroner Brown had been fair in the conduct of his office and was as able and efficient as he was fair and courteous.

Wife Wanted For Congress Battle

Smith, who gives his Chicago address as "general delivery" wrote to Governor Young that despite the heat of a political campaign he craves the hand of a California maid in marriage.

"What I want is a girl that will want just one man, as I am just for one girl only," he wrote the governor. "I would like to meet someone between 14 and 55 years old. Now, I prefer red or black hair, but I'm not against blondes or brunettes."

ANNOUNCE GIFT OF CHURCH TO COLORED BODY

Meeting in the interest of the Second Baptist, colored, of Santa Ana, friends and members of the First Baptist, Nazarene and Second Baptist churches heard the formal announcement made by the Rev. U. E. Harding, Nazarene pastor, of the gift of the old Nazarene building to the Second Baptist church at a luncheon yesterday in the First Baptist church.

The Nazarene church, now located will be moved to Eighth and Artesia streets, the present site of the negro church. The Nazarenes wil lmeet in the Fox Broadway theater on Sunday mornings and work will start on their new edifice at Broadway and Bishop streets within the next two weeks.

The Rev. Otto Russell, former pastor of the First Baptist church, was one of the special speakers at the meeting. He spoke in appreciation of the Nazarenes and stated that the state board of missions of the First Baptist church, in convention, recently appropriated $1,000 to move the building for the Second church. Among the other speakers were the Rev. Harry Evans Owings, William Jerome, Bruce Switzler, L. E. Martin and J. P. Williams.

The colored women's quartet from the Friendship Baptist church in Pasadena provided music for the meeting. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sharar, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Purdom, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Martin, Mrs. Myrtlebell Parsons, Harry Evan Owings, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Williams, Mrs. O. S. Catland, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Marshall, L. R. Stausbury, Paul S. Hanna and the Rev. MrElroy Stovall.

School Students Discouraged From Entering Contests

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 15.—Pupils in California public schools will be discouraged from entering competition in the 1932 Olympic games, superintendent of public instruction Vierling Kersey announced.

A resolution adopted by the California public school Olympic game committee reads:

"We believe that competitive participation by boys and girls of public school age in connection with the Olympic games is not beneficial to their physical, mental and social welfare. Therefore, we recommend that the public schools limit their sponsorship to group demonstration of activities typical of programs of physical education according to highest educational standards.

"In keeping with this recommendation we shall most heartily encourage and support this demonstration type of activity if given the opportunity."

EAT THEIR NOISE

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—This town has no elevated railways or noisy motorists to keep it awake, but it has a far worse evil—a swamp full of frogs. To eliminate this noise, Dr. J. B. Hullett of the board of health has suggested that the frogs be shot by health officers and be used to furnish frog suppers to citizens.

LEGION SENDS 100 DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

More than 100 Santa Ana members of the American Legion and of the American Legion auxiliary are leaving here today and tomorrow for the state convention of the Legion, to be held in Sacramento for three days, starting Monday.

A number of private cars containing Legion men left here this morning. Members of the Santa Ana Amrican Legion Auxiliary Glee club, 20 in number, were to leave Wilmington this afternoon via boat for San Francisco and then to Sacramento, and the Santa Ana American Legion Drum corps, of 43 men, will leave here tomorrow, on a special car, for the convention city.

The convention this year is attracting more Santa Ana Legion members than ever before. Many are taking the opportunity of spending their vacation in the northern part of the state at the time the convention is being held.

YOUNG BACKERS IN FULLERTON ORGANIZE CLUB

A Fullerton Young-for-Governor club was launched at a meeting held in the office of Attorney Albert Launer in Fullerton this morning, when Judge Rex Goodcell, who is on a speaking tour of the Southland for the governor, spoke briefly.

Another meeting, when final steps in the organization of the club are taken, will be held sometime next week, it was announced. Howard Irwin, Fullerton realtor, is slated to head the organization. Irwin is a member of the county Republican central committee.

It was reported at the meeting that many Legion members of Fullerton had expressed a desire to join the Young organization.

Accomplishments of Governor Young were outlined by Goodcell. He discussed his ability as an executive and declared that the attacks which had been made by his rivals were ridiculous.

The contest, Goodcell said, is between Young and Rolph. Observations on a speaking tour in the north were cited by Goodcell, who said that while Rolph was strong in the north, indications were that Young would poll a much larger vote.

Reports from all over the state revealed an increasing interest in the candidacy of Young, Goodcell said.

WOMEN IN PULPIT

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A petition to admit women to the ministry of the Church of England is being considered by the conference of bishops which recently met at Lambeth. This movement is nothing new, as women preachers are known all over the country. But their acceptance by the religious heads is somewhat vague, and it is expected that official approval will come out of the conference.

SERVICES FOR MARCHANT ARE HELD THURSDAY

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the Smith and Tuthill Funeral parlors for Clyde Marchant, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Marchant, of West Sixth street, Tustin. Marchant had lived in Tustin for 29 years, and formerly was a resident of Jewell county, Kas., where he was born. He was a graduate of Santa Ana High school and Stanford university. He also attended a year in the Tustin grammar school.

Following his schooling, he worked in South America, as an engineer employed by the government. He was married in 1916 to Jessie A. Nodder, of Buenos Aires.

Due to a failing in health, he, with his family, returned to California about four years ago, where he was placed in a sanitarium, while his family was at the parental Marchant home. Marchant's health gradually improved, but he again suffered a relapse, from which he never recovered.

Marchant is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Marchant, a sister, Miss Mildred Marchant, and his three children, Samuel, Lenora, and Donald. His wife died a year and a half ago, while on duty as a trainednurse at Downey.

CITRUS ASSOCIATION PAYS $158,116.72 TO MEMBERS

The Santa Ana-Tustin Mutual Citrus association, under the management of A. J. Theis, this week made its first payments to the growers from the first pool, which ran from May 1, to July 1. Payments to growers amounted to $158,116.72, with an average of $3.29 per field box, or $6.58 per 100 pounds, net to the growers.

An average eight cars of oranges is being shipped each week, with a total of 122 cars up to date. This date marks the middle of the second pool, which runs from July 1, to September 1, while the third pool runs from September 1 to October 1, and the fourth pool, which will finish the season, probably will last through the middle of October.

Sixty cars of fruit are yet to be shipped this season while 68 cars were shipped in the first pool, with 462 boxes to each car.

Although a lighter crop was produced this year, prices to the growers, in some cases, were better than for last year's crop, due to the present scarcity of fruit on the market, according to Theis. From all present indications, a larger crop is being predicted for next year, ranging second to last year's crop.

AUDIENCE OF 7000 PRESENT TO HEAR BAND AND ADDRESS BY PHIL SWING LAST NIGHT

By RUTH ANDREWS

Record crowds continue in attendance at the weekly concert programs being offered in Birch park by Santa Ana Municipal band under D. C. Cianfoni's direction, the largest crowd of the season being in attendance last night. An audience approximating 7000 packed the small park to capacity.

They were drawn from all over the county in anticipation of the "California Night" program, with appearance of Congressman Phil D. Swing as a special attraction, many people standing throughout the entire program.

An impressive demonstration by the American Legion Drum and Buble corps preceded the program effectively, lending a patriotic note to the event.

Contrasts of tempo, mood and shading were quickly apparent in the opening overture, "The Big Bear," one of Cianfoni's own stimulating compositions, read by the director with characteristic verve and fire. The favorite arrangement from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" was richly colored, interpreted with feeling for detail and dramatic effect in an exceedingly artistic portrayal.

In response to many requests, Cianfoni's own band arrangement of themes from Cadman's graceful light opera "The Belle of Havana" was repeated for the second time this season, its joyous gaiety and appealing melody having made it a favorite with local audiences.

Presentation of the featured march, "The Boulder Dam," composed by Director Cianfoni within recent months and dedicated by him to Congressman Swing as a tribute for his efforts in the Boulder dam controversy, was preceded by a brief introductory analysis of the work by Harry Hanson, president and manager of the band, adding decidedly to its interest.

The work, descriptive throughout, symbolizes events marking the history of the Boulder dam project, opening discordantly, followed by more harmonious treatment, ensuing conflict in the closing trio finally concluded triumphantly. Vigorous reading of the impressionistic work under its composer's baton was followed by Congressman Swing's introduction to the throng by Hanson, the entire assembly rising in welcome.

Expressing his happiness in being present, and his appreciation for the unique march describing in musical language the Boulder dam controversy and dedicated to him by Cianfoni, Swing paid high tribute to Santa Ana's musical organizations.

"I know of no city in California that can boast of finer musical organizations than this city possesses," he stated. "These organizations are an asset of which any community has a right to be proud. I was already well aware of Cianfoni's reputation as a musical director in Erie, Pennsylvania, prior to his coming to Santa Ana, Congressman Shreve from Pennsylvania having praised his work highly to me while I was in Washington."

Briefly touching upon past difficulties encountered during the Boulder dam controversy, Swing outlined the benefits to result from this undertaking, attributing his utimate success in putting over this project to the support of loyal Californians, paying personal tribute to Colonel Finley and W. Jerome of this city, as well as the people in general.

Stressing his optimism concerning increased financial prosperity for this section, Swing expressed the belief that Southern California would be the first place in the United States to recover from the recent depression because of the profit it will experience through the Boulder dam project.

"Utilization of the resources of the Colorado river will aid tremendously in developing California's agricultural and mineral resources, as well as prove of great benefit to manufacturing industries. Within the next 20 years, I predict an increase of 5,000,000 additional population for this section," Swing commented.

The congressman's address was followed by a pleasing song group by that popular local ensemble, the American Legion Auxiliary Glee club, directed by Cecil Willits. Voices blent sweetly in the old favorite "I Love You, California," selected in tribute to Swing, "O Irish Hills" (Lester) which they plan to offer in the state contest for Legion choruses in which they will participate next Tuesday, also the graceful "Rosita" and as an encore, the popular "Chant of the Jungle."

Two favorite descriptive compositions from Cianfoni's pen followed, the melodies "Echoes of the Mission," suggestive of sacred lore of early California, its interwoven chimes and chanting of male voices softly restful; also the picturesque intermezzo, "California Whispering Pines" with its hint of natural setting and realistically interwoven twitter of foodland birds. Ever alluring melody of the Strauss Viennese waltzes, "The Blue Danube," made a conclusion of never failing appeal.

THEIR BIG EVENT

LILLE, France, Aug. 14.—It was just a small event to some people, but to Leon Decaen and Simone Flament, performers in Barnum's show here, it was the biggest event in their lives. It was their wedding, which united two of the smallest performers in the world. The bridegroom was four feet tall and the bride three feet four inches.

PASTOR 'TAKEN FOR RIDE' TO BAPTISM

DENVER, Aug. 15. — (INS)— While the Rev. J. T. Coulter, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal church here, was engaged in a baptismal ceremony at a local hospital, police were searching for him throughout the city at the request of his wife, who feared he had been "taken for a ride."

The Rev. Mr. Coulter was called to the door of his home, the wife stated, and after a hurried conference with two men, left the house—saying he would be gone a short time.

Mrs. Coulter, seeing three men in a large, curtained car in front, immediately became apprehensive when he failed to return after some time and called the police.

Shortly after patrolmen had been detailed to search, the Rev. Mr. Coulter telephoned to advise his wife that he would be late. He was baptizing a man seriously ill.

WHITE COLLAR WORK APPEALS TO GRID STARS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—(INS)—"White-collar" jobs seem to have supplanted the pick-an-shovel, stevedoring and other laborious endeavors that football players pursue in the off months so as to enable them to keep in condition for the coming grid campaign, judging by the summer activities of Quaker City stars.

Of the 45 moleskin warriors, of Temple University, only ten are indulging in work that requires more brawn than brains.

But that's all right according to Head Coach Heinie Miller, whose tutoring has brought the Owls from rank obscurity to national prominence in the short space of four years.

"It doesn't make any difference to me whether the boys work hard or take things easy, provided they do not go to extremes in either case. Some of the players were employed at heavy work last summer, while others took easy jobs or else did nothing, and I could not note one particle of difference in their playing last fall," Miller said.

"I do not believe in letting football players work too vigorously during the summer months, as they become both mentally and physically tired.

"On the other hand, I do not like to see the players loaf through the entire summer. Some of the athletes go home and do ncthing but eat and sleep and as a result, they report to the training camp much over weight, and it takes them at least a week to work off the excess poundage. It is up to the individual himself whether or not he wants to work. It doesn't make any difference to me as long as he reports in the proper physical condition."

RADIO BATTLES FIRES

Radio has at last joined the forest service to battle fire in the woods. After years of patient effort to adapt the radio to peculiar conditions of isolated fire area, the federal agency at White Salmon, Wash., has perfected a new type which operates efficiently in the woods. R. A. Bottcher, U. S. forest service, is shown here with the powerful little set which can be broken into four parts. It weighs 72 pounds.

MATTY LAIRD TO PILOT NO. ONE AIRSHIP

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Flying a machine of his own design, Matty Laird, one of the midwest's oldest aviators and a well-known commercial airplane builder, will enter the Thompson Trophy race of the 1930 National Air Races this summer, bearing the official entry number "One."

He will pilot a Laird Speedwing Special, similar in construction to the plane in which Charles W. (Speed) Holman executed one of the first outside loops of aviation history.

Offcial entry number "Two" has been alloted to Margery Louise Doig, of Danbury, Conn., in the Women's Western Air Derby, a race from a Pacific coast city to Curtiss-Reynolds airport, scene of this year's Olympiad of the Air, from Aug. 23 to Sept. 1. Miss Doig, who holds a limited Department of Commerce commercial license, will fly a Pitcairn biplane.

Another Chicago veteran flyer-designer, Eddie Heath, has received entry numbers "Three," "Four," and "Five." One of his entries is a Heath Cannonball, a midget plane which attained a speed of 150 miles an hour at last year's races.

Gladys O'Donnell, who received several awards in last year's closed course events, also has entered the Women's Western Air Derby this year, but as yet has not been assigned a number. She plans to pilot a Waco biplane.

The Thompson Trophy race is the outstanding speed event of this year's meet. This race carries total prizes of $10,000 for the first three fliers, as well as gold, silver, and bronze trophies. Forty-three other events have been scheduled and approved, and include several stunting events in addition to the closed course races in the shout which take place from August 23rd to September 1st.

A YODER AFFAIR

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Aug. 15.—When Newton G. Yoder, 26-year-old farmer of West Liberty married Miss Mary Yoder, 27-yearold teacher of West Liberty, the Yoders had things all their own way. Newton's father married a Miss Artie Yoder, and his wife's father married a Miss Saloma Yoder. There are no relation ties between any of the families.

TARIFF RULES CAUSE SPANISH TRADE PROTEST

MADRID, Aug. 15. — Although there is an insistent demand among various commercial and trade bodies that Spain abrogate its existent modus vivendi with the United States, there is little possibility of the present government taking such a step.

As soon as President Herbert Hoover signed the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, the government appointed a committee comprised of employees and experts of the ministry of state and the ministry of national economy to consider the requests of Spanish business men.

The committee deemed that the modus vivendi should be abrogated, not only on account of the tariff which is particularly hard on Spanish products — especially manufactured cork—but on account of the other restrictive measures which United States has adopted, in connection with the so-called Mediterranean fruit fly, not to mention the loss of business which the 18th Amendment caused.

Now that the report has been made, however, there is little chance of anything being done about it. The Berenguer government is more and more showing a tendency to postpone the solution of such problems to the time when Spain shall return to parliamentary government, and it would hardly care to risk the responsibility of denouncing the 1906 treaty, but would much prefer to have a government chosen by the nation to handle such an important question.

The clearest indication that nothing will be done for the time being, however, can be derived from the fact that during the last week of June the Duke of Alba, minister of state, departed for a relatively long tour of France, England, and Switzerland, and upon his return to Spain he intends to remain in the summer resorts on the north coast.

AN OFFICER, TOO

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 15.—Even a limb of the law isn't immune from the searching hands of his wife, as Policeman Louis Wagner found. In a divorce suit recently filed here Wagner told the judge that his wife took money out of his pants while he was asleep. "What!" exclaimed the judge, "somebody is stealing from a policeman? Maybe the court had better delegate a policeman to guard the policeman's pants."

HOOVER FACES TASK IN NAMING MEXICO ENVOY

By LOUIS JAY HEATH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—President Hoover will soon be faced with the difficult task of naming a new ambassador to Mexico City to succeed Dwight W. Morrow. Morrow's success in the New Jersey senatorial primaries has made his resignation only a matter of months and already interest is centering here in his probable successor.

Observers see a dual problem confronting the president in selecting a man for the Mexican post. Mexican-United States relations are now on a more friendly basis than for many years past. Mr. Hoover is understood earnestly to desire that they remain so. Ambassador Morrow has, according to all reports endeared himself to Mexico officials and to the Mexican people who will feel keen disappointment at his departure and inevitably will measure his successor by comparisons with him.

President Hoover's task is to select a man who can measure up to the Morrow standard of ability and at the same time carry on the policy of friendly international cooperation which began with Morrow's advent in Mexican-United States relations.

For some time past the name most frequently mentioned whenever official and unofficial speculation is heard is that of J. Reuben Clark, who has been holding the fort at Mexico City during Morrow's recent absence. Of late there have been rumors that for private reasons, largely because of the heavy financial burden which the Mexican ambassadorship entails, Clark might hesitate to accept the post if it were offered him. Clark would be persona grata to Mexico, it is believed in unofficial circles here and Mexican Ambassador Tellez in private conversations frequently has expressed a very high opinion of his capabilities.

Clark's association with Morrow is also of long standing and there are many here who believe that the former Assistant Secretary of state would be Morrow's own personal choice as a successor. His association with Morrow in Mexico has made him thoroughly familiar with the ambassador's methods and program which should prove valuable in continuing the present relations. It is also believed that Morrow's recommendation in the matter will have a most important bearing upon the president's final selection.

OLD CAP AND BALL PISTOL DISCOVERED

CHICO, Calif., Aug. 15.—An old cap and ball pistol, estimated to be about 100 years old, was found here when J. W. Perkiss was digging a pipe line on one of the city streets.

The pistol was five feet underground. The handle had rotted away, and the iron parts were heavily coated with rust, but the brass trigger guard was still in perfect condition.

After cleaning the weapon, it was found to be a Colt, with the number 133,830 engraved on the side.

BAN BILLBOARDS

PARIS, Aug. 15.—By placing a heavy tax on billboards which are becoming a nuisance in France, the government plans to tax them out of existence. Rates contemplated now include a tax levy of $24 for every square foot of billboards less than six square feet in size. If this goes into effect all over the country some of the large billboards will bring a tax of$16,000.

SAYS YOUNG OR ROLPH IS REAL BALLOT ISSUE

Presented to a group of campaign workers and leaders today at luncheon at St. Ann's inn, by Freeman Bloodgood, Young manager in Orange county, Judge Rex B. Goodcell, former collector of internal revenue, of Los Angeles, gave an interesting resume of the progress of the Young campaign and stressed points which are winning increasing strength for Governor Young. Judge Goodcell is just completing a tour of the entire state and is fully informed on conditions throughout the state.

"The real issue of the campaign is whether the people want Young or Rolph," Goodcell declared. He then spoke of conditions in the northern part of the state, where he declared the sentiment was that Fitts would not carry anything north of the Tehachapi mountains.

"Informed politicians there assert that Fitts will receive only 160,000 votes in the entire state and that 130,000 of this vote will come from the eight southern counties," the speaker said. "Betting in the north is three to one against Fitts and 10 to seven for Young. The Rolph people in San Francisco declare that their only hope is that Fitts will split the vote sufficiently to enable the ultra liberals to elect Rolph."

It was brought out that Governor Young had secured the state building for the south after that project had hung fire for 15 years; that the University of California at Los Angeles had received only the old buildings in Los Angeles from past administrations, but that the governor had secured support which made possible its great expansion; and that under Gov. Young the secondary highways in the south had received state approval in a ratio of four to one as for those in the north. It also was revealed that Young was the only one of the candidates who has pledged against a plan of congressmen at large and in favor of giving representation in congress and the state assembly as previded through the law and the 1930 census, declaring that he would veto any other plan.

"The people of the state are beginning to understand the falsity of the tax propaganda spread by the Governor's opponents," Judge Goodcell asserted. "They are resentful of having been misled by such false statements. They resent the fact that Mr. Fitts is knowingly promising a revision of the tax system of the state that has been held directly unconstitutional by the supreme court of the United States.

"The opinion is unquestionably growing, based on such wild misstatements as those concerning the tax situation, that neither Mayor Rolph nor Mr. Fitts has any knowledge at all of the structure of state government. Both have promised to do things that under the law can't be done. Neither of the governor's opponents has a real issue in the campaign except personal ambition."

Judge Goodcell is scheduled to speak at Laguna Beach tonight.

PREPARE SCOUT BURGET

Directors of the Boy Scouts in Orange county met yesterday in the Boy Scout office at Sixth and Sycamore streets to prepare plans for the budget for next year.

Plans were made for the work this fall. M. B. Wellington, county president, was in charge of the meeting. C. J. Carlson, regional executive from Los Angeles, was present and addressed the meeting.

Norman Paul made a slight gain on Mario Mercurio in the boys' division for first place and Sue Verberg climbed up on the lead piled up by Corrine Pennington, who is second in the girl's division. Luvina Layton Schade continued to lead in this division.

The contest closes on Aug. 24, a week from Sunday.

NOAH RUSH IS WARNED TODAY ON PROBATION

A "slip" on the part of Noah Rush will mean a term in the penitentiary, as a result of action taken by Judge James L. Allen in superior court today.

Rush was before the court on a petition filed by the probation department asking that probation previously granted on a plea of guilty to operating a motor car while under the influence of liquor last winter, be revoked because of asserted violation of the terms of probation. The prisoner since that time had been found guilty of the same charge by a jury, and is now serving time in the county jail in lieu of paying a fine of $500 that was assessed by the court.

Judge Allen revoked the probation granted at the time of the first offense after the hearing today and sentenced Rush to the penitentiary for a term of from one to three years. Then he suspended the sentence, giving the prisoner a chance to make good under the stimulus of a "powerful threat." A condition of the suspension of sentence was that he leave intoxicating liquor alone.

Rush, who was injured in the latest accident which resulted in his arrest on a charge of operating a car while intoxicated, was remanded to the custody of the sheriff to carry out the rest of his sentence on the jury conviction.

SANTA ANA GIRL GIVEN AUDITION

Miss Florine Pollock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Pollock, 1113 West Fifth street, was in Los Angeles today for an audition held in Baldwin hall under the auspices of the Southern California Music company, with a scholarship at the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, New York, as a reward for the successful contestant.

Miss Pollock is a young coloratura soprano, a pupil of Ellis Rhodes of the Orange County school of Fine Arts, and has won much praise throughout Orange county. She has appeared on various programs and in different churches of the county, and was presented in a successful recital on Tuesday evening in Anaheim.

Miss Hazel Filer, who accompanied her on that occasion, will be at the piano for one of her numbers at the audition, "Une Voce Poco Fa" from "The Barber of Seville," by Rossini, and her mother, Mrs. Pollock, will accompany her in her second song, "For You Alone," by Geehl.

Th condition of J. C. Nava, pastor of the Mexicon Methodist church here, who was seriously injured on August 1, in an automobile crash, and who has been in the Santa Ana Valley hospital since that time, was reported improved today. He suffered a fractured skull and his condition has been critical.

FOUR INJURED IN HEADON COLLISION

Four persons were injured late yesterday when cars driven by Mrs. J. C. Hillebrecht of Orange, and J. C. Smith of Rialto, collided head-on, on the state highway, south of Tustin.

All of those injured were occupants of the Smith machine. They were taken to the county hospital, where two remained overnight, the others being given first aid treatment and removed to their homes.

Mrs. J. C. Smith, 35, suffered a badly injured ankle, Roger Smith, 6, suffered cuts and bruises about the head and face. Mrs. C. R. Smith, an aunt of the youth, suffered severe cuts and bruises on the legs and about the head and face, and Edwin Birdsall, 36 of Corona, was cut and bruised.

Electric Tools Taken from Shop

Electric tools, worth $275 were reported stolen from a blacksmith shop at 634 French street, owned by Steele Finley, some time last night. The Santa Ana police department was today making an investigation.

An electric drill, worth $80; a cutting and welding torch, electric, worth $145; a set of three air gauges, worth $45, and 40 feet of extension cord, worth $5, were among the articles reported stolen.

Entrance into the place was made through a side window.

PRESTON WITH HORTON STORE IN RADIO WORK

Friends and business associates of Ralph P. Preston, 807 West Washington avenue, were congratulating him today upon the fact that he is now identified with the J. C. Horton Furniture store, North Main at Sixth street, where he is in the radio department, of which Lloyd Gowdy is head. Preston has had a wide experience in the business, for he maintained the Preston Radio shop at Third street and Broadway for three years, and prior to that had been in the furniture business at 311 East Fourth street, for 19 years.

Preston came to Santa Ana from his native state, Vermont, 22 years ago, entering immediately into the business life of the city. He stated today that while he had been a competitor of J. C. Horton, founder and manager of the furniture company of that name, for over a score of years, he always had found him so courteous and fairminded that it was a satisfaction to be associated with him now in the radio department of the Horton store.

His years in the furniture business will enable Preston to serve his patrons in any department of the store, but he expects to confine his activities largely to radio and refrigerator salesmanship.

NATIONAL PARK AREAS ATTRACT TOURIST HORDE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(INS)—The "See America First" movement is growing steadily despite the annual migration of hundreds of thousands of American citizens to Europe, Canada, Mexico and other foreign lands.

The impulse to visit the great scenic places of this country is disclosed in the report of the National Parks Service, showing that increased from 488,266 in 1917 to 3,248,264 in 1929.

Reports reaching officials here indicate that the summer of 1930 will see a new high record established in the national parks, with millions of others seeking vacation rests in privately controlled resorts.

The national park service of the country has been expanded until there are now 21 national parks, and 29 so-called national monuments, some of which may be converted into national parks. Three other parks are to be definitely listed among the government's show places within another year or two.

Yosemite national park in California, with its famous falls, is easily the most frequented of the parks. There were 461,257 visitors to this park in 1929. Yosemite's nearest rival is Rocky Mountain Park in Colorado, which attracted 274,408 visitors.

These parks, according to officials, attract the largest number of visitors in part because of their accessibility. The famous Yellowstone area in Montana and Wyoming consistently retains a high ranking.

During 1929, there were 260,697 visitors to Yellowstone. During the same year 217,783 sought out snow-caped Mount Rainer in the state of Washington, while 204,408 visited Platt park in southern Oklahoma, seeking the benefit of its mineral springs.

Among the other parks ranking high in visitors are: Hot Springs, Arkansas, 184,517; Grand Canyon, Arizona, 184,093; Crater Lake Park n Oregon, 128,435; WindCave park, 108,943, and Acadia park, Maine, 149,554.

Increased use of private automobiles for touring is shown to be the chief factor in the enlarged attendance. In 1924 315,915 private cars entered national parks, while the number increased to 689,925 in 1929.

Under a recent appropriation by Congress, road-building will be increased in all of the national park areas.

MINISTER SEES NEW FAMINE IN SOVIET RUSSIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—That the Soviet domain will experience another and more terrible famine, is the opinion of the Rev. Louis R. Patmont, recently returned to his pulpit in Santa Rosa, Calif., after serving several week's tour among the Soviets.

The Rev. Patmont's adventures in Soviet Russia finally landed him, penniless and hungry, on the Chinese border, whence he made his way to Shanghai.

Interviewed by a United Press special correspondent on board the steamer Siberia Maru en route from Shanghai to Seattle, the Rev. Patmont said:

"The Soviet, without a doubt, are heading for another famine, and here are the reasons: Collective farming with very few exceptions has proved a failure.

"Another drought is inevitable because of the sparing snowfall during the past winter. Because of this latter circumstance the Moscow government was unable to exploit its forests and therefore will be unable to adequately finance its vast industrial schemes, its bureaucracy and its red army. Because of the intimidation of the peasants and the adherents of religious faiths, private farming has been reduced to a minimum. A very large percentage of the population has been thrown into turmoil and confusion. The masses are disorganized.

Trip to Russia

"I was able to ascertain these facts after an extensive trip in Russia. It was a difficult matter to obtain the U. S. S. R. visa. In Berlin, Riga and Warsaw my applications for a permit to travel in the Soviet union were declined because of the fact that I filled out the questionnaires in the Russian language. I discovered that press agents who understood and speak Russian are classed as undesirables. When I reached Helsingfors, Finland, I decided to change my method of approach to the Soviet legation.

For some years past I have been interested in paleontology. Since finding some dinosaur bones in Mexico a year ago, I have been called upon to lecture on the subject. Fortunately I was in possession of a few letters of appreciation from schools and colleges. The photographs which I had with me, together with a few fossils and petrified reptile eggs which I had picked up in Latvia and Sweden, together with some other rather artificial material, sufficed to convince the Soviet consul at Helsingfors that I was interested in the science of paleontology. The application blank was filled out in German, I stated that I was interested in the Russian collections of prehistoric animals and that I wished to visit museums in Leningrad, Moscow and Siberia. I again paid my vise fee, telegram charges, etc. The much heralded check up system at Moscow evidently did not function. After waiting for three days a telegram arrived from the central executive committee granting me permission to visit Russia.

Ruse Effective

"When I arrived at the border station of Belo-Ostroff I was asked to leave the train. In the customs house hy baggage was searched. A 'G. P. U.' (political police officer) beckoned me into his office. He addressed me in the Russian language asking that I produce my papers, passport and money. Instead I brought in my baggage and looked puzzled. The ruse worked. The man evidently was convinced of my ignorance of the Russian language. He promptly addressed me in German. He carefully examined my letter and U. S. passport, then counted my money. I was given Rb. 1.94 per U. S. dollar. A subordinate was told to keep me under observation until reaching Leningrad. Because of my resemblance to another passenger I made the trip unmolested. The other man became the victim.

"On the Trans-Siberian trains I noticed I was forever being watched by G. P. U. spies; I experienced little difficulty in evading them.

"There was no marked difference of living conditions in many of the large cities I visited, namely, Swerlowsk, Perm, Tomsk, Krasnoyarsk, and Yeniseisk. People everywhere suffered under the oppression of bolshevik regime.

WINS TITLE BY DEFAULT

It was not in the eyes of the judges, but in the light of subsequent developments that Miss Margaret Ekdohl, pictured here, was chosen the new "Miss America" and winner of the International Beauty Pageant at Miami, Fla. Margaret was given only third honors when the original decisions were made, but now has captured the title through the disqualification of the first and second prize winners. The 18-year-old blonde from Tampa, however, still has a claim to being the "fairest of the fair," for her more comely competitors had been unfair in declaring their marital and residential status.

IT'S THE CLIMATE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—"It's the climate," is the reason why Mrs. Ruth Marguerita Smythe asked for a divorce. She said she liked California's sunshine, while her husband, Roy Samuel Victor Smythe, pined for the snows. He left her, she charged, and went to Ontario, Canada. She was granted a divorce.

TELLS AIMS OF PEACE MAKERS AT CONFERENCE

His talk follows, in part:

"Never before had a peace conference such a task before it, so many important questions to settle, world wide questions. Everybody was expecting much, too much. They expected everything to be done openly; great and small nations to be treated alike; in short, they expected that the 'world would be made safe for democracy.'

"There were too many difficulties in the way to allow all these highly desirable things to be accomplished. Let's notice some of these difficulties.

"1. A number of secret treaties had been made which have been explained and which the European representatives declared must be carried out even though they conflicted with Wilson's 'fourteen points' which had been accepted as the basis for settling things.

"2. Bitter hatreds and fear of Germany had only been increased by the war.

"3. The narrowly selfish aims of the European and Asiatic nations clashed with the unselfish and altruistic aims of the American nations.

"(a) France wanted revenge on Germany and guarantees of future safety as well as Alsace and Lorraine.

"(b) England wanted to destroy the German sea power but retain her own as well as destroy Germany industrial and commercial strength and rivalry.

"(c) Italy wanted to recover the peoples and territories along the Adriatic sea which Austria had held for more than a century

"(e) China wanted out from under the control of the foreigner.

"(f) Greece wanted more territory both in Asia Minor and in the Balkan peninsula at the expense of her neighbors.

"(g) Then the Poles, Czechs, Slovaks, Serbs, Roumanians, Hungarians, and other subject peoples were clamoring for freedom and independence.

"(h) Russia had turned Bolshevik and was as much an enemy of the allies as of Germany or more so.

"(i) International labor was there demanding certain provisions and rights.

"(j) Irish delegates demanded freedom from England.

"Many of these demands were just. But even just and righteous demands have little chance when they conflict with selfish and unjust demands if those deciding are the selfish and unjust fellows.

"The fact that the peace conference was so large made it difficult, in fact impossible to please all. You will remember there are 72 official delegates from 32 different nations. Paris had become a cosmopolitan city, the capital of the world, a great common melting pot for humanity.

"Many of the leaders thought the conference should be held in some neutral country. It was finally decided to hold it at Geneva, Switzerland. To this the French objected. The powerful French delebates, Clemenceau and Jules Cambon, wanted it held in France and there it was held. Why? These French delegates largely dominated the conference. Bitterness, hate, revenge, humiliation of Germany, punishment of the once proud victor over France, and the strengthening of France were constantly in their minds. Just 48 years before the Germans had badly defeated the French and compelled them to sign a very humiliating treaty and pay a large indemnity. This treaty, which exalted Germany and debased France, was signed in the Hall of Mirrors in the old palace of Louis XIV at Versailles. At the same time and place the German empire was established.

"Poetic justice now demanded that the humiliating treaty which Germany is to be compelled to sign should be made and signed at the same place.

"Most of the delegates arrived in Paris during December, 1918, but the first session was not held until January 18, 1919. That date was the 48th anniversary of the signing of the treaty between France and Germany just referred to. This session was held in the Hall of Mirrors in Versailles about eleven miles southwest of Paris. Thus you see the conference started off by stirring up old quarrels and memories and with the 'get even' spirit.

"A few of the Parisians and their European guests tried to revive the old days of 'gay Paris' and vie with the congress of Vienna 100 years before. But the people were too poor, the shadows of death and destruction were too close. Paris was crowded but not with the customary French and Europeans. Into Paris had been poured the survivals of institutions, of various civilizations, religions and peoples of the world. These were trying to make Paris one great democratic melting pot. No great public receptions and dances were given. Yet the theaters were filled, some private dances in private homes were given. One account tells of President Wilson, Lloyd George and Lord Balfour attending one dance and remaining till after 12 o'clock. The cost of lodging and food was excessive. Food privateers prospered. A law of France at that time provided that merchants should be paid by the government the full market price for all food that spoiled. Unscrupulous merchants took advantage of this by holding back great quantities of good food. This made the supply scarce and the price high. That held back would spoil and the government would pay for it at the excessive price. Rents went up 200 to 300 per cent.

"Yet, in spite of the fact that the 'big five' then the 'big four' and later still the 'big three' dominated the conference and would allow the small states and their delegates little or no voice in shaping the final terms, and in spite of the fact that the sessions were secret, the Paris peace conference was much more democratic than the congress of Vienna. The men who dominated and dictated what should be done did have in mind the people, the great masses, the poor man. They did not forget that they were the servants of the people not the masters, and that all must report back to the people at home and that their work must be approved by these same people. In general they made an honest effort to do justice to all under the existing conflicting conditions. All wanted to go as far as feasible toward ending destructive wars. But when it came to define this policy they divided into two groups. (1) Pacifists, they stood for the League of Nations and some world government to prevent future wars. They were forward looking. (2) The Militarists, they wanted safety through strong nationalism with strong national armies and navies. They were backward looking.

"At the first session on January 18, the delegates from Greece, Belgium and Poland delivered powerful speeches against the attitude of the 'big five' in denying the small states a voice in fixing the terms of the treaty. They were told once for all by Clemenceau, the Old Tiger of France, that the 'big five' had contributed the 12,000,000 soldiers to win the war, had paid the expenses and would be expected to enforce the treaty and preserve the future world order, therefore they had the right and would dictate the terms of peace.

"One writer (Dillon, P. 117) says, 'Never before was political veracity in Europe at so low an ebb as at the beginning of the peace conference. Four-and-one-half years deliberate lying for victory destroyed all good faith in the veracity of those shaping the world politics. All kinds of promises were made. All their acts were surrounded with the greatest of secrecy and the strictest censorship. This secrecy was carried over into the Peace Conference as well as the censorship. I can not say that the lying was but deception was Each delegate gave out to the press what it wanted published at home. In many cases these press reports were far from the actual truth.

"You may think and think rightly that much of what I have said tonight has little to do with international relations. Yet, indirectly it does. I have given you some of the sidelights of the peace conference, some of the conditions which always exist at the end of a war, conditions which make it impossible for any group of men to do what should be done. Any treaty and all the conditions which help to determine it has to do with international affairs."

ATWOOD

Mrs. E. P. Francis and son, Wilbur, and Mrs. Arthur Harms and son, Henry, are at Newport Beach for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Barbre and children were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Barbre, the dinner being given in honor of Mrs. Ruth Barbre, who is leaving soon for Kansas.

Mrs. Samuel Crooke, of Huntington Beach, spent Tuesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Levier. Her son, Sam jr., who is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital with several broken bones received when he fell from a tree last week, is getting along nicely and it is expected he will be taken home this week.

Miss Marguerite Thornton, of La Habra, and Miss Doris Jacobson, of Placentia, were Tuesday afternoon guests at the home of Miss Adelaide Barbre.

P.-T. A. LEADERS RETURN TO CITY

Two of the city's most active P.-T. A. workers, Mrs. Neal Beisel, 417 Cypress avenue, and Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, North Main street, have returned from the state board meeting of California Congress of Parent and Teachers, held in the Hotel Alexandria, Los Angeles. Mrs. Beisel was attending in her official capacity as state chairman of standard and superior associations, a newly created department, while Mrs. Robertson attended as the fourth district president.

An intensive planning of the work of the congress for the coming year consumed the time during the two-day session, and the two local delegates feel that much was accomplished toward systematizing the work. The next state board session will be held November 11 and 12 in San Francisco.

Veterans Are To Honor Phil Swing

Warwick camp, of Fullerton, and Calumpit camp, of Santa Ana, United Spanish War Veterans, are to tender Congressman Phil D. Swing a dinner at the Knights of Pythias hall at Anaheim tonight.

It is expected there will be quite a large attendance of the veterans and their families to show their appreciation of the efforts of Comrade Swing in their behalf during the recent pension bill legislation. Representatives of the press of Orange county will be guests of the veterans.

The income and receipts of the 1217 colleges and universities in the United States amount to over $500,000,000 annually.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Grandy motored to Pasadena, where they visited George Grandy, a cousin, who is a patient at a hospital following a recent operation. From Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Grandy went to Eagle Rock, where they were dinner guests of Mrs. Grandy's sister, Mrs. Clara McKee.

Miss Louise McKee, a niece, who is touring Europe with a party this summer, has been in Switzerland and attended the Passion play, while in Germany.

In September when the other members of the group, who are college students, returned to America, Miss McKee will go to England, where she will enter Oxford university for a special course.

Charles Baker, who has been spending a two weeks vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Baker, returned Wednesday to Jacumba, San Diego county. Over the week end Charles Baker entertained as his guest, a friend, Clyde Lilley, of Jacumba.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Finley and Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Finley and daughter motored to Los Angeles Wednesday evening and were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richards. Mrs. Richards is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Finley and their marriage was a recent event.

'MOCKING BIRD' WHISTLER WAS 'TREE SITTER'

MONTREAT, N. C., Aug. 15.—The "Oklahoma Mocking Bird," Miss Esther McRiser, has revealed herself as one of the early "tree-sitters," although her activities in that field were not aimed at an endurance record. Miss McRiser is spending the summer here.

"When I was a girl," said Miss McRiser, "I enjoyed nothing more than climbing up a tree in our back yard and staying there for hours. I would practice all my bird calls, and it was most amusing to see one of my pets go around looking for a cat when I would imitate a cat bird.

"But I used my time when a tree-setter not merely to practice whistling—and tantalizing my pets, but in studying my school books so I would know my lessons perfectly. So climbing a tree in early girlhood has enabled me to climb in scholarship, and in my career as a whistler.

"I am in favor of tree-setting, for reasonable periods, when boys and girls employ the time for preparation and improvement," the "Mocking Bird" declared.

Miss McRiser was graduated from the University of Oklahoma in 1922. For some time she represented the Southern Presbyterian Church as Field Secretary for Christian Education. In September, she will become Field Secretary of the Northern Presbyterian Board of National Missions.

SAYS AMERICA ADVANCING AS LEADER IN ART

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—America is surging to the fore with the development of fine arts which is destined to rival that of ancient Greece and Renaissance Italy, according to Professor Emerson H. Swift of the department of Fine Arts, Columbia University.

In America architecture, painting and the drama the first evidences of this country's ascendency in fine art are beginning to appear, said Professor Swift, who has just completed a survey of educational institutions, civic projects and agencies allied with are activities throughout the United States.

Increasing wealth, which is bringing leisure, travel and association with older cultures, is the mainspring of the new "American Renaissance," Prof. Swift said. Even the World war served to inspire several millions of Americans with an interest in the art of Europe, although the soldier saw France in an aspect which was "sordid and dispiriting enough at times."

The final impulse to the present movement in this country, Prof. Swift finds, is being supplied by the schools and colleges, which are providing widespread and constantly growing facilities for the general public.

"Up to the beginning of the present century, the fine arts in America concerned few of our people save a small group of foreign-trained artists and wealthy amateurs who, more by chance than inclination, had travelled or studied a genuine interest in some phase or period of what they felt to be a fascinating subject," Prof. Swift declared.

"The vast majority were still inclined to regard painting and sculpture as too exotic, too far removed from the affairs of daily life to warrant their giving them any particular thought or attention, while architecture was beneath their notice.

"The reason for this state of affairs is not far to seek. A background of almost three centures of rough pioneering, of feverish exploitation of the vast resources of a virgin continent, of an austere puritanical spirit which had frowned upon all artistic expresison as a snare of the devil—such a tradition, together with the inbred habits of thought which it engendered, had provided but barren soil for the growth of art.

"With the turn of the century, however, a change became manifest. Increasing wealth and leisure not only encouraged the habit of collecting works of art for private delights as well as public satisfaction, but also gave rise to a continually growing stream of travel which spread itself broadcast upon the continent of Europe."

WEST PROSPEROUS, SURVEY INDICATES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15—The west, and particularly the Pacific coast, is the most prosperous section of the United States today.

Out of 10 important cities in the mountain and Pacific coast states, with populations of 100,000 and over, seven show an annual average industrial wage higher than the average for the entire United States.

According to statistics just released by the business survey department of Dorrance, Sullivan & company, the average of the 10 cities is $1430 and for the 11 states is $1398, as compared with $1300, which is the United States average.

Los Angeles stands out from all the rest as the city with the highest average per worker. This city claims an average wage of $1498. Second is San Francisco with $1461 and then Oakland third with $1460.

Other cities in the group, according to their standings, are: Seattle, $1438; Tacoma, $1374; Denver, $1340; and Spokane, $1331.

With respect to the average output per worker, however, San Francisco outshines Los Angeles, having an average of $10,250 as compared with $9160 in Los Angeles. Oakland has an output of $10,000.

The average annual output per worker by states is: Wyoming, $15,300; Montana, $14,260; Arizona, $13,100; Utah, $12,020; Nevada, $11,000; California, $9860; Colorado, $8700; Washington, $6490; Idaho, $6380; Oregon, $5590, and New Mexico, $4330.

Industrially, San Francisco heads the list. The percentage of population industrially employed in the 10 cities in the Pacific coast and mountain states, according to their standings, are: San Francisco, 7.5; Los Angeles and Portland, 7.2; Oakland, 6.3; Denver, 5.4; Spokane, 5.2; Seattle, 5; San Diego, 3.7; and Salt Lake, 3.6.

7 COMMITTEES APPOINTED AT P.T. A. MEET

BUENA PARK, Aug. 15.—The interest and enthusiasm shown by the executive board of the Grand Avenue P.-T. A. at the first meeting of the year indicates that this will be one of the most successful years in the history of the organization.

The president, Mrs. F. M. Ensign, announced that the program for the year's work had been outlined, and appointed the following chairmen for the various committees: Program, Mrs. V. L. Orahood; membership, Mrs. C. R. Allin; hospitality, Mrs. Fred Bastady; reception, Mrs. J. H. Page; budget and ways and means, Mrs. L. J. Robeson; publicity, Mrs. Eleanore Jones, and music, Mrs. Rayburn. The grade mothers, who will be appointed when school starts, will also assist in plans for a membership drive.

Plans were discussed for a reception for the teachers to be held in connection with the first P.-T. A. meeting, September 25.

Community singing will be an important feature of the assembly meetings and 50 new P.-T. A. song books were ordered.

The P.-T. A. was also asked to provide new velour curtains for the windows in the auditorium, as one of the projects for the year.

Members present at the meeting were the president, Mrs. F. M. Ensign; first vice president, Mrs. E. A. Kinney; secretary, Mrs. L. A. Sopha; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Leutje; parliamentarian, Arthur F. Corey; auditor, Mrs. A. M. Blaylock, and committee chairmen, Mrs. Fred Bastady Mrs. V. L. Orahood and Mrs. C. R. Allin.

WESTMINSTER

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Baker attended Thursday the Builders exchange picnic at Irvine park, where a 6 o'clock barbecue was a feature of the evening's entertainment.

Visitors Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Addie L. Blakey included the Rev. and Mrs. T. P. Turner and son, Tom Turner, and the Rev. Mr. Turner's father, of Talbert; Mrs. Wm. Prichard and daughter, Miss Marguerite Prichard, of Stanton, and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Grandy.

Friends of Anson Burlingame, for many years a resident of Westminster, will be sorry to learn that he is experiencing very poor health. Mr. Burlingame resides at Hieldsburg.

Mrs. Winifred Morris, of this place, with Mrs. McAdams and Mrs. Osbourn, of Huntington Beach, and Mrs. Walker of Santa Ana, attended a bridge luncheon, Thursday at the Long Beach home of Mrs. H. L. Rivers, who entertained Mrs. Watson, a former Huntington Beach resident, who has returned after a six years' absence. Other guests at the luncheon were of Long Beach.

The DeBuque service station on Westminster avenue, Westminster, was broken into Wednesday night and robbed of $35 in cash and the slot machine was also taken by the robbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Edwards entertained as hosts on Monday evening when they had as guests at dinner, Mrs. Edward's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller and their two children, of Santa Ana.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Edwards and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hemstreet and two sons joined a picnic party of relatives on the sands at Newport Beach, where 20 enjoyed the evening with the honor guests of the occasion, Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Stevens and two children, who are on vacation here from Cammora, Ill. Dr. Stevens is an uncle of Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Hemstreet.

Doctor Needed Players Collide Players Crash

BUENA PARK, Aug. 15.—Howard Drake and Hugh Butler were eager to win the ball game in which they were playing with a group of boys on Highland avenue and when a foul ball came their way, they rushed after it with such force, that when they emerged from the crash which followed, they had battled scarred faces. Howard had a broken nose and a deep gash on the side of his face, which required nine stitches to close, and Hugh had a laceration over his eye, which took one stitch. They were both treated at the office of a local physician.

SAN CLEMENTE CITY ENGINEER FIRST CITIZEN

SAN CLEMENTE, Aug. 15. — City Engineer Ayer celebrates his fifth year in San Clemente August 18. Ayer was the first man to take up residence here. When he arrived cattle still were grazing on the land.

When Ole Hanson planned San Clemente in 1925 Horace H. Taylor, Los Angeles, was appointed engineer. Ayer was sent to the coast land south of San Juan Capistrano mission to take charge of the work in laying out the city along lines that Hanson had worked out. He set up his tent, gathered three assistants, chased out the cattle and began making a survey. And today Ayer is still carrying on his work.

On December 6, 1925, Ole Hanson and his sales force opened San Clemente for sale. Ayer had one unit of the city ready and was working on the others. A record sale was made the first day and San Clemente became a reality.

BREA

BREA, Aug. 15.—Commander James Leach, Mrs. Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yarbrough and Mrs. Isaac Craig are leaving tomorrow for Sacramento where they will represent the Brea post and auxiliary at the annual three-day state convention of Legionnaires and auxiliary members opening there Monday.

In the absence of the president of the auxiliary, Mrs. Josephine O'Melveny, Mrs. Isaac Craig, first vice president, is acting president.

Communications from Mrs. Rosalie Williams to friends here indicate that she is enjoying her visit in Oklahoma. She is now at Earlsboro in that state and states that she is seeing some of her relatives for the first time in 30 years.

Fred Gale returned yesterday from his annual deer hunt, for the first time having failed to bag any game. With friends from Los Angeles he hunted in the vicinity of Fillmore.

Mrs. Clara Miller left this week for her home in Terre Haute, Ind., Sopping en route in Colorado and other points north. She has been visiting for some weeks with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. McClure of West Cedar street.

Mrs. Sarah Schlick, sister of Mrs. George Beer, is reported improving at her home in Bellflower, though still unable to leave her room. Mrs. Schlick has many friends here.

Mrs. Mary Edmundson of Huntington Beach was in Brea this week and enjoyed seeing her many friends here.

Delegations from Wide Awake Rebekah lodge, Long Beach, and from Del Mar Rebekah lodge, San Pedro, visited Trinity Rebekah lodge at its regular meeting this week and following the business session made merry by initiating all members of the order present ino the "Owls," a fun degree of the fraternity.

Besides the visitors from the beach cities a number were present from Lois Rebekah lodge, Anaheim, while district deputy president, Mrs. Fannie Louella Barker and Mr. Barker, of Ruby lodge, Orange, also enjoyed the meeting.

Jay Mathews, civil service commission clerk for this district, will conduct an examination at the Brea-Olinda union high school on Monday morning for clerks and carriers. The purpose of the examination is to establish an eligible list for Brea in both these capacities, there being no such list at the present time from which to draw for even temporary assistance.

Dr. H. R. Arends has sold his dental practice here to Dr. Holland, recently of Superior, Neb., and will locate in San Bernardino where he has already moved his office equipment. Dr. and Mrs. Holland have already taken up their residence in Brea.

Dr. Arends came to Brea three years ago from Long Beach, in which city he had been associated with his father in his profession. He was married on Wednesday of this week to Miss Maxine Sykes of Beverly Hills. They will reside in San Bernardino.

Mr. and Mrs. George Friend have purchased a cottage in the Surf colony near Anaheim Landing and together with their friends are enjoying the pleasures of a home at the beach for their week ends.

Miss Fitzgerald has been attending summer school in Los Angeles and will leave soon for New Mexico where she will resume her teaching in the high school at Ratoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Fletcher of Boston are visiting in California and have been spending much of their time with Mr. Fletcher's sister, Mrs. Ellen Croteau and family.

NEW STREETS TO LIDO ISLE BRIDGE READY

NEWPORT-BALBOA, Aug. 15.—The new streets have been paved on the mainland portion of the Lido isle properties. In other words the paving is completed on the roads which will connect Newport boulevard, at the entrance from the north into the city, with the new bridge.

The bridge itself was completed some time ago, and as soon as the approaches on both sides are finished, which will require about another month, according to City Engineer R. L. Patterson, it will be possible to travel from the boulevard to the Lido isle clubhouse on nwe paved highways.

While the Griffith company, general contractor for the huge $1,170,000 improvement contract, is building the approaches to the bridge, it is also paving the new streets on the island itself, as well as finishing up the phone, light, water and gas connections.

In about two weeks dredging will begin in the channel under the new bridge, which will enable boats to travel all the way around the island. The dredging contract has been awarded to Sparkes and McClellan.

In about two weeks dredging will begin in the channel under the new bridge, which will enable boats to travel all thew ay around the island. The dredging contract has been awarded to Sparkes and McClellan.

A new house for an Ontario man is now being built on Lido Isle. Many lots have been sold to people in the Ontario district, it was learned today. Hollywood actors and others of the film capital have also been prominent among Lido isle property purchasers.

ANAHEIM

ANAHEIM, Aug. 15.—When V. W. Hannum, superintendent of the power and water department of the city of Anaheim, made his monthly report to the city council this week he had made his 156th report as head of that department, having been made superintendent in 1918. He was first employed by the city in 1912.

Nicaragua is planning to establish a permanent agricultural school to conduct a country-wide soil survey, instructing the natives in the use of modern implements and in cattle breeding.

Phone Gain Recorded At Newport

NEWPORT-BALBOA, Aug. 15.—There are more telephones here than ever before, it was revealed today by Mrs. Edna Anderson, local manager of the telephone company.

The number of phones for the first time in the history of the Newport Beach exchange has gone over the 1000 mark, the number now standing at 1019, as compared with 818 a year ago. This is an increase of nearly 25 per cent.

When Mrs. Anderson came here in 1919 there were only 197 phones in the harbor district. The number has grown each year, but this year the increase in phones, as in most other ways, has been the greatest of all.

SUNDAY SCHOOL OF MESA TO CONVENE

COSTA MESA, Aug. 15.—The teachers of the primary department of the Costa Mesa Sunday school announce that all children of primary age, as well as the juniors, are invited to return to Sunday school this Sunday as class work will be resumed following a month's vacation on account of the infantile paralysis epidemic.

Mrs. William Kesel and daughters, Thelma and Wilma, and Mrs. Charles Kesel and daughter, Jeanette, and son, Kenneth, returned this week from a week's vacation spent at Trabuco canyon. William and Charles Kesel spent the weekend with their families.

Usual Cool Breezes For Harbor Area

NEWPORT-BALBOA, Aug. 15.—While there may be unusual heat waves and dry waves in parts of the country, the Newport harbor district is enjoying its usual cooler summer.

According to Fire Chief F. W. Crocker, who is also chief weather observer here, the highest temperature recorded this month was on the first, 80:5 degrees and the lowest point reached was on the fifth, 60.

Going back over the records of the past eight years, Crocker found that the mean maximum for that period is 70.5, and the mean minimum 50.7. The highest point recorded in the eight years was 93, and the lowest 34.5.

The first half of August this year has been cooler even than usual for this season.

LOS ALAMITOS

Mrs. A. E. Campbell of Green street, is convalescing at the home of her sister in Long Beach after a serious operation at the Community hospital.

The officers of the Sunday school of the Community church held a pot luck supper at the church Tuesday evening.

On Saturday evening, August 23, there will be a box social in the Howard street clubhouse of the Willing Workers. The public is invited. Each woman attending is asked to bring a box lunch. There will be a prize for the most attractive box and the boxes will be auctioned with 75 cents as the highest bid allowed. A program has been planned by Mrs. F. R. Gillis, chairman of arrangements. Coffee will be served by the club.

Mrs. O. S. Taylor was the honoree at a surprise stork shower Tuesday afternoon given her by members of the Willing Workers' club. Several clever contests had been arranged by the hostess, Mrs. B. F. Heath, assisted by Mrs. J. B. Rose. Those scoring high in the contests were Mrs. E. D. Proffer, Mrs. John Ford and Mrs. Steve Green. Consolation prizes went to Mrs. Felton Doss and Mrs. Roy Cormier. Mrs. Earl Barker was the winner in the drawing for the door prize. Refreshments in keeping with the spirit of the occasion were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gillespie and daughter Mary, moved this week to Preston, Ida.

C. A. Wakefield will leave for Yosemite next week to bring home Mrs. Wakefield and the children, who have been there for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Casey motored this week to San Diego where Mr. Casey joined his ship, the U.S.S. Saratoga, for the trip north.

TOMATO PLANT PACKING OVER 60 TONS DAILY

BUENA PARK, Aug. 15.—The Uddo Taormina corporation's tomato cannery in Buena Park is running at full capacity and handling from 60 to 75 tons of tomatoes a day, and from present indications the plant will double the production of last year, which was estimated at $300,000. Forty-five tons per day was the maximum capacity last year.

Tomotatoes are shipped here from as far south as San Diego and north into the San Fernando valley and during the past week more have been brought in than could be used here and are being shipped to the Arlington plant owned and operated by the same company.

The concern was established in 1922 as the New Central cannery and later enlarged and became known as the LaSierra Heights Canning company. On February of this year the industry was absorbed by the Uddo Taormina corporation, which operates a chain of industries extending from coast to coast. Extensive improvements were made in the plant during the year and $15,000 worth of machinery was installed, which included an automatic cooker, labelling machine and an additional steam boiler and other new labor saving devices.

The tomatoes are dumped into the wash rack and taken on a belt past the operators who sort and trim them, and are then carried by machinery to the grinding machines, pumped into the cooking vats, and then into the containers from which the cans are automatically filled, the lids are soldered on, and the cans run on conveyers to the automatic cooker where they are to remain for a short time and then on conveyors to the labeling machine and into packing boxes.

Over 70,000 cans of tomato sauce are produced every day and shipped to all parts of the globe. It is estimated that 10 carloads of cans will be used for the season's run. The season usually extends from June to December.

Twenty employes are on the payroll, which is estimated at $550 a week.

TRIP TO ALASKA DESCRIBED FOR ORANGE GROUP

ORANGE, Aug. 15.—Scenes taken in Alaska by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Crist were shown at a meeting of the Worth While class of the First Christian church recently at the Crist home, when about 20 members of the class shared the pleasant occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Crist related the story of their travels by the inland route from Seattle to Alaska. They then made a leisurely trip up the Yukon river which took 12 days on a river boat. The boat was propelled by a huge wheel in the back, and resembled the old boats which once traveled the Mississippi river, Mrs. Crist told class members.

Wood was burned in heating the boilers and one cord of wood an hour was required to get up the required amount of steam ,the travelers said. About five or six miles an hour was made on the upward journey and a speed twice as great was made in coming down with the current.

When stops were made to load fuel, mosquitoes made life on the boat unbearable, Mrs. Crist said. For several days the travelers were entirely out of touch with the out side world, but at Fort Yukon, found radio communication established through the government station.

Phonographs in the home were more popular than radios, Mrs. Crist said, and in an Eskimo village visited, she said there were up-to-date homes built of logs with radios and many modern appliances.

Hydraulic mining was observed by the travelers and at Fairbanks the agricultural college was visited. The ground in the northern country is frozen within three feet of the surface the greater part of the year. Small grains and small berries are raised successfully, Mrs. Crist said. Sunshine 24 hours a day in the summer causes rapid growth.

When in mosquito-infested countries the travelers wore hats similar to those worn by bee men, netting covering the hats and being tied under the chins of the wearers.

PLAY GIVEN AT TEA OF ORANGE CHURCH GROUP

ORANGE, Aug. 15.—A play which was cleverly directed and presented was the principal feature on a program presented at a missionary tea which was given yesterday afternoon at the Presbyterian church. The new 510,000 organ recently installed in the church was used for the first time, when the program was opened with two solos played by Mrs. Raymond Warren.

The play, "The Missionary Barrel." was given by a group of girls and was directed by Miss Marcella Turner. The first scene showed the packing of the missionary barrel by members of a service class and the cast included Miss Turner, Miss Pauline Snodgrass, Miss Louise Dews, Miss Duloie Green, Miss Julia Herrington, Miss Helen Estook, Miss Caryl Harper and Miss Elizabeth Gill.

Those taking part in the next scene which revealed the unpacking of the barrel by the missionary's family were Mrs. Edith Culter, Mrs. H. E. Harner, Miss Anna Huscroft, Mrs. Helen Talbot and Junior and Bobbie Harner.

A piano solo was played by Virginia Wells and two solos were sung by Bobbie Harner, who was accompanied by his mother at the piano. Mrs. F. E. Harrison presided at the meeting.

The society is divided in groups representing the days, weeks and months of the year and women representing the days and weeks of Auguest were hostesses at the tea which followed the program. Assisting at the tea service were the Misses Nancy Herrington, Doris Asher, Caryl Harper and Faith McElfresh.

Decorations for the church parlors included summer scenes and lively baskets of flowers in vivid hues.

O-O-O-H! What marvelous things I can do!

"Tickletoes" is the one and only doll in America that can do all those wonderful things that make her truly "almost human." To see her is to fall in love with her.

Come and See Me On Display

At the Register Office

Not only a sleeping doll—she has arms and legs of soft life-like rubber that is washable—has three different voices—rolls her eyes—sucks her thumb—enjoys a pacifier—and wears cute removable clothes.

I am the cutest, happiest baby doll ever created. You will love me!

"Tickletoes" Is the Wonder Doll of the Age

"TICKLETOES" is the only doll in the world with soft, life-like rubber legs and rubber arms, and those marvelous rolling-sleeping-winking eyes. Squeeze either leg and hear this baby cry, or turn her over and she cries.

She is the cutest and happiest of all baby dolls, for she can clasp her hands, turn her head, suck her thumb, enjoy her pacifier. She is elegantly dressed in baby clothes and wears stockings, moccasins and real rubber panties.

Just picture the joy of the children proudly "mothering" cute little "Tickletoes." Even grown-ups like to play with this "almost-human" doll.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Babe Ruth says he will break his home run record this year . . . The longest drive he ever made, says Babe, was one he smacked in Tampa, Fla., in an exhibition game with th Giants . . . Babe was a member of the Red Sox at the time . . . The ball traveled 565 feet . . . One time in Detroit he lifted one over the right field wall and it rolled down the street . . . a boy on a bicycle chased it three blocks . . . In Chicago a couple of years ago, the Yanks had a train to catch . . . and the game dragged on through extra innings . . . the train was to be held 15 minutes and the athletes were just starting the 16th inning when Ruth told Hug, "Here goes your old ball game, and we'll just make that train." . . . He smacked the first pitch over the top of the right field bleachers.

MAYBE IT'S THE HEAT, BUT I THINK THAT—

It won't be long now before Primo Carnera is knocked for several goals, because enterprises purely entertaining aren't drawing very well, and the Big Alp will soon have to fight somebody good.

The Giants are going to be in first place on or before Sept. 15—or in second place a game and a half behind the Cubs or Robins—or in third place a game or so behind both the Cubs and Robins—but I do not think they will finish the season in last place.

With three more pounds behind his punches, Kid Chocolate would have beaten Kid Berg badly in their recent quarrel which some called a draw, which some gave to Chocolate and some gave to Berg.

Notre Dame will defeat Southern California Dec. 6 at Los Angeles.

LUMBER IS BIG HELP

Clarence Blair has fielded better at second base for the Cubs than Rogers Hornsby ever fielded in his palmiest days. But the absence of Hornsby's bat will cost the Cubs a pennant this year.

Bill Terry and Lou Gehrig are playing great games at first base for their respective New York teams, but before long their laurels will be threatened by a young fellow named Eddie Morgan who plays for Cleveland. Even though Bill Terry is one of the greatest first basemen that ever played.

Lew Fonseca, who led the American league in batting last year, and whose injury this season gave Morgan the chance to prove his greatness, may be the big shot in a trade the Indians are said to have in mind—with a team that has a good left-handed pitcher.

Harry Rice, traded to the Yankees in the deal for Hoyt, seems to have settled down since leaving wild and wooley Detroit for sedate Manhattan. There is nothing final about that, however, as Harry knows all sorts of ways of becoming unhitched.

THIS SHIFT BUSINESS

Football umpires will not be bothered a great deal by the change inthe shift rule requiring players to stop a full second between moves. And they will not be forever looking at stop-watches either.

Barry Wood is going to be one of the greatest football players in the east this year besides Albie Booth. And Carideo of Notre Dame will be All-American quarterback once more.

Wesley Ferrell of Cleveland, pitching his second year in the major leagues, will lead all the pitchers in both leagues when the totals are added up the last of September.

Bill Walker will stand the Athletics on their ears in the first game of the world series in New York. But Bill may not get a

SUBSTITUTE IS OUTPOINTED BY FULLERTON BOY

Substituting for Johnny DeCorsey, who claimed an injured hand, Jack (Kid) Allen, Cuban welterweight champion, lost seven out of 10 rounds and Referee Bob White's decision to Indian Jimmie Rivers at the Orange County Athletic club, last night.

It was a nice "homecoming" for the Fullerton fighter who has been here, there and everywhere since his last appearance at Promoter Henry T. Foust's Delhi shanty. Allen was a pretty much helpless champion in the wise hands of the cagey Indian and for a fellow who defeated "Wild Man" Macias, did not make much of a showing.

Allen had a good excuse, however. He accepted the hot spot on less than six hours notice. DeCorsey notifying Promoter Foust 1 p. m. yesterday that he would be unable to appear. DeCorsey said he hurt his hand punching a bag that morning. He did not explain what he was doing in the gymnasium the day of a scheduled bout. Most fighters loaf for two days preceding an engagement.

Rivers Boxes Well

Jack managed to get White's points in the fourth, sixth and eighth, with Rivers taking all the rest, but Allen's advantage in his "big rounds" was little better than a shade.

Rivers kept boring into Allen in the ninth and tenth, staying on top of the Cuban, and was far ahead at the finish.

It wasn't a very good finish to a mediocre card, but the Delhi business office wasn't to blame. Foust had lots of tough luck with his program. Originally he had booked Urban Hernandez with Jimmy Fox, an attractive offering, but Hernandez was scratched because of a skin ailment. Then DeCorsey had to be pulled at the last minute.

Smith Defeats Ortega

Although he tired rapidly in the last round and might not have been around at the end of another round, Don Smith decisively outpointed Sal (Battling) Ortega in the six-round semi-final. In condition, Smith looked capable of stopping Ortega. He is a beautiful boxer and a stiff puncher. Ortega tried hard but that was about all. His barrage of wild swings was mostly wild.

Jack Gilmore won a decision over Eddie O'Day in a boresome special event. They clinched—clinched—clinched and the fans booed, hooted and jeered.

Art Molino scored a technical knockout over the ancient colored featherweight, Willie Pitcher. Pitcher was just a catcher, and caught so many in the "tummy" that his second pitched in the towel during the fifth inning.

NEW ADDITION TO TOM THUMB OPEN SATURDAY

Using the 55-year-old palm and pepper trees on the old McFadden place at South Main and McFadden streets for a natural setting, W. H. Dixon will open the first 36-hole miniature golf course in Orange county tomorrow night.

The new course adjoins the Tom Thumb golf course, which was the third miniature links installed in the county. Dixon will be enabled to offer the golfers of Orange county their preference of cottonseed or felt green. This is said to be the only course in Southern California with such diversity.

A remarkable transformation has been brought about in the last nine days. The stately trees and a large 55-year-old brick fountain are the only things left between the holes of the new sporty golf course. All kinds of new hazards have been built, including many water traps, steep bunks and rustic fences. A large enclosed water fountain of colored rock also has been installed.

The program for the opening night is expected to draw a large crowd. Four mayors, Frank Purinton of Santa Ana, W. E. Clement of Orange, Marcus Johnson of Newport Beach and L. E. Miller of Anaheim, will play the first round while presidents and representatives of Business and Professional Women's clubs of Orange county will also play. The Orange county Valencia orchestra will provide music and Lyle Anderson will be announcer over a Williams and Klentz loud speaker system.

The same type of felt is being used that Mary Pickford is installing on her private course. One hole on the Dixon course measures 140 feet.

Dixon has been instrumental in building over 20 courses in Southern California. His construction superintendent, Lawrence Brody, had charge of the newest and best course here and designed the plans. Between 30 and 38 men have been working night and day for nine days to complete the job.

SOUTH GATE, Aug. 15.—Jack McVey, colored middleweight, who will fight Ace Hudkins this month, was an easy victory in his eight-round bout here last night with Young Terry. Terry went down in the third round for a six count and was punished in the other rounds.

WESTMINSTER DEFEATS GROVE FOR 'B' TITLE

Westminster looked for more night baseball worlds to conquer today, happy in the knowledge that its long season in the Orange County "B" league was over and that it was the champion team of that confederacy, having scored its second straight victory over Garden Grove at Westminster last night, 17 to 9.

The Aviators temporarily disbanded today, six of the team leaving on vacations, but they will be back in harness in a couple of weeks and ready for the series with Ontario, champion of the American league's junior circuit, which league President George Peterkin hopes to arrange.

Westminster won the third and deciding match of the Garden Grove play by hammering three Pepper pitchers, Abbott, Hodgeson and Edwards, for 17 hits, including home runs with the bases full by Bill Gardner and Boyd Davis. Gardner blasted two homers during the slaughter while Starkey and Clemmons both got one each.

Russell Muir, Garden Grove's ace gunner, did not pitch on account of "overwork." He hurled a game in Long Beach the night before and was too exhausted to take his turn in the finale with Westminster.

OCEAN FISHING IS RADIO MAN'S TOPIC

Four radio talks of interest to all Orange county sportsmen who like ocean fishing will be given by Captain Winch, an authority, between now and Wednesday.

Captain Winch will discuss the so-called fishing license evil, grunion and other interesting topics. He will talk over KNX at 6 p. m. today, over KMTR Monday at 2:45 p. m. and over KHJ Tuesday at 5:15 p. m. and Wednesday at 9 p. m.

Carnera And Sharkey Tilt Sure, Belief

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Primo Carnera and Jack Sharkey will meet in a ten-round bout in Chicago on or about Sept. 29, it was announced by Mique Malloy, Windy City promoter, before he left for the west late yesterday.

Bill Duffy, of Carnera's "board of control," and Johnny Buckley and Jack Conway, Sharkey's managers, Malloy said, have verbally agreed to terms and expressed willingness to sign the official papers in a few days.

It was understood Sharkey will receive $100,000 with the privilege of 30 per cent of the gate and the Italian will get no guarantee but 25 per cent of the receipts.

The fight will be held either at Soldiers' field or one of the baseball parks.

INDOOR GOLF LINKS TO BE BUILT HERE

Santa Ana's first indoor golf course will be opened late this month in the O. A. Haley building, Bush and Fifth streets, with R. A. Stubbs and H. A. Froehlich as proprietors and managers.

The newest playground for the city's "bantam links" devotees will be an 18-hole affair, with many new and interesting features.

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

The baseball player has invented a simple little stunt to relieve himself of the tension he is under when he stands at the plate facing the pitcher. It is so simple that I'm drawing on it to illustrate a way to overcome tension in golf.

You've seen the pitcher stand on the mound, ball in hand and already to pitch. Instead, he waits and looks at the batter, nervously swinging his bat.

You also have seen the batter walk out of the box if the pitcher delays too long. He'll dust his hands, adjust his cap or hitch up his pants and then step back to the plate. Why?

He does it to relieve the tension. The pitcher is delaying the throw intentionally, knowing the batter is tensed and eager. The batter's little stunt forestalls him. He's literally turning his own guns on him.

Golfers get that way at the tee, particularly at the first or 10th where a crowd stands close by. To overcome that tension, my advice is to step back from the ball, "out of the box," as it were, take a practice swing and then get back and hit the ball before you've time to get nervous again.

Standing still encourages tension. Moving breaks it.

TOMORROW: Imitate the Stars.

Thursday—Pacific Telephone vs. Peek's Market.

You had to say mister to the Orange County Builders' exchange baseball men today. They were undisputed champions of the first half of the Santa Ana City league, if you please.

They got that way in the Bowl last night when in one of the wildest and most exciting games ever played here they defeated the Dennis Printers, 13 to 12, in a 10-inning struggle that was supposed to go only seven.

This was the second of a two-out-of-three game playoff between two clubs that tied for first place in the first half of a split season. The Builders won the first start last week, 12-3, so their second victory automatically catapulted them into the final titular series with the club that finally captures the second half pennant. Four terms are tied for the lead now and the race has only four more weeks to operate.

Both teams launched savage offensives in the first three innings. First up, the Printers scored two in the first, four in the second and four more in the third before Ray Grisot got his bearings and began to pitch ball. The Builders made six in the first and another in the third at the end of which they were behind, 10-7. They tied the score with a three-run attack on Bill Humphrey in the sixth, matched run for run with the Printers in the seventh, and did it again in the tenth plus the mighty tally that meant the ball game.

Doubles by Vance and Nickey and a single by Echols broke up the lengthy argument, after singles by Dorman and Humphrey, with a couple of infield outs sandwiched between, apparently had won it for the Printers.

The earlier half of the doubleheader resulted in an easy victory for the Eastern Oil company, 7-1, over Peek's market. "Bomo" Koral pitched the Butchers into submission and knocked in four of his team's runs.

Gallery Held To Blame As Tilden Quits

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I.N.S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—William T. Tilden, 2nd., at once the greatest figure and the stormiest that American lawn tennis has known, will not be among those present when the Eastern grass court championships in singles are resumed at Rye this afternoon. It is unlikely that he plans ever again to be in that championship or even in that vicinity, although admittedly these overnight impulses are subject to change in the mellowing light of a new day.

Tilden probably was mellow today like a full grown cactus. He had been hooted off the courts by an imbecile gallery in the midst of a match he had been losing to Cliff Sutter at 1-6 and 0-4 in sets and 0-15 in points and no darker indictment has been leveled against American sportsmanship. There is never any possible extenuation for bad manners.

The blame, therefore, rests solely with the gallery. In a strictly negative sense, however, the fault is Tilden's. He should have ceased to play lawn tennis at such time as he found himself unable to play lawn tennis with characteristic results, which was about three years ago. Instead, he has continued to go through the empty gestures of a pantomime, unloved by many, and, apparently to the eyes of some, unlovely.

Tilden was never an appealing figure to the galleries. But when he was beating the world, he didn't need their admiration. He merely got the only thing that is really important to human kind, respect. It would seem, judging by yesterday's demonstration, that he no longer commands that attribute.

If he had retired from tennis when the spark of genius was definitely dead, he would have left a memory of the Tilden who was great. Many now will recall him only the Tilden who was old and futile and inept. He no longer is

NEED VICTORY TO CINCH FLAG FOR LAST HALF

What was to have been just a skylark for the young men of Santa Ana will be another of those terribly important contests when the Stars go to Long Beach tonight for their thirty-sixth and last regularly ordained game of the 1930 National Night league schedule.

It is a cruel prank of fate that has carried this fighting team to the last day of a four-month season without definite assurance of success, but baseball is "war" and with all allied against them the Stars can expect no quarter until the last man is out in the ninth inning.

Indeed, the word is out that Messrs. Milton Fish and Joe Bell, who compose the Long Beach "board of strategy" and have little in common with Santa Ana anyway, intend to make a grim bid for the pristine glory that only last year they knew so well.

Bad Year For Acorns

At this time in 1929, the Long Beach Acorns were just whipping Santa Ana for the championship and preparing for the Southern California playoffs. Statisticians remember that Long Beach lost the title to Riverside after winning the first two of a five-game series, muffing the championship when it was right in its hands. The Acorns never have been the same since. They were barely able to finish in the first division this year, hardly a worthy showing for a front flight combination.

Past or present records will mean nothing when the old rivals lineup at Recreation park, located just off East Ninth street, the "new road" into Long Beach. The Stars can't win by the simple expedient of pointing to their per-important, in spite of his gallant victory at Wimbledon this year at the age of 38. So human nature, which doubtless wished to pay at his heels but lacked the temerity, now does so, openly and unafraid.

Tilden himself arranged this situation by letting the public see a side of him that age had made vulnerable. Human nature never was known to be merciful with vulnerability.

Tilden, of course, has clung to the quasi-prominence of his fading glory for reasons of his own. These represent a question that had to be decided between the man himself and his innate taste just as his action yesterday in walking off the court and forfeiting to Sutter was a matter of personal judgment. If it wasn't justified—and there is hardly a precedent to justify it in all the history of sport—Tilden doubtless is prepared to accept the consequences.

For instance, Mister Tunney, an aloof spectator, condemned the procedure in measured tones. He intimated that a prize fighter who would quit under public abuse would be regarded as unworthy of the best traditions or something. I think I may be of come slight aid to Mister Tunney here by stating that the prize fighter who walked out on his fight and his purse would be a lunatic. He is a paid performer and, therefore, open to random heckling. Tilden is not.

So, in the last analysis, the gallary hadn't a leg under it when the incident was over. After all, the law says that Mr. Tilden is entitled to be an indifferent tennis player if he wants to be.

CULVER CITY, Aug. 15.—Joe Bitto, who lost a decision to Tom Moore last year, evened the score last night when he was awarded a technical knockout in the fourth round of their main event fight. Moore received a cut over the left eye and the referee stopped the fight.

SANTA ANA IN CRUCIAL GAME AT LONG BEACH

centage, so they will have to go out and get their basehits as usual, and it promises to be a fairly tough game at that.

Manager Herb Salveson thinks enough of Long Beach that he will employ his "regular" lineup, the same that waded through La Habra and Whittier within the past ten days and cinched, at the very worst, a tie for the second semester streamer.

Cornelius To Pitch

Joe Cornelius, the Stars' ace heaver who seems to go better the more he works, will be on the protuberance as usual. His ball-and-strike partner will be "Eeny" Wilcox, and this pair will be on the trail of their twentieth triumph. If they get it you can start sending in your orders for the Santa Ana-Whittier series, because it will be all over except the playoffs.

Cornelius, supporting cast, always pretty efficient, will find the large but agile Bill Cole, hero of the Whittier game, on first base; the hard-hitting, swift, daring Leavitt Daley, the team's leading bateman, at second; sure, steady Bill Hunter on third, and the colorful, hustling little sparkplug, "Memphy" Hill at shortstop. In the outfield will be the league's greatest trio of flyhawks,—Randolph Bell, Wayne Nelson and "Rosy" Merrill,—all experienced, nonchalant fellows, equally able on offense as defense.

Long Beach has two pitchers groomed for this important assignment. The Stars have never faced either. It is Deene Downer's turn to work but the Acorns are said to be planning on sending to the ridge Walt Sheek, another newcomer to their staff. Downer is a fast-ball gunner who usually starts like a house afire but runs into trouble about the sixth inning. Sheek is a change-of-pace pitcher. He has done well of late, few of his opponents hitting the ball hard.

Maness Hard Hitter

Odie Maness, one of the finest hitters in the league, will do the Acorn backstopping. Maness has hit a home run against almost every pitcher inthe league. The Stars will have to look out for him, and also Rod Ballard, the big Acorn midfielder from Oregon State college, who hits 'em from town to town himself.

Kenny Felock, a regular last year when Long Beach went into the finals, is back in an Acorn unie and probably will appear in right field.

Mann, a great fielder and a dangerous hitter, will be in left field on the other side of Ballard. Mann made one of the greatest catches ever seen in the Bowl when Santa Ana last met Long Beach. He went back clear to the bank for Bill Hunter's terrific line drive, catching the ball on the dead run just as it passed his shoulder.

Landreth at first base, Davis at second, Elliott at third and Captain Al Kohler at short give Long Beach a very fair infield.

Anaheim vs. Fullerton

Anaheim, Santa Ana's only rival for first place, meets Fullerton at Fullerton tonight. It is hard to believe Fullerton has a chance, but "Bus" Callan will have his strongest team out to give the Pacemen as much trouble as possible. The Nite Hawks think they can trim the Valencias, but such a feat does not seem to be on the books.

None of the other games mean anything, but the contestants will go through with them just to play out their schedules. Orange goes to Whittier, Olive to Huntington Beach and Garden Grove to La Habra.

Rain Halts Rye's Net Tournament

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Rain prevented the semi-final matches in the women's singles of the Eastern grass courts tennis championships from being held this morning, but tournament officials hoped the weather might permit the matches later in the day.

The program called for Baroness Levi of Italy, to meet Helen Marlowe, Los Angeles, in one match, and Clara Zinke, Cincinnati, to meet Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Calif., in the other.

Lawless Favorite To Beat Anderson

Lawless looked for a victory tonight in order to challenge Billy Townsend of Vancouver to a championship elimination match.

LARGEST ROSE BUSH

CALISTOGA, Calif., Aug. 14.—What is said to be the largest rose bush in the world is that of C. L. Tucker of this city. Thirty-one years ago he planted a bush of the double Cherokee variety and today the trunk of the bush measures three feet in circumference. It bears a load of 40,000 roses every year.

Congratulations-

Captain Hawks!

THROUGH careful planning and intrepid skill, you have bettered all previous East to West and West to East transcontinental flight records.

The Texas Company is proud that, through its products, Texaco Aviation Gasoline and Airplane Oil, it has again been able to serve such a distinguished pilot and contribute to the successful completion of such a significant flight.

THE TEXAS COMPANY • Texaco Petroleum Products

Texaco Aviation Gasoline and Airplane Oil functioned perfectly in the new Wright Special Whirlwind high compression motor which twice hurled Texaco Number 13, the Travel Air Mystery S, to transcontinental records. Texaco refueling service was excellent and contributed considerably to my success . . . . Frank M. Hawks

GOVERNOR WILL BE HEARD OVER KREG THURSDAY

KREG will rebroadcast next Thursday night a talk which will be given by Gov. C. C. Young over KHJ, Los Angeles, giving to Orange county auditors a chance to hear the governor through the Santa Ana radio station and, figuratively, bringing the state executive into more intimate touch with local listeners. The address will be on the air from 7 to 7:30 p. m.

Immediately following the concert to be given in Birch park next Thursday night, KREG will broadcast by remote control two talks which will be given in the park by Marshall Stimson, Governor Young's campaign manager in Southern California, and by Judge Rex Goodcell, who is in the Southland speaking for the governor.

Stimson will speak over KREG tonight on behalf of Governor Young. His talk will be heard from 7 to 7:30 p. m.

MORGAN IS TO PLAY SINGING VIOLIN TODAY

Charles Morgan and his singing violin will entertain KREG listeners today. Morgan, who has appeared on previous radio programs here and who has won distinction in playing over other Southland stations, will be on the air from 7:30 to 7:45 p. m.

Mrs. Belle Spangler, candidate for the office of county tax collector, and the only woman not now holding office, who is seeking nomination at the primaries, will speak over KREG for 15 minutes, from 7:45 to 8 p. m.

Daly's Ozark Fiddlers, Marshall Stimson, the Dot and Ben Variety Duo and the Society Marathon are other outstanding attractions on tonight's program. The Ozark Fiddlers will play from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m., Marshall Stimson will be on the air from 7 to 7:30 p. m., Dot and Ben will entertain from 8 to 8:30 p. m. and the Society Marathon will be broadcast by remote control from the Casino ballroom in Balboa from 9:30 to 10:30 p. m.

The children's hour, with Inez Moore, will be heard from 4 to 5 p. m. and Inez Moore's junior program will follow, from 5 to 5:30 p. m. From 5:30 to 6 p. m. a studio program will be heard and from 6 to 6:45 p. m. the Shoppers' Guide, with music, will be on the air. News of the day will be read from 6:45 to 7 p. m.

LOS ALAMITOS

LOS ALAMITOS, Aug. 15.—W. K. Pearson, of Oklahoma, has purchased the Percy Hayes home on Howard street. His family will join him in a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Karch, of Long Beach, have rented the home of Mrs. Minnie Wyndham at 274 Howard street.

Mrs. Ethel Amspoker left recently for San Francisco. On her return she will be accompanied by her daughter, Louise, who has been working there.

SILK CLASSIC

Beginning Tomorrow (Saturday) at 9:00 A. M.

PRICES BASED ON LOWEST ALL-TIME SILK QUOTATIONS

TRANSPARENT VELVETS, CANTON CREPES, SATIN CREPES AND FLAT CREPES ARE THE LEADING WEAVES FOR AUTUMN 1930

These are the Weaves that have been accepted by the fashion world for Fall and Winter wear

Never in modern times have silks been priced so low. It is hard to believe that America's FINEST SILKS could be offered you at the prices mentioned below. Not only will women be able to buy one dress but many—and why shouldn't they when they can save many dollars and still know they are buying the newest fashions and superior qualities.

We cannot express in words the greatness of this event but we want you to come—we want you to see the new colors—the new weaves—see our windows tonight. But by all means come—you will be greatly surprised in the values when you make comparisons in qualities even of six months or a year ago. Silk Classic begins at 9:00 A. M.

"Will Call"

If it is more convenient for you to get silk later and still save the difference you can put them in the "Will Call" by depositing 1-4 of the purchase price.

Caprice Transparent Velvet

Regularly $7.50

This will be the greatest of all velvet seasons. Paris, New York and all the style centers have sponsored them—this is why Van Antwerp's have selected the finest silk back transparent velvet made in America—it is unbelievable that the best could be purchased for $4.95; of course, the price is only during the Classic. Transparent velvets for suits—for dresses, for coats in those lovely shades of Sumatra, Manila Brown, Corinthian Green, Winetone, Adamia, Guardsman Blue and Black.

(We are happy to announce that our price is much lower than the identical quality offered in a large metropolitan department store in a big event)

Last year hundreds of dresses were sold—we know many more will be sold this season—the price for a better grade being very much less. Use the "Lay Away" plan if you wish, but be sure and share the savings in many dollars. See our special window displays tonight. Silk Classic price $4.95 yard.

$4.95 Yard

Beau Monde Como Crepe

Regularly $2.95

In fact, until recently Como Crepe sold at $3.75 and many yards were sold at this price—women know that Como Crepe is the finest silk crepe, with a lovely finish and weave. All the better dresses will be made of this crepe and to think that 30 colors in a new stock will be offered for only $1.85. With all our wonderful silk values in the past, we want to emphatically mention that every woman who needs silks for Autumn cannot afford to overlook buying Como Crepe—the greatest of all values ever offered by Van Antwerp's. It almost seems impossible that the finest crepe made could be offered at this low price. There will be only 1500 yards available, so make your selections tomorrow.

$1.85 Yard

Beaumar Canton Crepe

A Beau Monde Silk, Regularly $3.25

Canton Crepes, especially the finest qualities, will be prominent among other leading weaves. The New Blue, the New Green, the New Brown, Navy and Black are colors worth seeing—you will appreciate the low price. Not in years has such an opportunity appeared when one could purchase the best at $2.35. Every dress you have can be the best in fashion at a very, very ECONOMICAL PRICE.

All Canton Crepes are 40 inches wide. Soft, draping weaves—And during the Classic only $2.35 yard.

$2.35 Yard

Lady Lure Satin Crepe

A Beau Monde Silk, Regularly $3.25

You will be amazed at the value—if you are used to paying $3.25 to $3.75 yard. Five outstanding shades for Autumn—and they are the correct and authentic colors. 40 inches wide. Satin is a fall and winter fabric always prominent and included in every woman's wardrobe. This event will please hundreds of women—it will give them an opportunity to get their silks early and thereby benefit not only in the pleasure of having new dresses early but to think of the big savings envolved. For the Silk Classic only $2.35 yard.

Legion Honors Past Commanders At Dinner Meeting

CANDIDATES IN PRIMARY RACES ARE PRESENTED

A session of good humor and good fellowship followed the monthly dinner meeting of the Santa Ana post of the American Legion at the Legion hall last night, when 28 candidates for nomination and a number of prominent citizens were presented to the large crowd which filled the hall, by Judge F. C. Drumm in his inimitable manner.

The occasion was the dinner honoring the past commanders of the post and the affair was known as past commanders' night. Congressman Phil Swing was present for the affair, but had to leave in time to make an address in Birch park and his remarks to the Legionnaires and their guests were quite brief. He expressed his pleasure at being present at any gathering of service men and declared that he was always ready to serve the organization or its individual members in any way he possibly could.

The impressive moment of the evening came when Hunter Leach, vice commander of the post, presented to Franklin G. West, junior past commander, the past commander's badge, on behalf of the post. Other past commanders who were introduced to the crowd last night were Dr. John Wehrly, Ed McFadden, Charles Van Wyk, Maurice Enderle, Franklin Grouard, Jules Markel, Wilbur Getty and William Iverson. Past commanders from other posts who were introduced included Ted Craig of Brea; Fred Dukes of Garden Grove, Sam Collins of Fullerton and Henry Wallace of Orange.

Vice Commander Leach announced, following the dinner, that in accordance with custom the candidates had been invited to be present, "that they might parade before our view." No candidate was permitted to speak, the introduction being confined to the presentation of the candidate. Before introducing any of the candidates, Judge Drumm started the fun ball rolling by declaring that even the incumbents were now willing to reduce taxes and enforce the ball, and that while there were some offices where there was no opposition, with only one candidate, seven men after the sheriff's office and four after that of district attorney.

Candidates who "took a bow" were as follows: Sam Jernigan, Ralph McFadden, Leo Porter and William Sylvester, for sheriff; Sam Collins and Dave Wettlin, for district attorney; Ray Adkinson and R. P. Mitchell, for county school superintendent; Kenneth Morrison, justice of peace; Justine Whitney, recorder; W. C. Jerome and W. R. Lambert, for auditor; George Montgomery and James Sleeper, for assessor; Mrs. Belle Spangler and J. C. Lamb, for tax collector; Earl Abbey, J. C. Joplin and E. B. Trago, for treasurer; W. K. Hillyard and W. G. Knox, for surveyor; Charles Brown, for coroner and public administrator; Vernon Barnhill, Bert Dawson, Jesse Elliot, Frank Lutz and Cornish Roehm, for constable Santa Ana township. Others presented to the group included W. B. Williams, Ted Craig, P. G. Beisel, William Iverson and Z. B. West.

At the close of the introductions and fun Judge Drumm expressed the wish that "the best man win," and declared that regardless of who might be elected he was confident the people of the county would give their support to their officers.

The Elks orchestra, under the direction of "Stormy" Gordon, furnished music for the occasion, and three acts of vaudeville were presented through the courtesy of Norman Sprowl of the Fox theaters.

The snappy Legion drum corps, which leaves tomorrow for the state convention at Sacramento, marched into the hall following its appearance at Birch park and played several selections. The corps is well trained and make a fine appearance in blue and white uniforms and while enamel helmets.

A business session of the post was held later in the evening, at which plans and details in connection with the state convention were discussed. The official delegation of 28 regulars and alternates is to go to the state meeting uninstructed in every respect, according to Ed Kolbe, adjutant of the post.

CIVIC WORKER

Mrs. Belle Spangler, below, is seeking nominations for the office of county tax collector. In her 10 years of residence in Orange county she has been actively identified with progressive work in civic, school and women's affairs, handling her work in an efficient manner.

TELLS OF SCHOOL IN ATHENS, GREECE

One of the interesting personages at the Congregational conference held recently at Asilomar was Professor George L. Marsh, of the School of Religion at Athens. Professor Marsh, who has been home on leave for about a year, shortly will return to Athens. During his stay in America he had been asked to make known the work of this great institution of Greece in order that funds may be solicited for the building of a permanent structure for the school, which is now housed in rented buildings.

While at Asilomar, Professor Marsh conducted many interesting discussions. He has presented the following sketch of the School of Religion at Athens:

"'It is a training school for men and women who are looking forward to Christian service in the Near East. It is for the training of pastors, priests, teachers, and social leaders and offers an equal opportunity to men and women."

West To Enter Five Dogs In Long Beach Show

Five dogs from the Malibu kennels of District Attorney Z. B. West will be entered at the dog show of the Long Beach Kennel club, which is to be held in the old auditorium on the "pike" in the beach city Saturday and Sunday. The entrants include three of the famous Scottish terriers which have won renown at many shows in the past, Miracle of Malibu, Champion Lady Bug of the Malibu, and Peterkin of Malibu.

West's dogs are widely known by fanciers throughout the country and have won many championships and awards at shows. Only four more points are needed to make Miracle a champion and West hopes that the competition at the Long Beach show will result in the creation of another champion for his kennels. This dog has won 11 of the required 15 points in the five previous shows in which it was entered.

MRS. SPANGLER QUALIFIED FOR COUNTY OFFICE

Mrs. Belle Spangler, only woman contestant in the primaries to be held on August 26, is seeking the office of county tax collector in the firm belief that she is qualified to handle the office in an efficient manner.

Mrs. Spangler is one of the best known and most popular women in Orange county, having devoted her 10 years' residence in this county to civic, school and women's affairs. That she has made good in everything she has put her hand and mind to is attested by her host of friends and coworkers.

Mrs. Spangler is the mother of two fine girls, both of them dependent almost solely on her for the thorough completion of their education.

When she came to Orange county 10 years ago Mrs. Spangler immediately entered into the civic life of the county. She became interested in school work in Santa Ana and her efforts along these lines culminated in her election as president of the City Parent-Teacher association. Continuing further Mrs. Spangler became interested in county school work and was elected vice president of the Fourth District P.-T. A., the county-wide organization.

It was through the work of Mrs. Spangler that the summer playgrounds were opened in Santa Ana.

Mrs. Spangler believes in the youth of the country and has confidence in the future men and women whose groundwork is built up in the public schools of the nation.

In addition to her school and civic work Mrs. Spangler has worked with the W. C. T. U. for the last several years.

During the recent federal census Mrs. Spangler was assistant supervisor and friends attest to her ability as a business woman.

PEARSON TALKS TO SANTA ANA WOMEN

Declaring that his departments made more arrests and returned a larger amount of money in fines last year than the office for which he is running, Police Chief James M. Pearson of Fullerton, candidate for nomination for sheriff, addressed a group of women in Santa Ana yesterday afternoon.

The meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Erickson, 1041 West Sixth street, also was addressed by Verne A. Baker, county manager for the Fullerton police official, who said that Pearson strength was showing a great increase in all parts of the county. The candidate in his address also discussed various phases of law enforcement, handling of juvenile crime and his stand on the liquor question, which is for enforcement of prohibition laws.

WHERE 150 MINERS DIED

Grim disaster had struck a thousand feet underground when this picture was taken at the entrance to the Wencelaus coal mine in Neurode, Lower Silesia, Germany. One hundred and fifty-one workers had lost their lives in a terrific subterranean explosion of carbonic acid gas, and here you see rescue workers and relatives of the entombed victims as they gathered at the scene soon after the blast. Official investigations to fix responsibility for the explosion—one of the greatest tragedies in Germany history—still are being conducted.

LAUNCH DRIVE FOR YOUNG IN ORANGE COUNTY

Judge Rex Goodcell, touring Southern California as a speaker for the C. C. Young-for-Governor campaign will make seven appearances in Orange county today and tomorrow, it was announced today by Freeman Bloodgood, manager of the county organization.

Judge Goodcell opened his itinerary today at 10 a. m. in the office of Attorney Albert Launer, in the Chapman building, Fullerton. He spoke at St. Ann's inn this noon, with Freemen Bloodgood presiding. At 3 p. m., Goodcell made an appearance at the Orange city hall, with Bloodgood presiding. At 5:30 p. m. a dinner was scheduled at the White House cafe in Laguna Beach, with Roy W. Peacock presiding. At 8 p. m., Goodcell will speak at the Chamber of Commerce in San Clemente, with Hal Warner presiding.

On Saturday, Judge Goodcell will open his schedule at San Juan Capistrano, talking in front of the Mission. Judge John Landell, justice of the peace, will preside. A luncheon will be held at noon on Saturday in Anaheim, with Lotus H. Louden, presiding.

ONE WAY IN FRANCE

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Traffic conditions are so muddled between here and Versailles that a radical solution has been offered. It is a strict system of one-way roads which offers two routes to motorists—one to go and one to return. This is thought to be the only country in the world to consider a plan making country roads one-way affairs. One-way roads in cities are common.

'LIGHT OF WORLD' SUBJECT TONIGHT

"The first Seventh Day Baptist church of which we have record was organized in 1617 in London, England," said Evangelist Hargis last night in answering a question handed in on the origin of Seventh Day Baptists. "It may be said to have been founded by John Trask and his wife, two school teachers, who were imprisoned for their view upon the Sabbath. This was the church of Millyard, Goodman's field, London. The first church in the United States was established at Newport, R. I., in 1672, 258 years ago."

The question box is a feature of the meetings in Orange conducted by the Pacific Coast association of Seventh Day Baptists. It is being used by the people in attendance for all sorts of questions about the Bible and Christian living.

Tonight Evangelist Hargis takes as his subject, "A Man Whom I Want You to Know."

The usual song and vesper service will open at 7:45 o'clock, under the direction of the Rev. Lester G. Osborn. The picture study for tonight is Holman-Hunt's "Light of the World."

The Sabbath mornin gworship service will be in charge of the Rev. Mr. Osborn, who will preach on "Caesar's and God's." This service is at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

FLYING DERBY FOR WOMEN TO START SUNDAY

With the dead line for the filing of entrance fees set for midnight today, the list of women who have posted their fees with the headquarters of the Women's National Air derby has reached eight and at least two more possibilities are said to be headed for the coast.

All of the women will be honored tonight with a dinner-dance to be held in the cocoanut grove of the Breakers hotel in Long Beach, where the race is scheduled to take off from the Municipal airport Sunday afternoon. Mayor Asa E. Fickling will act as toastmaster at this affair.

Preceding the start of the derby for Chicago over a 2365-mile route touching 17 cities with nine overnight stops, the Aviation-Industrial Jubilee committee, sponsor of the start of the derby, has planned an aerial show which will start at 11:30 a. m. and will be continuous until the start of the race at 3:30 p. m.

World famous aviators headed by Colonel Arthur Goebel, winner of the Dole prize for the first flight to the Hawaiian islands, and Colonel Roscoe Turner, holder of the Vancouver to Mexico record, will be on hand. Colonel Turner will bring "Gilmore" the flying lion cub, to the municipal airport.

Colonel Goebel will thrill the thousands of spectators who are expected at the beach city Sunday, with a series of daring aerial stunts for which he is famous.

The women entrants in the race are constantly watching the eastern horizon for more planes to arrive in Long Beach for the start of the race.

Helen Cox, of Valley Stream, Long Island, is on her way to the coast and notified the headquarters of the derby in Chicago that she was intending to enter the race. Ruth Stewart, of St. Louis, also is headed this way in a Curtiss St. Louis Robin plane which she is planning on using in the race. She also made inquiry of the Chicago office if it were to late to enter the derby.

Those who have definitely entered are Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, who will fly a Waco Speedwing biplane; Margery Doig, of Danbury, Conn., flying a Pitcairn Mailwing biplane; Claire Fahy, of Los Angeles, Waco Taperwing biplane; Jean LaRene, of Chicago, American Eagle phaeton; Florence Lowe Barnes, of San Marino, holder of the world's speed record of 196 miles per hour established August 4 in Los Angeles; Ruth Barron, of Hollywood, Lockheed Vega; Bobbie Trout, of Los Angeles, and formerly of Anaheim, where she operated a filling station; and Mildred Morgan, of Los Angeles, Travelair.

Bleachers, boxes, grand stands, parking facilities, road markers leading to the municipal airport from every direction, press box, telephones, wireless aparatus and other arrangements are being rapidly installed by the committee.

Loud speakers mounted on a truck will be set up in front of the grand stand to give the spectators full announcements about the happenings of the day and the entrants, officials, movie stars, city, county and state officials who will be present. There are four speakers on this equipment, which is being furnished through the courtesy of the Standard Oil company.

LIPTON'S GUEST

When the Shamrock V tries for the America's cup in September, George Kessler, below, foreman of a Philadelphia coal dock, will witness the famous race from Sir Thomas Lipton's private yacht again. He has been Sir Thomas' guest before.. The two became acquainted when Kessler, many years ago, lost a one-dollar bet on the Shamrock III, and Sir Thomas, hearing about it, personally consoled him.

OBSERVE BIRTHDAYS OF CLUB MEMBERS

Those who attended the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hotchkiss, Mr. and Mrs. O. U. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hemphill, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Strain and son, John, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Turner and daughter, Marcelia, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Huscroft and daughter, Anna, Mrs. Rebecca Pope, Miss Sue Rankin, Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. Ed Windolph, Mr. and Mrs. F. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Campbell and granddaughter, Margery.

STATE BOOSTS RURAL SCHOOL APPROPRIATION

Under the provisions of a bill passed at the last session of the state legislature, increased state apportionment for rural school supervision was provided. This however was at the expense of the apportionments to city schools, as the total amount of state school funds available is fixed by law, it was pointed out today.

In Orange county the operation of the law will result in a gain of $2,172.36 for the rural schools, according to Walter E. Morgan, head of the bureau of research and statistics in the state department of education. This is part of the sum of $239,400 that is the total in the state which will be gained for the rural schools. State school funds lost to Santa Ana through the operation of the law amount to $1375, Morgan's report shows.

Rural supervision of elementary schools was adopted in California in 1921, and the last legisalture adopted the plan of employing regular supervisors for directing the work, rather than leaving it up to the state. Morgan characterized the law as having done more than any other single provision to improve the rural schools.

"It ha improved instruction, stimulated teachers, raised standards and provided educational leadership in the rural areas," he declared.

FIGHTING FISH

BANGKOK, Siam, Aug. 15.—The fish fighting season is in full swing in this city's ten halls devoted to that sport. Two fighting fish are put into a bowl and bets made on them by patrons. The fish put up a vicious battle, tearing off their enemy's fins and taking huge pieces of flesh out of each other's sides. A fight sometimes lasts for six hours.

Richland Avenue Church Provides Charming Wedding Setting

A score or more close friends assembled last evening in the Richland Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, for the quietly impressive nuptial ceremony uniting Miss Evelyn Broden, recently arriving in this city from Crookston, Minn., and Clarence Ulseth of Buena Park.

The church was adorned with flowers in soft pastel hues, for the service which was conducted at 7:30 o'clock, by Frank A. C. Fairley of this city, a close friend of the bridegroom, and a retired pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The single ring ceremony was employed.

Miss Broden made a very charming appearance in a gown of soft blue georgette, and carrying a great sheaf of delicate pink rosebuds. She was attended by Miss Doris Stewart, while Paul Marion served Mr. Ulseth as best man.

Just preceding the entrance of the bridal party, Miss Mary Harlow, daughter of the Rev. R. W. Harlow, sweetly sang "I Love You Truly."

Immediately after the beautiful ceremony and its attendant congratulations and good wishes, the new Mr. and Mrs. Ulseth left for Buena Park, where they will welcome their friends in a pretty home which Mr. Ulseth had in readiness for his bride. He is an employe of the Standard Oil company, and has lived in Orange county for a number of years. His bride has been a teacher in the public schools of her home city, Crookston, Minn.

The Loren Meads Will Sail Tonight For Home In China

Summering in California, their former home, was especially enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Mead, and their sons, Rodney and Donald, who have been residing at 709 South Birch street for the past few months, but will leave this evening from San Francisco for Shanghai, China, on the Dollar liner, President Pierce. Mrs. Mead and her son, Rodney, accompanied by Miss Mildred Mead, 601 South Ross street, left Los Angeles last evening for the Bay City, where they were to join Mr. Mead and Donald who left Wednesday by automobile. That interesting character, Yung, who has been serving the Meads so faithfully, accompanied Mr. Mead.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead have been making their home in China for a number of years, where the former has a responsible position with the Standard Oil company. Their friends and relatives were especially glad to welcome them back to Santa Ana, and regretted losing them so soon.

Miss Mildred Mead will make the return trip from San Francisco with Miss Wilma Plavan, who has been touring Europe for the past year.

Garden Bridge Party Was Happy Event Of Yesterday

All the elements of a happy afternoon seemed combined yesterday in the gardens of the T. F. Ham home, 2039 Heliotrope Drive, placed at the convenience of Ebell's Day Nursery benefit. For the garden has a distinctive charm of its own, with its velvety lawn and nodding blossoms, and then the hostess group had "gilded the lily" by adding yet other flowers in pretty rustic baskets and artistic vases, and placing big garden umbrellas like giant mushrooms in bright colors, to shade the various card tables.

The guests in their pretty garden-party frocks, rivaled the flowers in colorful appearance, and altogether the scene was one of the prettiest and most animated of the summer.

The Day Nursery board members, Mrs. Clyde Bach, chairman, Mrs. T. F. Ham, hostess; Mrs. Perry E .Lewis, Mrs. C. S. Dunphey, Mrs. C. H. Lurker, Mrs. W. E. Watkins, Mrs. M. C. Williams, Mrs. Edward C. Erwin and Mrs. W. W. Kays, spared no detail to make the afternoon interesting for their guests, and among other thoughtful courtesies, was the serving of iced fruit punch, wafers and candy throughout the interval of play.

The pretty prizes had been donated by various friends, and the first reward, a handsome luncheon set of embroidered linen, went to Mrs. J. P. Hatzfeld. An embroidered towel, as second prize, was presented Mrs. Noel Berry, while Mrs. Luella Stewart was consoled with a charming framed picture motto.

Financial returns from the party will be especially acceptable just at present, for the Day Nursery finds itself in more or less straitened circumstances, due entirely to the present labor situation. Few of the mothers whose patronage gives it the main source of revenue, are able to secure work at present, so have no occasion to leave their children. Or in many cases where the little people are left for the care and attention given at this friendly little home, the service is donated.

So the treasury is sadly depleted, and members of the board are planning on other events throughout the year, to aid them in raising funds to maintain the individual work.

Merry Group Enjoys Beach Picnic

An all-day beach party was held at Newport Beach Wednesday, with Mrs. J. R. Smith of this city, and Mrs. Espy Williams of Costa Mesa, as joint hostesses.

The greater portion of the day was spent in surf bathing. A delightful picnic dinner was served at noon to the following guests: Mrs. Ralph Williams and daughters, Ora-Jane, Leigh and Gayle, Miss Ethel Fitch, Mrs. Fred Viele, of Hemet; Miss Elizabeth Smith and Lucile Smith of Santa Ana, and Miss Lois Macartney of Hemet.

Church Societies

Missionary Society

One of the most interesting meetings held by the First Christian church Missionary society this year was that of Wednesday in the community house, when Mrs. A. N. Glancy, vice president of the organization, presided as leader for the day's session. Echoes of the Southern California convention held in Los Angeles during the month of July, provided the theme for the afternoon.

The lighter vein of the program was presented by Miss Barbara Gerrard, who favored with a reading, and Mrs. L. Johnson, who gave a vocal solo. Various phases of the convention were discussed by Mrs. W. S. Buchanan, Mrs. R. T. Harris, Mrs. W. P. Hagthrop, Mrs. F. O. Pierce, Mrs. A. N. Glancy and Mrs. James O'Brien. The session was completed with an enjoyable talk by the Rev. W. Scott Buchanan.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Jacobs, 512 West Santa Clara avenue, left yesterday by automobile, for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Collins of Medford, Ore. On their way north, they were planning to stop in Sacramento for some of the American Legion convention sessions.

Mrs. T. J. Cottingham of West Washington avenue, is anticipating the early arrival of her sister, Miss Clarkson of Sioux City, Iowa, who left her home city on July 31, for Winnipeg, Can., traveling via the Canadian Pacific line. Her plans included visits in Banff and at Lake Louise in the Canadan Rockies, and in Vancouver, Seattle, Portland and other nothern points of interest. Mrs. Cottingham is expecting her to reach Santa Ana sometime during the coming week.

Mrs. E. W. Spruance of 1313 North Broadway, is entertaining an interesting house guest, Mrs. Roy Harris of Springfield, Mass., who with Mr. Harris and their three children, Robin, Joyce and Janet, have been spending the summer with Mr. Harris's people in National City. Mrs. Harris is accompanied by Master Robin and the little Misses Joyce and Janet on her Santa Ana visit, which will continue until Sunday. The family will return to Massachusetts about the middle of September.

Losing Card Players In Summer Series Complimented

Losers can be choosers, even though beggars can't, and when four members of a little card club added their scores for eight rounds of bridge which have taken place this season and discovered they belonged to the low scorers, they were not in the least chagrined. For they discovered they were to be guests of the high scorers, and treated to the best of everything.

So it was that Mrs. Paul Carnahan, Mrs. Fred Cole, Mrs. Cornelius Neuschwanger, and Mrs. Edward Prentice were hostesses to Mrs. O. K. Carr, Mrs. Joe Steele, Mrs. Roy Ivins, and Mrs. John Gould yesterday afternoon, choosing a Long Beach theater as the place of entertainment.

Returning to this city, the merry makers assembled in the home of Mrs. Cornelius Neuschwanger, 620 Cypress avenue, for an evening of bridge. Dahlias in various shades adorned the home. Mrs. Paul Carnahan upheld her previous record as a high scorer, and held high honors, while Mrs. Edward Prentice, not wishing to seem too professional, dropped to low score. The enjoyable evening was concluded with a delectable refreshment course.

Sycamore Members Join In Celebration of Anniversary

Celebrating the anniversary of its founding on Aug. 4, 1888, Sycamore Rebekah lodge held a "homecoming" at its recent meeting in Odd Fellow hall, in which achievements of the order in the intervening 42 years were emphasized.

Members present were given an idea of the changes and of the accomplishments wrought in the interval, when minutes of the institution meeting and of the first lodge meeting were read. Officers of the grand lodge who conducted the institution, were all men and of the older members who have been in continuous good standing, several were men, including James Clark, George Peters and W. W. Chandler. Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Peters, Mr. Chandler, Mrs. Fannie Rose and Mrs. Robinson were others of those long-time members, while of the charter membership, only two are now living, Mrs. Martha Ritchey of this community, and Mrs. Frances Fierstenfeld of San Bernardino, the first noble grand of Sycamore Rebekahs.

Mrs. Clark gave an entertaining history of the lodge, while other members added many reminiscences of early days which were especially interesting.

An important anniversary of the founding of the order is to be celebrated by the district lodges on Sept. 20, and a committee was named to confer with district officers regarding the celebration. There will also be a district meeting on Sept. 27, with Sycamore lodge as host organization.

To conclude the evening's entertainment, a host committee served ice cream and cake in the banquet room, which like the assemly room was brilliantly decorated in pink and green, Rebekah colors.

The ladies of the United Brethren church are giving a cooked food sale all day Saturday Aug. 16, at 312 No. Sycamore.—Adv.

San Bernardino Social Editor Wedded Here To Legionnaire

Widely varied details contributed to the general interest of the wedding in this city yesterday at noon, of Miss Wanda Moran and Everett Lucke, prominent young people of San Bernardino, who, accompanied by a little group of close friends, arrived from the Gate City in the late forenoon hours, and assembled in the Charles Van Wyk home at 840 North Ross street, where the ceremony was conducted.

As editor of the woman's page of the San Bernardino Telegram, the bride is prominent in Southland newspaper circles, while as a member of a pioneer Southland family, she is identified with the social circles of San Bernardino, where her grandfather was one of the founders.

Mr. Lucke is a World war veteran, and active in American Legion, San Bernardino post No. 14, American Legion, as well as the Disabled Veterans' association, in which he holds the chief office. His Legion activities form the bond between him and Charles Van Wyk, who not only was host to the wedding party, but served as best man at the simple but charming rites.

For the ceremony the bride had chosen a poudre-blue georgette with touches of lace whose bisque tones were repeated in her hosiery and snakeskin slippers. Her hat was a smart little close-fitting creation of lace and georgette in the tones of her frock and adding the final touch to her charming appearance was a great cluster of pink rosebuds tied with maline in self-hue.

Mrs. Laura Kronke of San Bernardino, assistant county service officer, and a close friend of the bride was her matron of honor, and wore a pretty frock of ecru georgette embroidered in golden brown, with a hat of horsehair braid and deep brown velvet to harmonize.

The Rev. Golder Lawrence, pastor of the San Bernardino First Methodist Episcopal church, and chaplain in both the American Legion and Disabled American Veteran posts, conducted the solemn rites, and maintained the semi-military atmosphere of the wedding.

It seemed especially appropriate to the lovely color effect of Miss Moran's soft blue gown and pink roses, that flowers adorning the Van Wyk home should be misty pink and blue larkspur.

Accompanying the young people were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Deakins of Colton, the Rev. Mr. Lawrence, Mrs. Kronke, J. L. Hickey, L. Burr Belden, district commander of the American Legion, and a writer on the San Bernardino Sun; R. J. Welch of Riverside, commander of the Fifth Area, American Legion, and C. D. Dinsmore, also of Riverside, a state officer in the 40 and 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucke left Santa Ana yesterday afternoon for the north, and will attend the conventions of the American Legion and auxiliary and the 40 and 8, in Sacramento, after which they will continue to Lake Tahoe and other northern California points of interest.

They will make their home in San Bernardino, where Mr. Lucke is county welfare officer for the American Legion, a position requiring all of his time, and where Mrs. Lucke will continue her newspaper work for the time being.

Chiropractors Meet In Workman Home

The hospitable home of Drs. Workman and Workman, 1905 Valencia avenue, was the scene of the regular meeting of the American Bureau of Chiropractic, California unit, last evening, when members and friends met for a social and business evening.

A business meeting took place earlier in the evening, followed by a talk by Harry C. Westover, candidate for district attorney's office in Orange county.

Kenneth Workman, accompanied by Mrs. A. W. Grebe, presented a group of vocal selections, followed by a talk by Dr. James Workman, on the subject of Infantile Paralysis.

The rest of the evening was spent in answering various questions from the question box, after which refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed on the lawns. Many interesting games were provided for the children throughout the evening.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Pythian Sisters and their friends are anticipating a gala event for tonight, when they will assemble at the Edward W. Cochems home, 323 East Chestnut avenue, for a garden party of varied attractions. Fortune telling, games, contests and every merry entertainment feature that a resourceful committee can devise, will be offered on the program, and ice cream and cake will be served. Funds raised by the hospitality will be devoted to the needs of the Pythian home in the Valley of the Moon, Sonoma county. The affair is open to the general public, and among those availing themselves of the cordial invitation, will be the members of the Orange County Photographer's association, of which E. W. Cochems is president.

Torosa Rebekah lodge will hold a public benefit card party, Tuesday afternoon, August 19, at 1138 West Fifth street from 2 to 4 o'clock. Mrs. Edna Kinsella and Mrs. Ida Carey, will be hostesses. Bridge and 500 will be in order.

Farewell Courtesy Is Extended Departing College Girl

Last, lingering days in sunny California for Miss Doris Lewis, who is soon to return to her home in Deerfield, Mich., have been made especially memorable for her by Whittier college classmates, and the latest occasion given in her honor was that of Wednesday evening, when Miss Charlotte Harnois entertained in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Harnois on East Walnut street.

The bridge game of the evening progressed amid softly harmonizing surroundings, effected by the pastel-color motif carried out in numerous bouquets of pink, orchid, and yellow mid-summer blossoms. When tallies were checked, it was revealed that Miss June Goodwin was to receive first prize, a lovely Japanese print, while Miss Fountelle Rentschler was more than consoled with an attractively-decorated flower pot. Miss Lewis, the honor guest, shared in the awards when she received an exquisite corsage as special guest prize.

During the supper hour, the pastel motif introduced earlier in the evening, found expression in the slim tapers at each table, as well as in nut baskets filled with multi-colored candies. The cakes and ices, too, were in the same soft colorings.

Those sharing the pleasant evening with the honoree, Miss Lewis, and wishing her a happy journey, were the Misses Blanche Siegel, June Goodwin, Jean Campbell, Fountelle Rentschler, Nettie Jones, Louisa Hampton, Della Hampton and the hostess, Miss Charlotte Harnois, and Mesdames Charles A. Hunt of Anaheim, and Lyle Roberts, Robert Lufbery and Marshall Harnois of this city.

Mrs. Post Assists In Party Given For Anaheim Bride

Mrs. Leon Holt entertained at her home in Lynwood with a delightful shower for her cousin, Miss Ethel Phillips of Anaheim, whose marriage to Donald Eisenhauer, of Los Angeles, took place last night in Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside.

The guests upon arrival were given tea towels to embroider for the bride-elect, afterwards joining in games planned by the clever hostess. At a bride and groom guessing game Miss Philura Felton won first prize. Mrs. George Post, of this city, who assisted the hostess in entertaining, won a prize for another guessing game. The guests were then given the fascinating task of fashioning a hat for the bride out of fancy paper. Miss Felton again won the prize offered for the best millinary creation.

Miss Phillips was taken into the flower garden where she found the shower gifts piled high on a table. After opening them the group returned to the house where four tables were attractively appointed for luncheon, using a pink and green color theme.

Present with the hostess and the honored guest were Mrs. George Post, Mrs. John Croughan and Mrs. Edward Gray of Santa Ana; Mrs. Ida Cumberland of Orange; Mrs. Hattie Allan of Garden Grove; Mrs. Willard Smith of Southgate; Mrs. Lloyd Baxter and Miss Beatrice Baxter of Los Angeles; Mrs. Charles Recknor, Mrs. Luther Strain, Mrs. Lyle Felton, the Misses Philura and Leola Felton, and Mrs. N. R. Phillips, all of Anaheim.

Miss Beulah May Made Flying Visit Here Today

Making only a flying visit in this city, Miss Beulah May was a guest today in the home of Mrs. Robert C. Northcross, 1318 Spurgeon street. She accompanied her niece, Mrs. Clyde Huffman, formerly Miss Margaret May of Santa Ana, who came from her Los Angeles home on business. While here, Miss May also attended to business matters in connection with her ranch on Mabury street.

It will be gratifying to her host of friends, to learn that she is receiving so much benefit from her extended stay in Las Encinas sanitorium, Pasadena, and while her recovery seems tedious, yet she is making a daily gain in health.

Since the publication of her recent book of poems, "Daggers in a Star," Miss May has had quite a number of her compositions accepted by leading magazines, and in addition to her writing activities, she is continuing her modelling, finding many interesting subjects as well as friends, among her fellow patients at Las Encinas.

As a member of the "Country Bard club," she recently had the pleasure of entertaining that noted little organization of writers, as her afternoon guests at Las Encinas.

Recent Bride Welcomes Friendly Group In Her New Home

Touring occupied the afternoon hours, at the close of which, delectable refreshments were served. A lovely kodak book was presented the honoree at parting. Of interest was the fact that the little affair was the first to be given in the new home, as Mr. and Mrs. Walworth have only recently taken possession, upon their return from their honeymoon. Mrs. Walworth was Miss Zelma Beemer.

Those present included the honoree, Miss Lola Christie, Miss Dorothy Grizzle, Miss Ramona Smith, Miss Erma Baxter, Miss Ruth Beemer, Miss Mary Mendenhall, little Miss Betty Warren, Mrs. C. E. Waggener, and sons, Deering and Calvin, Mrs. J. J. Beemer, and the hostess, Mrs. Ray Walworth.

Various Parties Are Given For Guests

The present week has held no end of pleasure for Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, 1413 Spurgeon street, and their house guest, Mrs. Warren Argast of Galesburg, Ill. For while the hosts are escorting Mrs. Argast to various of the noted Southern California points, they are experiencing anew the thrill that comes in viewing a familiar spot of beauty.

One of the most recent of these little journeys was that of Wednesday, when, accompanied by Mrs. Albert Raymond of this city, and several friends from Southgate, the group enjoyed a luncheon at the Mission Inn in Riverside.

With the advent of Thursday evening, came a little informal party at the beach. Sharing the pleasant event with Mr. and Mrs. Gould and Mrs. Warren Argast, were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Raymond.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Members of the Sewing circle of Calumpit auxiliary were delightfully entertained yesterday, when they shared the hospitality of the Laguna Beach cottage of Mrs. Howard Wassum. The morning was spent in Sewing, followed by a delectable basket luncheon, served at the noon hour. The afternoon was spent on the beach, where most of the group enjoyed swimming.

Thirtyseven guests and members were present. Assisting the hostess, Mrs. Howard Wassum, were Mrs. Arthur Randall, Mrs. Marie Lindquist and Mrs. Anna Patmore.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Baked Ham—And What's Left Over

Baked ham, while high priced in one way, is actually an economy because the cold ham can be used in so many ways.

Buy half a prime ham, cut from the large end. Parboil it, seasoning the water with vinegar and garlic, then wrap in a thick blanket of stiff dough and slowly bake it for four hours. Remove the dough and baste with honey or cider while browning. That is how I like it for dinner.

The left-over ham I use once for luncheon, sliced thin. The rest is ground up and used in various ways. A little of it is mixed with the scrambled eggs for breakfast, or used in a puffy omelette. A sum-shus macaroni dish is made by using a lawyer of macaroni spread with cheese sauce, then with a thick sprinkling of ground ham, more macaroni, sauce and ham until the casserole is full—this baked 30 minutes in a moderate oven for dinner. Delicious sandwiches can be made by mixing the ground ham with a little India relish, and enough mayonnaise to make it spreadable (put plenty of prepared mustard in the mayonnaise).

But the choicest use for the left-over is this:

Prepare and chill a delicately mixed gelatine salad with tomato juice as one ingredient. Arrange on crisp lettuce with a dressing of mustard-flavored mayonnaise and serve ham and cheese savories with it.

Make them by spreading rounds of bread and butter, then with grated cheese, over the cheese a sawyer of ground ham with a dab of mustard, then the top round of bread. Slip under the broiler and toast on one side, turn, sprinkle grated cheese on the other side and let it toast, too. Serve piping hot with the crisp cold salad for luncheon or a swanky dinner entree.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Veal Kidney Stew With Polenta

2 veal kidneys
Flour for dredging
Fat for browning the meat
4 slices diced bacon
1 onion, 3 carrots, 2 stalks celery, chopped fine
1 cvan mushroom sauce.
1 bay leaf
2 beef cubes dissolved in
2 cups hot water
Pepper and garlic salt to season to taste

Split the kidneys open and cut away the white gristly part. Wash in salt water and soak 15 minutes, drain, roll the kidney, now cut in pieces, in flour and brown quickly in hot fat. Transfer to a casserole, and in the fat left, put the chopped vegetables rolled in flour, to saute for 10 minutes.

Put them with the kidney, add seasoning, beef broth and mushroom sauce. Cook in a fast oven until the casserole begins to simmer, reduce the heat, cover and cook for 1½ hours. Serve with polenta.

Polenta is the Italian's potato. We would call it "plain corn meal mush," and while that is it exactly, a well made polenta is not to be laughed at. To make it—

Have 2 cups of water boiling hard, add½ teaspoon salt and sift in corn meal, stirring constantly, until the mixture begin to get very thick. Cook it fully 15 minutes after it thickens and in a double boiler to save it from burning on the bottom. The polenta must be thick enough to cut when served. What is left over can be fried in butter for breakfast, served with syrup or jam.

The stew serves three people, and the calory total, with a generous serving of polenta, is a little more than 500 per person.

"Greater Talkie Season" Opens

STYLE REVIEW SEEN TONIGHT AT FOX-BD'WAY

With the best pictures that have been made recently at hand, the Fox theaters of Santa Ana were ready to offerthe public the best in motion and talking pictures.

At the Fox Broadways theater, starting today is Norma Shearer's latest all-talking sensation, "Let Us Be Gay," a sophisticated play that should prove popular in Santa Ana and at the Fox West Coast theater, starting tomorrow is "Grumpy," the famous old stage play, made over, 1930 fashion, with the original star, Cyril Maude.

Some of the pictures scheduled for Santa Ana during Greater Talkie Season include "Animal Crackers," "Anybody's Woman," with Ruth Chatterton, "The Last of the Duanes," return of "All Quiet On The Western Front," and "The Arizona Kid," "So This Is London," with Will Rogers and many others.

Style Review Tonight

In connection with the official opening of Greater Talkie Season, a big fall fashion review will be staged at the Fox Broadway theater tonight at 8:45 o'clock, between the first and second shows. The style show is staged by Gene Kahen,, of the Santa Ana Sample shop and some of the most gorgeous creations in sport dresses, evening dresses, wraps and coats will be shown.

The clothes will be modeled by professional Hollywood models and more than 50 guests have been invited to attend. The styles shown are the Fanchon and Marco mode, of which the Sample Shop here is the exclusive dealers. Six changes are to be seen.

Aside from the style show there will be several acts of vaudeville, it was announced.

SLAVE TO APPETITE

ANAHEIM, Calif., Aug. 15.—A burglar should have enough will power to walk away from food and drink when he is robbing a house. That's what Lauro Ahumado, 21, should have, anyhow. He was robbing the home of Jess Michaeli recently and after he made his haul noticed some perfume, which he drank. This he followed with some rubbing alcohol and topped it all off with marshmallows. He contracted such a severe stomachache that he was easily caught when Michaeli returned home.

FAMOUS STAR

Cyril Maude, with Mrs. Maude, who came out of retirement to play the lead in "Grumpy," which comes to the Fox West Coast theater tomorrow. He has played the part 1300 times.

MICKEY MOUSE CLUB TO MEET SATURDAY

Members of the Santa Ana Mickey Mouse club, unable to attend their weekly meetings and entertainment for the past several weeks because of the fear of infantile paralysis, will meet again for the first time tomorrow at noon at the Fox West Coast theater.

The shows have been staged at the Fox Broadway theater in the past, but a change will give the kiddies more time, it was announced.

The picture for the meeting tomorrow is Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood," one of the greatest silent films that was ever made. It has a particularly strong appeal for boys and girls and is considered one of the best pictures that could be procured for the club.

A number of acts of vaudeville, including Mildred and Junior Martin, in a series of dance numbers, also are scheduled for tomorrow's show. More than 500 members are expected to attend at which time the Santa Ana Mickey Mouse club will be re-organized permanently.

HAY-MAKING RABBIT

JASPER PARK, Alta., Aug. 15.—Warden Davis, who has been studying the coney of rock rabbit, makes the statement that this is the only animal in the world which makes hay. It cuts grass when it is green, lets it lie in the sun until it is cured.

FAMOUS STAGE HIT "GRUMPY" STARTS

Cyril Maude, famous English actor, comes to the Fox West Coast theater tomorrow and Sunday in his first all-talking picture, "Grumpy," famous stage play, which he made one of the outstanding stage hits of the century.

The show, brought to the United States in 1913 by Maude, is outstanding in the memory of theater goers as one of the biggest hits ever to come to New York. Maude had the original Grumpy part and has played it for more than 1300 times.

He was retired when Paramount decided to make the play as a talking picture, and he came out of retirement at the age of 83 to play the part.

The story concerns a grouchy, testy, insolent old man who as a retired criminal lawyer, lives with his granddaughter. She is his only love and when her happiness is threatened, he takes a hand in a most surprising manner, to see that her happiness is secured.

"Grumpy" decides that the man who wants to marry her is a crook, so he investigates and his findings bring the story to a startling climax.

Burglar Alarm Of Motorist Stolen

GLENDALE, Calif., Aug. 15.—Judge Dudley S. Valentine believes in safety first and always. Addressing a group of Elks here recently he told of his automobile burglar alarm, which will arouse the neighborhood in case a burglary of his car or any of its accessories should be attempted.

After the meeting, Judge Valentine walked out to the curb with several of the Elks. To their dismay, tires and other removable accessories had been stolen from a number of cars, they found.

After expressing his sympathy to the unfortunate Elks, Judge Valentine said, "Now come over and I will show you my burglar alarm." A few men accepted the invitation, to discover that the burglar alarm had been removed from Judge Valentine's car while he was speaking on precaution.

"LET US BE GAY" AT FOX-BROADWAY

Norma Shearer will be seen today, tomorrow and Sunday at the Fox Broadway theater in "Let Us Be Gay," all-talking adaptation of the successful Rachel Crothers play in which Francine Larrimore starred on Broadway for ten months. The star will be supported by Rod La Rocque in the leading masculine role, and a large cast which includes Marie Dressler, Gilbert Emery, Hedda Hopper, Raymond Hackett, Sally Eilers and Tyrrell Davis. Robert Z. Leonard directed.

The play presents the amusing situation of a wife who when she discovers that she has become too dowdy to retain her husband's affections, goes to Paris for a three year's training course in acquiring "it" and returns to make a sensational come-back.

The scenes are laid in the wealthy home of a dowager whom the wife has met in Paris, and who solicits her aid in "vamping" a man who is becoming entirely too chummy with her granddaughter. When the wife discovers that it is her own ex-husband whom she is supposed to make a play for, the hilarious situations begin. No little of the fun is reported to be contributed by Marie Dressler who as the eccentric dowager is said to present a portrayal which even outdoes her much-discussed one of "Anna Christie."

Miss Shearer is said to look more stunning than ever in a variety of Paris-copied creations designed by Adrian, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stylist. Others who appear in smart models include Miss Hopper and Miss Eilers.

NEW BRITISH BOMBER

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The newest bombing plane to be put in British service is the latest word in aviation. It has a range of 2500 miles and when fully loaded with projectiles, the machine can fly nearly 200 miles an hour and remain aloft for 12 hours. It is capable of traveling half way across the Atlantic and back to England again between breakfast and dinner.

SOLDIERS, WOMEN AT WALKER STATE

Columbia's pretentious all-talking production of the well known stage success, "Soldiers and Women," which enjoyed a long and successful run on Broadway, is coming to Walker's State today. The action is laid in Haiti.

Aileen Pringle plays the leading feminine role. She is ideally suited to the difficult role of the sophisticated, neurotic heroine.

Grant Withers, who has been in great demand by all the large companies because of his unusual talent, his excellent recording voice and appealing screen personality, plays the masculine lead opposite Miss Pringle.

ROLLING SLEEPERS

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 15—No matter how soundly you sleep, you are constantly on the move. Dr. H. M. Johnson, of the Mellon Institute here, has conducted numerous experiments to prove this. Only persons who are heavily drugged lie perfectly still when asleep, he says. And the best rest is had by those who assume a considerable variety of positions when asleep.

The Other Bullet

By Nancy Barr Mavity

SYNOPSIS

Peter Piper, a newspaper reporter and his wife, Barbara are spending a vacation in the Sierras at a small hotel run by the Carters. Mrs. Coak, a middle aged woman arrives at the hotel and tells Peter and Carter that Mortison, manager of the Everett ranch, has been murdered. Peter and the woman, who shows an uncanny interest in murders, start for the ranch while Carter goes for the sheriff. Mrs. Coak says that Everett is a construction engineer and is away from home the greater part of the time. She intimates that Mrs. Everett was in love with Mortison and killed him.

Peter finds Mortison's body pierced by two bullets, one through the neck and the other through the lungs. He sees Mrs. Everett who says her sister, Marjorie who has been living with them is gone. Everett and the sheriff arrive separately.

When the officer asks Everett if he killed Mortison, Aline, Mrs. Everett, declares she shot him for her sister Marjorie's sake. The sheriff takes Peter, Mr. and Mrs. Everett and their sheep herder, Julio, to jail. Peter is later released.

At the jail Everett tells Peter he is only interested in helping his wife, and the reporter arranges to retain Emil Kurtner, famous criminal lawyer, on the case. The reporter t alks with Mrs. Everett who tells him of her three years on the ranch—that she has tried to live by eastern standards. She declares she has an indication to fall in love with other men and that she fell in love with Mortison. Marjorie had also been in love with the man she says. The sisters quarrelled and Marjorie threatened to tell Everett of his wife's affair with Mortison. Aline says she shot Mortison but that the first bullet went wild. Peter says the two bullets found in the room where Mortison met his death may not be identical although they seem to be and that whoever shot first, is the murderer. Aline says the man was seated at a table when she shot him.

Barbara on her way to a nearby town meets a sheep herder who provides an alibi for Everett. The sheepherder also declares that Mortison has wronged Julio's girl, who it appears is Mrs. Coak's daughter. Barbara returns to the Carters with this news for Peter.

Peter asks the sheriff to let him fire a bullet from the gun with which Mortison was shot and as the reporter has assisted him in narrowing down the suspects, the sheriff consents. Pictures of the two bullets found in Mortison's body are made. Peter searches until he finds the first bullet Mrs. Everett says she fired and which went wild. Peter and the camera man from his paper, go over Mortison's belongings at the ranch house which reveal that he was cultured, traveled, and had evidently held a position of prominence in the social world. A loaded gun is found in the drawer of the table at which he sat when shot. Peter senses a story behind the story of the murder when he finds an old-fashioned photograph, with a mother and two boys. The boys faces have been cut from the picture.

Peter added the broken Chinese box to the contents of his bulging pockets, replaced the papers in the drawer and thrust it back into place. The elation faded from his eyes, leaving them speculative and a little weary.

"Let's get back to the shooting," he said, extracting pipe and tobacco from his pocket, where they lay beneath the two handkerchiefs and the Chinese box.

"I ain't got another plate to shoot any more bullets with," Andrews said sternly. "I got some swell shots of the dame and her husband. They jibbed at first, but they seemed to think they owed it to you to do whatever you said. I suggested they'd better beware of undesirable publicity, and turn the other papers down."

"Good boy!"

"I want to rush back to town with these on the afternoon train. I can finish 'em up in time for the first run tomorrow."

"You wait for me, and I'll drive you down. I've got to go to the office myself, and to see Kurtner, and get a lawyer, and about a million other things. A grand vacation this turned out to be!" Peter strove to make his voice sound injured, but Andrews was not deceived.

"Now about this shooting. If Aline's first shot went through the open window—and it did, because I found the bullet outside in those damned thickets, why didn't Mortison reach for his own gun, to defend himself? You'd think he had time for that, when it was right at hand, in the table drawer. Aline said there wasn't any quarrel, but she may not be telling it all. She made up a pretty good lie, on the spur of the moment, when the sheriff questioned her last night, and one good lie may deserve another.

"Then there's the second wound to account for. We've got three bullets, and three shells—and only two of them came from Aline's gun. Maybe it was someone else who fired through the window, and Aline knew it. But there's no use speculating on that—Kurtner will know whether both bullets in Mortison's body came from Aline's gun or not. The point is, there's someone else besides Aline and Mortison in the picture. The chambers in Mortison's gun are all full, so that lets him out."

"What did Mortison do—that's the question. It doesn't seem reasonable that he'd just sit there and let them pump him full of holes. What does a man do when he finds himself being shot at? He didn't have time to fire his gun, but maybe he reached for it. No, the drawer of the table was closed. He was slumped forward across the table—Say, that's a thought!"

Peter suddenly straightened in his chair and, reaching forward, pulled the table drawer half open.

"Hold this!" He handed his pipe to Andrews, and then, with somewhat horrible realism, relaxed his whole body and fell slowly forward until his head and shoulders lay on the table, as he had found the dead man's two evenings before. One arm dangled over the edge.

With a bound, Peter righted himself, and turned to Andrews. The camera man had dropped Peter's pipe to the floor and was stooping, his hands on his knees, to get a view of the front of the table. The weight of Peter's body falling forward, had slid the drawer back into place.

"It could be done!" Peter crowed.

Andrews retrieved the fallen pipe and regained an upright position.

"Well, after all, what difference does it make?" he said, somewhat ashamed of the contagion of excitement with which he had watched Peter's demonstration. "Suppose he did reach for his own gun in self defense."

"But don't you see, it works both ways!" Peter insisted. "If Mortison reached for that gun before Aline fired, and then she shot and killed him, it was justifiable homicide. She was 'in imminent danger of great bodily injury.' Don't you remember the Fiorentino case?"

"But you don't know that the drawer was open," Andrews argued.

"Of course I don't," Peter said impatiently. "But Aline's got to remember. She'll need every defense angle she can get. Maybe this other bird fired and missed, and then got scared and beat it just before Aline came along, and she found Mortison in the act of reaching for his gun. In all probability she knew where he kept it. Or maybe it was a three cornered row between Mortison, Aline and sister Marjorie, and she fired to save Marjorie. That's justifiable homicide, too, you know."

"It seems to me you're collecting a whole pocketful of maybes," Andrews interrupted skeptically.

"Maybes are just what lawyers thrive on," Peter asid cynically. "Whatever comes out at this trial, it isn't going to be the whole truth. You can bet your next week's pay check on that. If Aline testifies that the drawer was open—Of course it all depends on what Kurtner says about thoseb ullets that you hated to waste your precious plates on."

"Hey! What are you doing?"

"Around the house! Beat it!"

Peter was quoting the judge's instructions from memory. The passage runs: "Homicide is also justifiable when committed by any person..when resisting any attempt to murder any person..or to do some great bodily harm upon any person..or when there is reasonable ground to apprehend a design ..to do some great bodily injury, and imminent danger of such design being accomplished." 13 Cal. Jurisprudence, 34.

Peter was through the open door in a flash, and rounded the corner of the house just as Andrews scrambled through the window and thudded to the ground. No one was in sight, but a heavy thrashing in the thicket was clearly audible. Peter's long legs scissored across the short open space, and in another instant he had plunged out of sight, the bushes swinging their stiff branches in place behind him.

The swishing of boughs abruptly ceased.

"Got him!" Peter's voice came in a muffled shout.

A moment later, he emerged, and dragging behind him a figure which he held firmly gripped by the collar of a sweat-stained blue shirt.

"Now, then, what were you doing around here?" Peter demanded with as much severity as his shortness of breath would allow.

"I was doing nothing."

Peter spun the figure around until it faced him, and glanced sharply into the wizened countenance of an old man. A stubble of white hairs roughened his chin, giving it a gray motheaten appearance, and wisps of disordered gray hair fell across his forehead. But it was his words, rather than his appearance, which had riveted Peter's attention. Although there was no trace of accent in his actual pronunciation, there was something oddly uncolloquial in the word order of his short sentence.

"Why were you hanging around the place where Don Mortison was killed?" Peter reiterated. "If you don't tell me, you'll have to tell the sheriff, so you'd bette rget busy on it."

The old man with surprising strength wrenched himself free of Peter's grip, but he made no further effort to escape. He lifted both hands high above his head, shaking his knotted fists."

"I came back—because I was glad—that he was dead!"

"O—oh! So you came back, did you?" Peter murmured thoughtfully. "And why the cheers?" he added, again addressing the old man, whose arms had now dropped listlessly at his sides.

"The cheers—?"

"Why are you glad that he is dead?"

Peter had asked many questions and received many surprising answers. But he long remembered the old man's next words as the most unexpected he had ever heard.

"Because he made my crops not to grow," he said with sullen conviction.

"Oh, yeah?" Peter was unable to conceal his utter bewilderment. "What did he do?"

The shrivelled face changed with the clenching of the old man's jaws. Something fierce and inimical shone from his faded eyes. Even his bent frame straightened with the force of unalterable conviction.

"He hexed me," he said with stern finality.

"He—what?"

"He hexed me. He was a bad man. He walked around my fields at night, in the dark of the moon. I watched him. I saw him. I had done him no harm." A curious note of pleading crept into the old man's voice. "No hurt have I done him, ever. Yet he made my crops so that they would no longer grow. Now he is dead, and my fields will be safe."

"But look here," Peter said idiotically, "do you mean to say you actually believe that?" He knew, incredible as it sounded, that the old man was speaking what he believed to be the literal truth.

His mind groped for an explanation. Hexed? Hexe—the German word for witch. But "hexe" was not a verb. Where had he heard that strange verbal distortion? He had read of a case somewhere—He had it now. It was in Pennsylvania. A farmer in a community of German extraction had murdered a man who, he insisted, had "Hexed" him, and had gone to prison well-contest because the spell was lifted. Blymer, or something like that, his name was.

"How long have you been in California?" he asked suddenly.

"Since one year. I sold my farm and came to end my years in the sunshine." There was unconscious pathos in the old man's words.

"No wonder your crops wouldn't grow—you don't know one thing about California farming?"

"My crops always grow, in Pennsylvania. How should I not know how to farm? My farm would be all right. But that Mortison, he walked around my fields when the moon is dark. And now he is dead!" The cracked voice rose in a shrill note of triumph.

"So he is," Peter agreed absently. "By the way, what is your name?"

"Schnitzler—Herman Schnitzler."

"It would be. Where's your gun, Mr. Schnitzler?"

"My shot gun? It is in the tool shed—that is where I keep it."

The old man stared.

"I have nothing like that," he said slowly.

"No, you wouldn't. If you had, you've had plenty of time to dispose of it."

Andrews, who had retreated quietly around the corner of the house, reappeared, camera in hand. He set up his tripod on the grass, and spoke persuasively.

But Schnitzler did not "hold it." His bony hands darted upward, covering his face. His thin frame shook so violently that the torn cuffs flapped about his wrists.

"No!" he cried. "You shall not have it! You were in that room. Perhaps you learn from him. You get my face in the picture—and you hex me with it!"

With a sudden twist which sent Peter spinning off his balance, Schnitzler darted between the two men, overturning the tripod as he went, and ran with amazing agility down the road.

Andrews righted the tripod and glowered at the rapidly disappearing figure.

"If he'd broken my camera," he said direfully, "he'd have heard from me!"

"Pleasant old customer," Peter rubbed his shin where Schnitzler's heavy farm shoe had caught it a glancing blow. "If we're looking for enemies of Mortison, we seem to be getting what we want and plenty of it. Up to date there's Julio, and Mrs. Coak and Mrs. Coak's daughter, and Marjorie and Mrs. Everett, all of whom had plenty of reason for taking a shot at him. And now it appears that women weren't Mortison's only trouble. He's gone and added witchcraft to his gift of shootable exploits. A bright little thought you had, pointing your hexing camera at the old bird!"

"He'd have made a swell picture," Andrews said mournfully.

"Well, thanks to you, he's going to be as hard to catch, after this, as a scared rabbit. And something tells me we're going to need to catch him, before we're through."

"But if he shot Mortison, why dosen't he say so, and plead insanity? If he really believes that witchcraft dope, he's certainly cracked." Andrews suggested.

"That just what the man in Pennsylvania did, but he didn't get off. He was convicted, and got a life sentence. That case happened only about a year ago. It's ten to one that coming from the same part of thec ountry and the same people, Schnitzler knew about it." Peter pondered a moment and then added. "Lots of people won't sit thirteen at the table, and refuse to change their seats at cards if they think the luck is running in their direction. Their beliefs are just as irrational as Schnitzler's, but it's only when it's the other fellow's superstition, and an unfamiliar one, that we see how absurd it is. If the old fellow did have a hand in the shooting, he may still be quite able to keep his wits about him afterwards. Maybe he isn't so crazy, after all!"

FAMILY NIGHT OBSERVED BY LOCAL CHURCH

Family night was observed at the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church Wednesday night at the regular mid-week service. Representatives of 38 families were present, making an attendance of 80 persons. The largest family present was that of Frank Heemstra, of Buena Park, whose entire family of seven persons was at the service, including the 18 months old baby.

A fine program was presented, with a social hour following the worship hour. A course on how to enjoy the Bible, which is being given by the pastor, the Rev. Moffet Rhodes, was continued last night with the reading of the first part of the Epic of Elijah, from I Kings, chapters 17 and 18.

Refreshments were served by the young people of the church during the social hour, which was in charge of Mrs. Henrietta Heemstra and Martha Heemstra. Solos were presented by Paul Allen, of Los Angeles, and James Nuckolls, who were accompanied at the piano by Henrietta Heemstra. As part of this program the Rev. Mr. Rhodes gave a 15-minute illustrated lecture on Death valley, using colored slides.

The "church night" series is being featured by the church every Wednesday night, and the public is invited.

A Gentle Soap for Intimate Finery

Those soft, fluffy, silken little intimates that you wear next to your self, how delicate and frail they are! So easily ruined by a harsh soap or vigorous rubbing!

B. B. Granular Soap knows how to treat them. Softens the water quickly, furnishes rich, creamy, foamy suds instantly. Put them in the basin or tub, swish around a few times. Rinse lightly. No bluing needed. Strands brought closely together instead of being spread. No fading of color.

When dry, you will be amazed how easily they iron and how splendidly new they look. And also, B.B. is awfully kind to the hands. Try just one package of B.B.—you will not need further urging to buy it always.

No More Red Hands From Washing Dishes

B.B. Granular Soap not only does not redden, coarsen or inflame the hands, but actually improves them. Its action is really healing, due to ingredients unusual to soaps.

You will be amazed how quickly B.B. Granular Soap foams up into luxuriant suds, how efficiently it removes the grease and stains from dishes, how your glassware glistens and your silver gleams.

AS FAST as Hills Bros. Coffee comes from the roasters which produce the famous flavor, it is packed in vacuum cans. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out of the can and kept out. No air-tight can will keep coffee fresh. Hills Bros.' vacuum can is easily opened with the key

LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Martin, of North Hollywood, were entertained by the Frank Gileaults, of Pasadena, Sunday. Mr. Martin is the son of Mrs. Gileault.

Charles B. Clark, who is convalescing at his home in Three Arches from severe internal injuries incurred by falling off Table Rock while fishing at night, is doing as well as could be expected. Mr. Clark extends thanks for the many kindnesses and attentions of his neighbors. Dr. B. B. Mason thinks his patient will be able to be out of bed within a week.

Elvin Wampler, of Whittier, spent Sunday at the parental home in Three Acres.

The Misses Faith and Ruth Green with their father, M. P. Green, of Pasadena, were down for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. David D. Gordon have as house guest for a month, their niece, Miss Madelaine Spitler of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Odell, who have a house in course of construction, were visited Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Porter and Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Armstrong, fo Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wilson left Monday by motor for San Francisco, where they are being entertained by friends. While in the north they will travel over the Redwood highway and also visit in Fresno. Mr. Wilson recently gave a recital at the Lake Shore hotel, Huntington lake, when 600 people were present from all over the state, including the faculty from Sierra Summer school. Mr. Wilson featured three of his own compositions, "My Shrine," "Sunset With You," and "My Garden of Roses," words of which were written by Mrs. Wilson.

Eugene Swarzwarld, editor and publisher of Pictorial California and the Pacific, and Mrs. Swarzwald, occupied their home in Three Acres last week end, having just returned from a six weeks trip to the Hawaiian islands.

Miss Grace Oxby entertained the following group as overnight guests Saturday followed by a motor trip to San Diego Sunday: Miss Marie Kimball and Mrs. Eleanor Murray of Atlanta, Ia., Mrs. W. C. Petchner, Miss M. Petchner, Miss Margaret Schneider, of Hollywood, Miss Anne Oxby and Robert Depue, of Los Angeles, Ernest Slaughter, of San Pedro.

Mr. and Mr. R. F. Corey have as house guest, Miss Marion Miller, of South Gate. On Sunday they were visited by Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Geithman, and daughter, Cecile, and son, Ralph, of Alhambra, the party being augmented in the afternoon by Chester Sheldon, Miss Phyllis Sheldon and Al Letcher, in whose honor weiner bake was held on the strand Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Wallace Morton had as recent guests, Mr. and Mrs. Orral Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. J. Marshall and daughter, Anne, of Hollywood, Mrs. A. Stuart, of Gardena, Mrs. Fannie Herbert, Jack Chambers and Miss Olga Knothe, of Los Angeles.

LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 15.—William F. Egan, pioneer resident of Coast Royal, was taken to Santa Ana Valley hospital last week for a major operation. On Tuesday of this week Mr. Egan again went under the surgeon's knife and is said to be making a gratifying recovery. He is visited by his wife and family almost daily.

Mrs. W. C. Salmon of Houston, Texas, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Addison Day, and Mr. Day, the latter having returned Saturday from Fort Worth, where he has been some weeks. A wiener bake was held on Coast Royal strand Thurscday evening in honor of Mrs. Salmon at which were present Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Leck, Captain and Mrs. G. A. Portus, Miss Zena Leck, A. P. and H. C. Day and Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Bailey.

Miss Zena Leck officiated as one of the four bridesmaids at the wedding last Saturday night in San Diego, of Miss Lois Lovell and Herbert Sorkness. Miss Leck and group of bridesmaids were attired in white taffeta and point lace. Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Leck were among the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Denis d'Auburn are parents of a daughter born August 12. Mr. d'Auburn has been in Hollywood much of the time recently working in pictures.

Plans are being made by the American Legion Auxiliary for its D. A. V. sale to be held in December. Following the August 21 business meeting, Dorothy Doty and Inez Lambert will entertain. The recent food sale netted the auxiliary $17.95.

Bridge and "500" will be featured at a part to be given next Monday by the J. W. McKenney Woman's Relief corps following the business meeting at 2 o'clock.

Grace Clements, exponent of modern painting, is one of the most recent additions to the art colony. She comes from the northern part of the state, where her work has been exhibited in Berkeley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Probst, of 503 Brooks street, had Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Godfrey, of Los Angeles, as house guests over the week end.

Mrs. E. J. Hayes, of Cliff drive, entertained Mr. and Mrs. T. Curtis Jones of South Pasadena and Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Read Craig, of Minneapolis, last week end. Mrs. Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur F. Waring, of Carthage, Mo., and her niece, Miss Marian Waring of Kansas City, will leave the last of this week for their home. Mrs. Waring has been here since the first of July. Mr. Waring arrived last week.

Grace L. Vollmer and daughter, Anne, have gone to Berkeley to paint under Hans Hoffman, of Munich, Germany. Mr. Hoffman has been induced to visit America by the University of California and give a six-weeks course in modern art to a class limited to 60. He is considered the world's greatest teacher of modern art.

One of the recent guests of Hotel Laguna was Mrs. Charles Reisner, whose husband has a five year contract with M. G. M.. He directed "Hollywood Review," "Caught Short" and other successful plays.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hind left Wednesday morning for a month's trip north along the coast. They will go as far as British Columbia, making stops at places which interest them.

Miss Mary E. Round, formerly of Providence, R. I., now of South Hollywood, is vacationing for a week at the Arch Beach home of Miss E. L. Post. C. A. Post of South Hollywood, is spending a week at Aloha cottage on Victoria drive.

Miss Mary Johnson, who is dean of girls at Washington Irving high school, New York City, spent the week end with her friend, Miss Galloway, at the latter's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kerr and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Fowler, of Pasadena, were recent callers in this city. They are neighbors of Mrs. H. H. Peabody and Miss Galloway.

Mrs. U. Rowley, of Glendale, and Mrs. M. Cawthon, of Cypress, are spending the week with their brother, J. H. Newcomb. Other visitors at the Newcomb home over the week end were Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Walsh and children, Joe and Ellen, and friend, Dorothy Smith, of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barber, of Cypress.

Mrs. M. G. Dunlap entertained the Reba club of the Bellflower Rebekah lodge this week, with many guests present.

DON'T SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION

Prevent It This Pleasant, Healthful Way

If allowed to continue, constipation may get its grip on you and serious sickness can result.

The poisonous wastes in your system must be removed. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to do this—safely, completely. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—recurring cases, with every meal.

Doctors recommend Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Because it is ALL-BRAN it brings complete results. Far better than habit-forming drugs or pills that are often dangerous. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN not only prevents and relieves constipation pleasantly—it also supplies your blood with the iron it needs to keep a healthy color and a strong body.

Ready to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Recipes are on the package for muffins and breads. Sold by all grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

While they were standing by the well, the Tinies heard wee Clowny yell, "Hey, look at who is coming. What a funny man is he." The Tinies looked and what they saw just seemed to fill them all with awe. The man they watched walk to the well, was strong as could be.

Upon his back there must have been 'bout forty cans, all made of tin. "Why don't they fall?" said Coppy. "Gee, at balancing he's fine!" The Travel Man then said, "That man's an expert with a water can. He very seldom drops one 'cause he keeps them all in line."

The cans were soon stacked 'round about the well. "Oh, gee, let's help him out," cried Carpy. "We can fill them up with water. He won't mind." The man looked up and said, "Why, say, I'm really rather tired today. If you will fill these cans up, I will think you're very kind."

And so the task was shortly done. The Tinies thought it heaps of fun. "'Twill take me several trips to take them back," the man declared. "When full, I cannot take them all. They are too heavy and they'd fall." Said Clowny, "My, I'll bet your back is glad that it is spared."

The Travel Man soon said, "Well, we must move along so we can see some other sights. What say we take a plane ride through the air? The flying field's not far away. For some new place we'll start today." And so they started hiking and the whole bunch soon were there.

The Travel Man arranged so they could soon be on their merry way. Before they left, however, all the Tinies looke around, and eyed the plane from tail to nose. Said Scouty, "Think how fast this goes. And we will soon be in it. My, I wonder where we're bound."

Missing Letter Links

RULES:

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't. TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.
2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.
3. The order of the letters can not be changed.

HALF to DEAD—This isn't such a nerve-wracking hole that you will be HALF DEAD when you finish it. However, you shoot for HALF DEAD.

HUMAN PLANE

OAK PARK, Ill., Aug. 15.—Peter Karabatsos, local inventor, has been working for some time on an apparatus which, he hopes, will enable him to fly by flapping wings like birds. The wings have a spread of 16 feet, and are covered with aluminum. They flap by means of levers attached to a new type of motor. The whole machine straps to the shoulders and weighs only 50 pounds.

REAL TATOOED MAN

SAUTELLE, Aug. 15.—(UP)—To look at Dave Warford, 64, once one of Roosevelt's "Rough Riders," you wouldn't think he was tattooed from chin to ankles. But he is—yet has never been in a sideshow in his life.

STATE CAMPAIGNS TO REDUCE FIRES

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 15.—The motorist who carelessly discards a cigar or cigaret stub from his automobile is likely to find himself in court, explaining it to the judge, after August 2, if plans of state and county officials are successful.

A statewide drive against motorists who start grass and grain fires by such means has been set for August 2, and traffic patrolmen will co-operate with state and county fire wardens in arresting violators, it is announced by State Forester M. B. Pratt.

The decision to adopt drastic measures against "involuntary incendiarists," was reached recently at a meeting of all interested agencies with Governor C. C. Young and Fred G. Stevenot, director of natural resources.

PORTRAIT TABLECLOTHS

LONDON, Aug. 15.—London society hostesses have adopted the style of using portraits on tablecloths used at the dinners they serve. The cloths are of fine linen, and the portraits are woven into the center. The pictures are either of the hostess or of some visiting celebrity.

Pegasus Club Writers Enjoy Hospitality Of Beach Home

Luncheon was served at noon amidst appointments reflecting the blue of sea and sky, for the central bouquet of lantana, as well as the china, the table cloth and the napkins, all emphasized the cerulean hues. Mrs. Earl Morris and Mrs. Frank Was were responsible for the success of this phase of the day's hospitality.

Mrs. George Bond as program chairman, had prepared an interesting afternoon, with Mrs. Walter Foote opening the group with two original verses, "No Credit," and "Angels Have Climbed to the Fifth City" both humorous. Miss Marjorie Lusk continued with her story, "Blue Ribbons," which members believed to be truly a polished product. She announced the program for the next meeting of the League of Western Writers, of which she is a member, which session will be held in Oakland in October. Mrs. Frank Was' "Black Swan," a Spanish story, was well received as all of the foreign names and custom introduced were so accurate and authentic. Mrs. C. F. Jackson contributed an arrangement of poems titled, "Song of the Aviators." Very clever was the original poem read by Mrs. Earl Morris, "My Latest Hobby." Mrs. Ray Brown chose her favorite poem for her part in the program. A selection from Emerson's Essays was read by Mrs. Frank Lansdown. Mrs. R. H. Winchester presented a well-written true story, "Our Secret," and Mrs. George Bond continued with "The Road to Tomorrow," a beautiful original poem. Mrs. Fannie Lash concluded the interesting program with a poetical interpretation of "My Mother."

A number of those present chose a dip in the ocean as a fitting conclusion to the day's entertainment.

Mrs. Kesemann Greets Bridge Club Members At Pretty Party

Members of an informal little bridge club were pleasantly entertained yesterday afternoon, when they met in the home of Mrs. William Kesemann on Durant street. Lovely asters in all of the soft, pastel tones formed the floral decorative motif.

When the game of the afternoon was over, it was found that Mrs. Maude Swarthout held high score, which was put down with the remainder of the permanent records, to be added with the completion of the season. A delectable refreshment course concluded the interesting afternoon.

Those present, other than the hostess, Mrs. Kesemann were Mesdames Herbert Allen, A. C. Bowers, Allie Cain, A. B. Chandler, Edna Kinsella, Frank Pickel, Maude Swarthout, Nellie Young, Frank Sawyer and two guests, Mrs. Claude Brown and Mrs. Ida Carrie.

Friendly Group Shares Enjoyable Evening Of Cards

A charmng little informal card party was that of last evening, when Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lepper entertained in their home at 2212 Maple avenue. Gladioluses in tones shading from shell pink to deep rose added to the attractiveness of the surroundings.

Five hundred was the game of the evening, and results of the pleasant contest showed that Mrs. R. O. Metz held high score for women, receiving a luster cream and sugar set, while Mrs. J. F. Jacoby was consoled with a bridge set. R. O. Metz received a handsome deck of cards for upholding men's honors while G. P. Ames was consoled with a pencil. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Those sharing the pleasant evening with Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lepper, were Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Metz, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Ames, Mrs. L. White and Mrs. J. F. Jacoby.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Cross currents prevailed in a moderately active session on the curb today and the market made little headway in either direction as a result of conflicting price movements.

Further covering came into some of the recently pressed utilities, American Gas advancing a point and Electric Bond & Share almost that amount. United Light encountered a good demand that resulted in a 1 poit gain. Niagara Hudson and Brazilian Traction were in supply at small concessions.

Oils weakened on profit-taking that followed yesterday's upturn, fractional declines taking place in Gulf, Houston and Misouri Kansas pipeline. However, support was forthcoming on the dips and recessions were confined to a narrow range. Standard of Indiana was firm at a fractional advance. Cosden was weak.

A break of almost 3 points in Anglo Chilean Nitrate featured the general list. Ford, Ltd., encountreed good support when offerins dried up following a profit taking dip at the opening. Trading was inaguurated in Warner Bros. Rights which had an active turnover around 1⅜. Willow Cafeterias was in supply, receding almost a pint to a new low for the year.

Investment trusts backed and filled in a narrow range. Goldman Sachs eased a fraction, while public utility holdings was steady. National Investors was in supply at a concession of ⅝ point.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Free short covering in the last half hour on the Board of Trade today advanced wheat and corn to the best prices for the day. The market was very erratic, continuing its sharp fluctuations which have characterized the week's trade. The east was a good buyer on the way up with offerings scarce. Oats showed almost an independent action, being relatively stronger than wheat and corn early.

At the close wheat was 1½c higher, corn was 2⅝ to 3⅜c higher and oats were 1 to 1¼c higher. Provisions were 20 to 25 points.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Railroad securities continued to display strength in today's sesion on the bond market, despite the action of issues in most other classifications, which gave ground in an irregularly downward reaction through the general list.

Led by Seaboard 6s with a gain of more than 1 point, many standard an dsecond grade carriers advanced fractionally under a heavy investment demand. The exception in the department was Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 4½s which lost 1 point under pressure.

With exception of a few Latin American nad Scandinavian obligations, issues in the foreign section moved irregularly lower, although price drops were mostly fractional. United States government loans suffered price shading.

Individual issues were subjected to heavy pressure in the industrial column. White Sewing Machine 6s receded more than 3 points, while losses ranging from ½ to 2 points were recorded by Goodyear, Limestone 6s and Morris & Co., 4½s.

After an early show of firmness utility bonds moved downward in the wake of American Telephone & Telegraph 4½s, off nearly a point. Transcontinental Oil 6½s firmed up 1½ points, while other oil bonds sold off slightly under pressure.

L. A. STOCKS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Issues on the Los Angeles stock and curb exchangec were generally quiet today an dthere was a depression in most lines.

TransAmerica corporation, following the trend of the entire market, was extreme dull and dropped fractionally on sale of less than one thousand shares. Oils were lower and practically idle. Standard, Union, Richfield and Rio Grande, experienced one of the slowest days in recent history of the board.

Claude Neon had a brisk opening session, opening at 36, dropping off to 35 and with fair suport, rallied back to its opening quotation. Banks and utilities were idle.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Stocks made the best gains in three weeks on the stock exchange today.

United States Steel led the rise in the late trading, reaching a new high on the movement and other leaders made gains ranging to 4 poits or more. Special issues rose as much as 30 points in the case of American Machina and Foundry, old stock.

The rise started gradually. In fact for a time in the morning the whole list was unsettled by a sharp attack on the copper shares. When this was overcome, buying came into the principal issues of sufficient scope to touch off short covering and the rise gathered momentum until the close; the market closed higher.

L. A. PRODUCE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Bunched vegetables continued to move fairly well under the stimulus of cooler weather today while fruits were somewhat slower for the same reason. Suplies continued liberal in practically all lines, with several lines in over-supply.

Apples wer practically unchanged.

Local loose avocados were unchanged with seedlings bringing 20-35c per lb., Dickinson,s Sharpless and Colorados 50-55c.

Bunched vegetables moved well with carrots in rather light supply and jobbing at 25-30c per dozen bunches, large stock 35c.

San oJaquin seedless grapes were in heavy supply wth best stock bringing 25-35c per lug.

The lettuce market was stronger under lighter receipts of dry pack stock. Movement however, was rather slow as dealers wer trying to raise prices.

The peach market was about steady with Yucaipa Hales bringing 4-5c and smaller stock 3c. Elbertas 2-2¼c, and Crawfords 2½-3c.

Tomatoes were in lighter supply with fairly good movement. Local Earlianas ranged from 60-75c per lug on No. 1s with Stones 75-85c, best 90-1.00.

NOTHING WRONG HERE

The bank has loaned $20,000.00 on this twenty acres of Valencias and as that is the limit of such loans, the grove must be good. The Valencia trees are fifteen years old, there's a half interest in a pumping plant, the location is excellent. You can procure this property for cash, an exchange with smaller grove or with Los Angeles business property. What have you? No. 4548.

GRAND OPERA LOSSES AND THE RADIO

Mr. Samuel Insull, president of the Chicago Civic Opera Association, reports to the guarantors a loss of $558,528.26 by that organization during the last season. If a group of guarantors can be found who are willing to back opera which is enjoyed only by a very few people, one wonders why there are no benefactors for high class programs over the air. The United States is one of the few countries dependent upon advertising for radio programs. In most other countries those who have radios are taxed a small sum which money is spent for programs.

If a few men of money would unite to inaugurate national broadcasting of classical and educational programs, their growth in popularity would probably ultimately bring about their support from public funds or a foundation. Radio is handicapped because men of advanced cultural vision have not gotten behind it, and the few who have the vision have not money to support it. Probably the situation is as it is because the men and women who are willing to give money to such enterprises as opera and free concerts, among those who have money to give, are naturally conservative. Some such groups should begin to back broadcasting programs as back opera in Chicago and in New York, and the civic concerts in the latter city. But they must be people who are willing and able to experience some financial loss because there isn't money in promoting culture.

Of necessity the advertiser cannot afford to put on programs which are enjoyed by a majority. The advertiser devotes attention to the largest number he can possibly attract. And the broadcasting station with the type of program which attracts the largest audience is the one that commands the highest rates.

The minority who want programs of a class higher than jazz and wise-cracks and dated popular songs are out of luck. They are nobody's concern. But on the other hand these people in the minority should feel under obligations to show their appreciation of programs of their favorite type whenever they hear them. Most of them are so silent that many people in charge of broadcasting do not believe that people with their taste exist in any numbers at all. They should "talk up" their own class of entertainment.

Nobody in Scotland, says the American consul in Glasgow, wants to migrate to the United States although a year ago 33,000 sought entry. Most of them, perhaps have saved up but are waiting for that rainy day.

SPECTATORS' SPORTSMANSHIP

"Bill" Tilden, who is national singles champion, was playing in hard luck with his knee out of condition, and evidently put up a poor exhibition of a game. At one time it seems that his leg gave way entirely. But the 20,000 spectators jeered him and "booed" him, evidently without the least particle of consideration or sympathy, indicating simply a mob spirit. Finally, Tilden could stand it no longer and left the court, surrendering any chance he might have had, to his opponent.

We often criticize a player for his lack of sportsmanship, and it is possible that Tilden, in spite of the attitude of the crowd, should have continued his play, but on the other hand there is an obligation upon the spectators to exercise sportsmanship also. Physical condition has a tremendous amount to do with the playing of a game by any man. There are times when he is not himself, and it has necessarily an effect upon him which makes it more difficult at the moment to stand criticism, and particularly to stand for what he feels to be unfair ridicule. Those of us, who have never filled any other position than that of spectator in such games, should at least endeavor to have an understanding mind and to give the player in our own thought a fair chance.

A cheer at a man's doing his best, even when failing, enables him to do better, if not turn defeat into victory. It gives the crowd, incidentally, a "better run for their money." We never saw "Bill" Tilden play, but our sympathy was entirely with him in the incident of yesterday.

A VISIT FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN

Congressman Phil Swing has been in our city, giving to us of his time, speaking to our various clubs, and showing in every personal way his appreciation of the fine relationship which exists between him and the people of Orange county.

We believe we have one of the most capable, genial, determined representatives that any district possesses in this country. Mr. Swing is faithful to his duties, trustworthy in every respect, has no opposition in the primaries, and really no serious opposition at election.

A man in the prime of life, capable and enthusiastic, he is serving all the people in the finest manner imaginable. His successful work for the Boulder dam is an outstanding performance in any man's life, and the Southwestern section of this country will forever owe a debt of gratitude to Phil Swing.

A MALICIOUS CHARGE

The other evening at San Bernardino, according to the San Bernardino Sun, Buron Fitts, in his address to the voters, said:

> Several weeks ago a site for the women's prison was purchased—1100 acres without water in Kern county. I would like to know what commission the Young manager in Bakersfield, who sold the site, received.

The implication of this statement is that Governor Young, through a commission appointed to select a site for the women's prison, had arranged for them to hand money over to some supporter of his, living in Bakersfield, with the state being euchered out of its money in the purchase of a worthless property that had no water. If this were true, the implications involved in this statement should be made, and they should be made directly, for if $110,000 of the state's money, which this property cost, has been paid for a barren waste, in order to get a few thousand dollars into the hands of a supporter of Governor Young, it is nothing short of criminal. If it is not true, the man who uttered it is unfit for the office of Governor of the state.

Now what are the facts? We happen to be one of the commission that selected that site, and we positively know that there is not one word of truth in the entire statement, outside of the fact that the property selected is in Kern county. The acreage is nearly 50 per cent more than the number of acres stated. The reports of every authority which the commission could reach, including the experts of the state, declare there is as much water available for that site as for any available site that can be found in Southern California, and incidentally, the desire was to locate the site for this institution in Southern California. The one thing above all things that this commission looked after was the abundant supply of water for the tract. Not only is water there in abundance,—wells and springs already providing abundant water, but precaution was taken in the purchase to add other water lands where water is known to be, which can contribute its supply to this property, though not immediately contiguous.

On this commission there are three women and two men. The three women spent unlimited time in scouring the state from San Francisco to San Diego to locate those properties which might be available. When possible sites were found, all the members of the commission visited them. After such visitation, those that were determined upon as possible sites were checked up by the experts on soil and water and the climatic conditions were thoroughly learned. Of all of these sites, this site in Kern county, a few miles from Tehachapi, was selected.

Every check-up possible, even to the extent of employing an outside real estate man to go in and make final examination in regard to the value, was made. Then it was agreed upon and the property purchased. A realtor of the finest standing in his profession, a high class man in every respect, took the commission over the ground, as he also did over other property, some with which he had no connection. He presented no other arguments than to show us the land, presenting the facts concerning it from individuals and organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce. We presume he received a commission. For his work he certainly was entitled to it. Everything in connection with it was absolutely legitimate, and to insinuate that the matter was done for the purpose of getting money into somebody's hands, who supported Governor Young, is demagoguery of the clearest type.

We are confident the statement on which we have written here, is the type of statement to appeal to the prejudices and not to the intelligence of the voters. We doubt seriously if it gains votes. It certainly evidences the unfitness of the candidate for the office when he makes such utterances.

IRVINE PARK

Irvine park is a wonderful asset to Orange county. Unsurpassed in its natural advantages and beauty, it has been made an ideal place for assemblies, parties and picnickers. Every accommodation is there,—the arches for cooking, tables and seats, the dance hall, the beautiful setting, the surrounding mountains. It is ideal, and the people are appreciating it.

Every afternoon and evening they come there by the scores and even hundreds and thousands on some days. It is being used more and more, and will continue so to be.

The supervisors are to be congratulated on the way in which they have looked after it, the accommodations which they have afforded, and the manner in which it is being taken care of. It will grow in its usefulness and value.

Milton K. Young

Sacramento Union

Milton K. Young, Democratic candidate for governor, thought it would be a smart thing to have his name on both the Republican and Democratic ballots in the August primary, doubly smart because Governor "C. C." Young is one of the Republican candidates.

The trick was played and Milton Young's name went on both ballots. Then a cry of deceit arose all over the state in such proportions that Milton Young decided he had made a mistake. He asked that his name be removed, which the attorney general states is impossible. The supreme court is to determine whether it can be withdrawn.

Milton Young has antagonized Democrats as well as Republicans and has turned many voters away from his own party by what he has done. Politically he deserves no consideration and will get little.

WHALES

When Billy grows to manhood,
To strong and lusty manhood,
So he can sail
Before the gale
To far off Baffin's Bay;
He means to brave the billows
That look like giant pillows,
And, free from fear,
To wield a spear
And harpoon whales all day.

With arms held strong and steady,
He always will be ready,
To watch a chance
To thrust his lance
Across the tossing floes.
And how his eyes will glisten
The while he sits to listen,
Till, strong and stout,
The cry rings out:
"Ahoy, Bill! Thar she blows!"

But whales are not so plenty
As back in Eighteen Twenty,
When they would ride
The tossing tide
Like herds of buffalo.
And Billy's filled with worry,
For if he doesn't hurry,
There'll be no more
Up there before
He's old enough to go!

Only A Fairy Tale

Once upon a time there was a very large country, completely covered with gloom. Pessimism in the markets was so thick that you could cut it with a knife. But nobody did cut it. All the knives were used on those few bold prophets who dared to say a hopeful word about business.

For there was no hope. Business had gone to the dogs and would stay there. Nobody had any money to spend. The soundest of stocks were thrown on the bargain counter. There was scarcely a rift in the business skies.

To know that the entire economic system had failed, however, was not enough for the "Statistical Sadists." They insisted on measuring the extent of the failure.

So an army of statisticians girded on their slide rules and drew up their calculating machines in battle array. Never before had any nation been so well equipped with moving averages and coefficient correlations. The problem was attacked simultaneously on many fronts. The offensive was brilliant.

At its worst, business was producing at least 30 per cent more per capita than business at its best produced in the previous generation.

Although business had gone to the dogs, it was still turning out enough wealth every day to maintain the highest standard of living ever reached by any people in the world.

Although nobody had any money, consumers bought more goods than they had bought in any other year, except one, in the nation's history.

These were the fundamental findings of the army of statisticians. And so the gloom that settled over the nation was thicker than ever!

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

IF LUTHER WROTE AGAIN

Yesterday I tried to imagine what Martin Luther might write, by way of counsel, to the Protestant Churches, if communication between the mortal and post-mortal worlds were in active operation, assuming that Luther had been watching the fortunes of the protesting movements he launched during the generations since his death.

I stressed yesterday the fact that Protestantism needs spiritual integration even more than it needs theological revision, but since there are so many who still look upon the periodic revision of the religious outlook of their ancestors as an impious and irreverent enterprise, I want today to suggest what I think Luther might now say to his latter-day followers about theological reconstruction.

I think he would say that a Protestantism that insists upon stating its documents in terms of the philosophical and scientific outlook of his day is not likely to sway the mind of the modern world.

I think Luther would remind present-day Protestantism that he nailed his ninety-five theses to the door of the cathedral at Wittenberg ninety-nine years before Galileo was tried for saying the earth was a moving body, 167 years before Sir Isaac Newton announced his law of gravitation, and 342 years before Darwin launched the theory of organic evolution. I think Luther would smilingly remind his latter-day followers that he called Copernicus an upstart astrologer and said of him, "The fool will overturn the whole art of astronomy. But, as Holy Writ declares, Joshua commanded the sun to stand still and not the earth." I am sure he would not want his fololwers today to cling to that sort of outlook.

He would, I think, remind his present-day followers that the major patterns of Protestant theology were drawn by men whose minds were far removed from the spirit of modern science and from the knowledge of the universe and of man that is now common property.

We would want Protestantism to realize, I am sure, that we may appreciate the light that shone from Luther without remaining prisoners of his and his generation's intellectual and philosophical limitations.

I think he would agree that even if religion itself were a once-for-all deposit, fixed and final, innocent of the possibility of growth and enrichment, it would still be strategically necessary to translate its meanings into the thought-forms and language-forms of successive generations in order that religion might not suffer the handicap of what would amount to an alien tongue.

I think he would admit that it is manifest stupidity to insist upon the permanent entanglement of religion with obsolete conceptions of man and nature.

OUR CHILDREN

THE TRYING AGE

Children of seven years of age are very trying. Neither a baby nor a reasoning child, this little one goes his individualistic way to the great distress of those about him. We would suffer less if we knew more.

A seven-year-old child rarely thinks of other people. He is bound up in his own interests and desires. He sees nobody but himself. If he feels like shouting until the rafters ring, he shouts, though the agonized family entreats him to be quiet. If he wants something he takes it although his weaker brother or sister protests in tears. If he is hungry he eats what and where he will. Manners, he has none. To morality he is a stranger.

What shall we do about ? Why, train him of course. Day by day, point by point, correct and adjust and train. There is no other way. This child must learn by experience what is expected of him. He must learn that he shares life with the whole world of people and that only a tiny fraction of space and of personal liberty is his.

When he grabs he is to be removed from the scene of his depredations. Even though there is company at the table, away he goes. He has to learn that grabbing is not permitted and he may just as well learn that hard truth when the company is present than delay it until later when other company is present. Grabbing is one of his characteristics and only inconvenient experiences will teach him the bad taste of his actions.

When he shouts he is to be stilled; first by silence on the part of all in the room. Let him hear himself in the stillness. Unless he is more than usual self-centered he will hear and heed and reduce his voice power for that time at least. And each time counts. But if he remains unconscious, put him off in a room by himself to learn silence.

Dirt and disorder are characteristic of these children. They will not remember to hang their clothes on the right hooks, to put their wheels away at night, to put their balls and bats in the closet and their books on the shelves provided for them. The only thing we can do is to keep steadily after them. Sometimes a posted list of reminders helps. The forgetful child will forget to look at the list but a reminder to scan it will save time and trouble. All required duties should have time limit set upon them and a prompt checking up to supplement the idea.

There is no need for the worry parents suffer. This is the way seven-year—up to nine-year children perform. If they are trained to correct their conduct they go on to the next stage of growth and you go on with them still correcting and adjusting and helping and encouraging. Take it all as a matter of course and interfere only when you must. If you can establish an impersonal, self-working scheme of life for them, so much the better. The posted list helps in that particular.

All too soon this troublesome little grub is an adolescent and you are wishing him and her back in the earlier stage, troublesome as it was. Enjoy this one with them as long as you can.

THE PAMANA CANAL

On August 15, 1914, the Pamana Canal, the ship canal across the Isthmus of Panama connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, was opened to commercial traffic by the passage of the government steamship Ancon, carrying the Secretary of War and 200 guests. The passage was made in nine hours and 40 minutes.

From that time the canal has been opened to general traffic, except when the slides at Culebra hill and at Cucaracha have interrupted navigation. At the end of the first year 1317 ocean-going vessels passed through the canal paying in tolls $5,216,149. The tolls were established by the president at the rate of $1.20 per net vessel ton for loaded vessels.

The canal is 50 miles long and cost about $4,000,000 to build. The engineer to whom greatest credit is due for the success in its construction is Col. George W. Goethals. Both Col. Goethals and Col. William C. Gorgas, through whose work in sanitation improvements on the Isthmus it was possible to construct the canal under favorable health conditions, were raised to the rank of major-general in recognition of their services.

WILL MAKE STATEMENT SATURDAY

WILL MEET MONDAY

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Senator Edward Hurley emphatically denied the accusation of Billings.

"The only statement I have to make at this time," Hurley said Thursday night, "is an absolute flat denial of the truth of everything Billings said insofar as it pertained to me myself.

"Billings was prompted. I will have a complete statement of denial to give to all the newspapers tomorrow."

Hurley was attending the F. O. Eagles convention here and newspapermen had difficulty in contacting him.

FOLSOM PRISON, Calif., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Grasping eagerly at a straw of liberty, before him in the form of a pardon application hearing, Warren K. Billings, Folsom lifer, denied to the California supreme court last night that he was implicated in the San Francisco preparedness day bombing, July 22, 1916.

At a strange court session, held in Folsom prison, the little convict pleaded eloquently for the right to walk as a free man from the penal institution in which he has spent almost 14 years.

By convening within the prison, the court made new judicial history, just as it has been doing since July 29 when Billings' pardon review became in reality a "re-trial" for Billings and Thomas J. Mooney, the two men convicted of the bombing murders.

In general Billings told a forceful story and conducted himself on the stand with credit to the University of California law school extension courses which he has studied during leisure hours since he came here as a boy of 23.

Under direct testimony and cross examination, Billings did not spare himself and neither was he gentle in making charges against those associated with him in sabotage work from 1913 to 1916.

Carried Gun

Billings admitted that he was a bad character, told the court details pertaining to dynamite transportation in 1913, said he possessed burglar tools and carried a gun but he did not falter once in insisting that he had nothing to do with the bombing outrage in which 10 persons were killed.

'On July 22, 1916, I was walking down Market street ruining paint jobs on automobiles by squirting paint remover on them," Billings said.

The sabotage work, he explained, was done for the Automobile Mechanics' union which was then on strike. One squirt of the fluid from a syringe and a car needed refinishing, according to Billings. The purpose of this was to flood workshops with automobiles, so that the public, unable to obtain

Hoover and Governors of 12 States End Conference, Promise Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(UP)—A vast relief organization was in the process of formation today to provide autumn and winter aid for nearly 270,000 drought suffering farm families.

Speed was the farewell note sounded by President Hoover to the departing governors or representatives of 12 drought stricken states who worked out with him the details of a national relief program at a White House conference last night.

Immediate action was promised by the state executives in naming the state and county committees which are to form the nucleus of the relief organization.

Each governor who considers a situation requiring emergency relief exists in his state is to appoint a chairman of a state drought relief committee. Then will follow organization of a committee composed of a banker, Red Cross representative state agricultural official, railway representative and farmers.

The governors present at yesterday's conference indicated they would have the state committees ready early next week. Completion of the 250 or more county committees may take longer.

These committees, under the agreement made by Mr. Hoover with the governors, will have as their first objective the providing of relief over the winter for families deprived of support through loss of crops. Other objectives are prevention of unnecessary sacrifice of livestock and protection of public health.

These aims are to be accomplished, the president said, through a four-fold program:

1.—Placing of loans privately, or where necessary with assistance of state or national agencies.

2.—Red Cross assistance.

3.—Increasing employment.

COMMUNISTS' CAMP THREATENED BY MOB

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(UP)—A crowd that threatened to destroy the Communists children's camp near here was dispersed by state troopers today, and quiet was restored after a hectic night.

Three troopers were on guard at the camp at Van Etten, where 70 children are spending a vacation that is scheduled to en dtomorrow. Last night a mob of 1500 men and boys, many of them carrying torches, gathered in front of the camp and threatened to burn it because two of the Communist leaders refused to accept an American flag which patriotic organizations had offered.

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Inauguration of an air passenger service August 31 between Long Beach and Las Vegas Nev., by the Boulder Air Lines, was announced here today following word from J. W. Squires, president of the company, now in Las Vegas.

The line will operate a one-day trip between Long Beach and Las Vegas, stopping at Stove Pipe Wells, in Death Valley, during the winter season. From Las Vegas sight seeing trips will be held over the Boulder dam site and the Grand Canyon.

YAWL SAFE IN PORT

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Aug. 15.—(UP)—The yawl Contender, sought in the Pacific ocean by a coast guard cutter after it had reported dwindling food and fuel supplies, entered the harbor early today under its own power. Commodore Walter Horne of the Long Beach Yacht club, owner of the Contender, hailed coast guard headquarters as he passed and said his yacht and the 25 aboard were in good shape.

47 MINERS ARE STILL TRAPPED UNDER DEBRIS

PRINCETON, B. C., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Crews of exhausted, determined miners still fought and hacked their way into tons of debris in the wrecked Coalmont mine today in a dogged but apparently hopeless effort to rescue their 47 fellow workmen who were entombed by an explosion Wednesday night.

Not for a minute, since the disaster, has the rescue work ceased, although all officials have given up hope that the trapped men will be rescued alive.

Grimy with coal dust, their faces streaked with sweat, the rescue workers reeled from the portal throughout the night and today, to drop from exhaustion. Two hours sleep was the rule and then back into the tomb.

The feverish haste of yesterday had given way to grim determination today. The spirit of the pithead, the traditions of those who work under the ground, has an inviolable law that these men must do nothing else until they have

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Aug. 15.—(UP)—John Gomez, 22 sentenced to death for the murder of George "Dad" Jones, Livermore taxi driver, last May, was hanged today on the gallows at San Quentin prison.

George Ryley, 21, was to have been executed today also, but late yesterday the state appellate court granted him a stay of execution until September 8 to enable his attorneys to ask for a writ of habeas corpus.

Calvin Coolidge Says

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE

Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 15.—The old frontiers and back country of our nation have vanished. We do not have any longer a strictly rural population. It is difficult to find any region that lives unto itself. Wherever we go we find similar brands of ready-made clothing and shoes worn by both men and women, the standard house furnishings. But the change of even greater importance is the similarity of information and opinions.

One great factor in this improved condition of the people is good roads. They are a by-product of the automobile. When the motor car brought the increased power to travel, people began to insist on adequate highways that were adapted to their needs. Now all kinds of cars with people from all sections are circulating all over the country. Another important influence is the radio. A third is the motion picture.

These influences have supplemented the schoolhouse in banishing ignorance. They have stimulated and unified the thought of the people, broken down sectional prejudices, and welded us all into one nation. They are outstanding examples of how commercial activity ministers to the spiritual welfare of the people. Deligence in business has carried us to a higher mental and moral plane.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 15.—(UP)—A violent attack on the present administration of the league of nations was contained in a 26 page document which the Italian government sent to the league secretariat today for distribution to all members of the league of nations council.

Although the document is secret so far and has not yet been given to members of the council, it was understood to be directed particularly against Sir Eric Drummond, British secretary general of the league, on the ground that the executive power of the league rests with an Englishman and a Frenchman and that 40 per cent of the high functionaries of the league are either British or French.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(UP)—United States foreign trade dropped in July to the lowest figure in five years, with exports totaling $269,000,000 and imports aggregating $219,000,000, the commerce department announced today. This compares with exports of last July of $402,861 000, a decrease of $133,861,000 and imports of $352,980,000, a drop of $133,980,000.

Exports for the first seven months of this year dropped $680,629 000 below those for the same period last year, from $3,025,949,000 to $2,345,320,000, while imports showed a decrease in the same period of $684,477 000, dropping from $2,639,355,000 to $1,954,878,000.

Midwest And South Given Some Relief

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Rain fell throughout the east and in scattered sections of the west, midwest and south today, breaking into the last strongholds of the $750,000,000 drought of 1930.

In most of the state east of Ohio, rain fell steadily, but lightly, throughout last night and continued today. North central states where the worst of the drought was broken several days ago, received no further relief. The west coast continued dry. Rocky mountain states, in most of which there has been no drought, had light rains. Scattered areas in the south were dampened.

At Cleveland there was a short but heavy rainfall about midnight, giving the vicinity a thorough wetting for the first time since June and breaking the longest drought there since 1881.

Light rains fell in some parts of southern Illinois and Kentucky, where drought suffering has been more acute than in most other sections of the country.

The rains were not heavy enough to cause any considerable rise in the streams, all of which have reached unusually low stages during the last month.

Among the cities which reported light but continued rains today were Washington, Boston, Detroit, New Haven, New York, Harrisburg and Philadelphia. A comparatively heavy rainfall of about 1 inch fell yesterday at Memphis, Tenn. Showers were general over Ohio. Pittsburgh and Los Angeles had no rain since Wednesday.

There has been no rainfall in the Chicago area for several days, but the drought here has not been so severe and recent rainfall took care of immediate needs.

ILLINOIS FLIERS HELD BY SHERIFF

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Paul Montgomery and James Malone, southern Illinois fliers held in connection with the aerial bombing of a non-union mining district near Providence, Ky., last Monday, will be held here and not immediately extradited to Kentucky, Sheriff William Flanigan said today.

A federal warrant charging conspiracy to violate certain sections of the federal aeronautical laws, was issued against Montgomery last night, and pending disposal of that charge, the two will be held in Murphysboro.

Triple Slayer, 63, Electrocuted In Arkansas Prison

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 15.—(UP)—William H. Howell, 63-year-old triple slayer, was electrocuted at the state penitentiary here today. He was the first white man the state had put to death in six years.

Howell killed Cliff Deffenbaugh, superintendent of the Crawford county poor farm; Mrs. Deffenbaugh, and Jeff Nicholson, inmate of the farm, in 1927, when he became enraged because of his dismissal from the farm where he also was an inmate.

With the words "I forgive everybody for it," the aged man—the oldest ever to pa. the supreme penalty in Arkansas—walked calmly to the chair.

The current was turned on at 7:10 a. m. and he was pronounced dead four minutes later.

BIG DIRIGIBLE NEAR COAST OF IRELAND TODAY

Reported to Be Making Record Time and May End Flight Tonight

BULLETIN

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(UP)—The air ministry received a message late today that the steamer Cameron, reported the R-100 seventy miles south southwest of 53.58 north, 27.07 west, at 3:11 o'clock, G. M. T., 10:11 a. m., E. S. T.

Atmospherics were very bad, the ministry announced.

ABOARD THE DIRIGIBLE R-100, Aug. 15.—(UP)—The dirigible R-100, encountering less favorable weather conditions than on the early stages of the return flight to England, made steady progress today over the rain-spattered Atlantic ocean.

Holding steadily to its course along the 53rd parallel, the trans-Atlantic ship was handicapped by clouds and rain in its effort to set a new speed mark across the ocean and was forced to cut its fast pace to about 50 miles an hour.

The crew was straining to obtain the best speed of which the R-100 is capable on the over-water flight of less than 2,000 miles and officers of the ship were confident that the temporary rain clouds would not prove a handicap.

With the ship progressing steadily more than 600 miles out from Belle Island around midnight, E. S. T., only favorable weather was needed to assure a record-breaking flight to Cardington that would surpass the speed mark of the Graf Zeppelin.

The first reduction in the speed of between 72 and 80 miles an hour made by the R-100 down the St. Lawrence valley from Montreal was noticed over the St. Lawrence gulf and became more apparent as the dirigible failed to find the favorable tail winds predicted over the ocean after passing Belle Isle just before 11 a. m., E. S. T., yesterday.

Hope was still held, however, that the dirigible would be able to speed up to around 90 miles an hour and reach Cardington late Friday night or early Saturday.

TRIBES WARNED NOT TO ATTACK BRITISH

KARACHI, India Aug. 15.—(UP)—King Nadir Khan of Afganistan warned members of the Shinwari and Mohammedan tribes today not to join forces with Afridis in their revolt against the British government.

An official communique issued here today characterized the situation on the northwest frontier as one of considerable gravity. Some quarters regarded the announcement as a possible prelude to a declaration of martial law in the Peshawar district.

TO MAKE REVERSE GEAR TRIP

Riding backwards, the same manner in which they travelled here from New York in 18 days, Hargis and Creighton took off at 8 a. m. for San Francisco, the first big city on their west to east course.

O'BRINE AND JACKSON IN GOOD SHAPE

NOW MAKING MONEY

LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD, ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Five days short of a month in the air, the endurance monoplane, the Greater St. Louis circled monotonously overhead today.

As new hours were added to the refueling endurance record of Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, the prediction of the fliers that they would remain aloft 1000 hours became accepted as the real belief of two experienced aviators, rather than a wild hope.

The orange and yellow monoplane was 48 hours past the Hunter brothers' record at 8:52:30 a. m. CST., and at 3:11 p. m. had been in continuous flight 608 hours.

As long as the six-cylinder challenger motor continues to drone with its present regularity, Jackson and O'Brine saw contracts that mean money, and a chance to set up a record that should be unbeatable for a long time.

Four advertising contracts totaling $1800 were closed by W. H. Pickens, their manager today and $100 for each hour in the air up to 70, that the fliers surpass the Hunter brothers' mark of nearly 554 hours, was rolling in, at the rate of $1.55 a minute. The hourly offer was from the company which is supplying gasoline.

Messages from the endurance plane continued to indicate the motor was functioning well, although eating more gas and oil than earlier in the flight. Jackson and O'Brine remained in good spirits, although undoubtedly weary from remaining in the cramped quarters of their cabin, with only the catwalk about the motor available for a stretch of their legs.

GIRL KILLED WHEN TRUCK STRIKES BUS

SAN DIMAS, Calif., Aug. 15.—(UP)—A Sunday school party ended in tragedy near here last night when a bus carrying 19 children rolled over after a collision, killing a young girl.

The victim, Mary Greer, 14, of Charter Oaks, was found dead in the machine's wreckage but the other children escaped without serious injury. A blind corner was blamed for the collision between the bus and a heavy truck.

FLIER, 18, RESUMES FLIGHT TO COAST

It was understood the Italian note did not propose any reorganization of the league but that Italy expressed a desire for radical changes in the league administration such as the establishment of a "committee of direction" with Sir Eric Drummond as chairman or "prime minister." The Italians also suggested that the present four secretaries be increased to eight to act as "ministers" or members of a "league cabinet."

It was believed the document would be debated eventually in the league assembly, where Italy would count on the support of a number of smal states who desire to be more closely represented in the league administration.

TELEVISION BLUSH

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Television has progressed to the extent where it can now broadcast a bride's blush. Scientists doing research work for the Bell Telephone Laboratories here recently announced that they had not only televised a blush, but had broadcast the warmth of the blush by means of heat radiations sent by photo-electric action.

SAYS GERMANY LIVES BEYOND STATE'S MEANS

BERLIN, Aug. 15. — "Germany has lived beyond her means. There has been too much waste and extravagant expenditure in our public and private business!"

With a voice pitched high with emotion and shaking his fists vehemently Adam Stegerwald, Reich Minister of Economics, thus "bawled out" the Solons of the German Reichstag for failing to support the government's new taxation program.

Taking even his cabinet colleagues by surprise, the minister's speech caused a painful sensation, because it bore out, almost word for word, the charges raised against Germany's financial policy by Parker Gilbert in the latter's last official reparations' report published immediately after the General Agent had left Germany for the United States.

"We are facing the appalling fact that we have cherished dangerous illusions all these years and that, through our mismanagement of finances, people lost confidence in the government altogether," continued the minister, while dozens of deputies thronged around the platform and the crowds in the galleries pricked their ears in amazement at the frankness of the minister's charges.

"A serious business depression throughout the world has also entangled Germany. We are in the midst of a very serious financial and business crisis, which we shall have to overcome by the most drastic means conceivable. Now has come the hour for quick action.

"In the situation we are in nothing can save us but the most rigid economy all along the line. Our situation is entirely different from what it was a year ago. Between 1924 and 1928 two and a half to three billion marks worth of foreign capital flowed to Germany and gave a million people work and bread. Today this flood has not only ceased, but large amounts of German capital go abroad instead. German agriculture working without profit for the last years, cannot afford to buy German products for lack of capital. z"We have lived beyond our means in every respect, and we are paying the price for it now. The Reich, the Federal Republics and the communities, in the midst of the depression, are forced to meet short-termed obligations or have to transform them into long-termed ones with heavy sacrifices. Confidence in the government's leadership and the administration is severely shaken. Almost every important trade is down. The building trade at present employs about half a million men less than a year ago."

refinishings, would demand that garages take action to end the strike.

A surprising and sensational phase of Billings' testimony pertained to his arrest in Sacramento in 1913 when he was convicted of illegal possession of dynamite.

He said that State Senator Edgar N. Hurley, Oakland, Calif., paid him $25 and expenses to transport a suitcase of dynamite from San Francisco to Sacramento. According to Billings, he was not sure that he was carrying dynamite but suspected it. He advised that in his opinion the explosive was to be used in destroying electric towers at Sacramento in connection with an electrical workers strike.

Accuses Hurley

In 1913 Senator Hurley was prominent in certain labor circles in Oakland. Other than naming Hurley as the man who paid him, Billings said he knew nothing of Hurley's labor activities.

The court delved deeply into Billings' life previous to the preparedness day parade and frequently asked him to tell the state of his morals from time to time.

"I know it was not creditable," Billings said, "but in 1913 my attitude was to earn a living in the easiest way."

An interesting incident in connection with Billings' 1913 arrest was that it resulted in the present hearing being held. Billings served two years in prison that time and after conviction of the preparedness day bombing was sent to Folsom for life.

In California previously convicted men must have a recommendation from the supreme court before the governor may grant a pardon and that is the sole reason the court is now "re-trying" the case through the avenue of Billings' application hearing. The case of Mooney, who was convicted on virtually the same evidence, must be acted on by Gov. C. C. Young.

Justice John W. Preston of the supreme court, a former prosecutor, conducted the questioning for the court and under his searching examination Billings held up well.

The little convict, seated in a big chair which was placed in front of a "master key door" to all Folsom cells, confirmed in part the repudiation story of John MacDonald, missing witness whose return to California to tell that his identification of Billings and Mooney was "a pack of lies" aided in bringing about the bombing retrial.

Billings said he did not know MacDonald prior to his arrest and that MacDonald's repudiation of his identification at the trial must have been correct as he was not near Steuart and Market streets, where the blast occurred.

Scorns Parole

Preston devoted much time to wondering why Billings never applied for a parole, although eligible for one for six years.

"I feel that paroles are for those who were guilty but repentant," Billings said. "I am absolutely innocent and therefore feel I should have a full pardon."

"Why didn't you apply for a parole and then seek a pardon while on parole?" Preston wanted to know. Billings indicated that he felt his case was virtually hopeless and said he did not want to complicate Mooney's pardon application with his own, fearing that his previous criminal record would be a factor against Mooney, who was a "first termer."

Expressing confidence that Moonel is innocent too, Billings told the court that Martin Swanson, Pacific Gas and Electric detective, had offered him $5000 to aid in "framing" Mooney on a dynamiting charge prior to the Preparedness Day bombing and that he refused to have anything to do with it.

Last week in San Francisco during the hearing, Edward Cunha, assistant prosecutor who aided in convicting Billings, quoted him as saying after his arrest: "You know part of the story and expect to get the rest from me but you won't."

Billings declared that was not true and under cross examination by Cunha said he did not recall ever talking with Cunha before the trial.

Not Socialist

Billing denied being connected with socialistic or communistic organizations and that he had no desire to overthrow the government by armed force. Preston hammered away on this point for many minutes, finally asking:

"If your vote could change the government what would you do?"

At this point Edwin V. McKenzie, Billings' attorney, said laughingly: "That is a good statement, as four of the seven supreme court justices are Democrats."

The prison session opened at 5 p. m., after the lockup. The witness chair was in front of a steel door which, when closed, automatically locks every cell in the prison. These precautions were taken to prevent a demonstration or riot on the part of Folsom's 2200 convicts. Billings was the only man not locked up, aside from a few special duty men.

A point stressed by Billings in his story was that he did not intend going on the lecture platform to tell the world that "California had framed him." Such a thing never entered his head, he explained.

No Reason to Kill

"I had no reason to kill anyone on Preparedness day," Billings told McKenzie as the hearing neared midnight. "I agreed with President Wilson that the United States should be neutral but I didn't feel strongly about it."

"President Wilson changed his mind," Justice Preston said, "did you?"

"By that time I was in jail," Billings said.

The unusual prison session was the first time Billings, the obscure member of the Mooney-Billings case, ever told his story in detail. Ever since conviction, the aggressive Mooney has directed a fight for freedom from his San Quentin cell, but Billings at Folsom has done little until this year.

At 11:50 p. m. Justice William H. Waste, announced conclusion of the prison session.

"The hearing will convene again next Monday at 10:30 a. m. in the state building at San Francisco in an effort to bring this matter to a conclusion as speedily as possible."

47 MINERS ARE STILL TRAPPED UNDER DEBRIS

"I have tried to organize them into shifts," George Murray, manager of the mine said this morning as he rested for a few minutes on an oxygen tank near the portal, "but they won't hear of it. They work 18 hours, take a couple of hours sleep, and insist on going back.

"How are you, Bob?" he shouted with a forced smile at a miner who was about to re-enter the tunnel, dog tired.

"Fine," the man answered, "I had two hours sleep."

Murray, himself, had not slept for 36 hours. He was begrimed from the muck and dust and after damp.

Murray and John G. Biggs mine inspector, had both been "knocked out" twice by the effects of the after damp, and many of the men had gone "out," more than several times."

"They fell like flies," Murray said. "Three, at one time, dropped on their faces across the tracks in the tunnel. Others became delirious; some lost control of their legs and reeled from one side of the tunnel to the other."

A pall of silence had fallen over the little village today. Yesterday there was hope, today there was none, but the rescue work will continue, they say, until the blocked shaft and slopes have been penetrated and the fate of the 47 is known.

Heat Drives Bees Into Residences

TUSCOLA, Ill., Aug. 15.—(UP)—Residents of this vicinity had more than heat to spoil their sense of comfort during the recent hot weather. The additional annoyment was in the form of bees that swooped down on farm homes, seeking relief from the extreme heat in the open country.

B. Z. Smith, who lives a short distance west of here, has a rather extensive apiary on his farm. The bees began buzzing and swarming around his home soon after the hot weather set in and kept B. Z. busy.

Everything was tried to discourage the bees from entering the residence but to no avail. Finally Smith was forced to obtain a spray, filled it with a carbolic acid solution and routed the bees.

FAST THINKING PUTS JERNIGAN ONE HOP AHEAD

Whatever is said about Sam Jernigan, sheriff, in the present campaign, the following story will indicate that he at least is "on his toes."

Jernigan was campaigning out at Midway City the other day when he ran across several men, building a service station. He stopped his car, reached over in the back and took a handful of campaign cigars out and started to the service station.

Going up to the man he thought looked like foreman, he said,

"Well, you having much trouble with candidates out this way?"

"No, not much. Some of 'em been around," the man answered.

Then Jernigan handed him a cigar and kept on talking. "My name's Sam Jernigan. I'm running for sheriff."

"Sure, I know you, Mr. Jernigan," the foreman answered.

The foreman lit the cigar and then laughed. "Sorry I can't vote for you. I live over in Long Beach," he said.

"All these other men live in Long Beach too?" Jernigan asked, in a dismayed voice.

"Yes, all of them," he was told, and the foreman laughed long and loud, for the joke was a good one, he thought.

"Well," said Jernigan, as he continued to hand out the cigars, "I'm over here campaigning for Bill Traeger, you know."

Live Fowls Sent By Air In Europe

MALMOE, Sweden, Aug. 15.—Shipping of live chickens by air from the Continent to Sweden is the latest wrinkle in Swedish farming. One of the largest consignments of this kind ever made recently was landed here on board the ordinary mail and passenger plane of the Swedish Aerotransport Company from Germany. It held 1,800 live chickens, stored in boxes, and due to the even temperature of the cabin and the smooth flying, every bird was alive and well.

They were immediately taken out and loaded into closed automobiles and rushed to the modern chicken farm near here, belonging to Mrs. Ebba Weibull, one of the largest fowl breeders in the country. Mrs. Weibull last year imported 4,000 birds via air, and this year she has received 4,800. Of the first shipment of 1,000 only four were dead when the plane arrived, she says, whereas many more would have perished if they had been sent by rail.

BOARD GIVING CONSIDERATION TO APPLICANTS

With the field of candidates for the position as assistant superintendent of Santa Ana schools seemingly narrowed down to two men, possibility that the official will be selected by the board within the next week seemed quite certain today. The return of Superintendent J. A Cranston to the city today from his trip through the East, following the session of the National Education association, which he attended, is also regarded as a factor that probably will lead to the immediate selection of his assistant.

The two men, who it is understood are most favorably considered by the board of education are J. O. McLaughlin, of Palo Alto, and Percy Davis, of Berkeley, formerly of San Bernardino, with some preponderance resting with Davis, who is a California trained executive. Davis, it is understood, is to be in Santa Ana again this afternoon for a conference with Herbert Miller, a member of the board, who was not present at the board meeting last Tuesday night when Davis presented his qualifications for the approval of the board members.

McLaughlin and Davis have been studying for additional degrees in universities, the former at Stanford and the latter at the University of California. McLaughlin for some years was a city superintendent in Oregon and assisted teacher training work at Oregon State college. Davis, it is understood, has been in business since leaving school administration work at San Bernardino, but has determined to re-enter this profession.

FITTS SUPPORTERS IN ORANGE COUNTY

A group of Los Angeles women were touring Orange county yesterday calling on members of the W. C. T. U. in the interests of the Buron Fitts candidacy for governor. They are enthusiastically for Fitts and believe his nomination to be certain.

Those in the party were Mrs. Alberta Andrews, 2207 Elsinor street, Los Angeles, president W. C. T. U. local, Echo Park, treasurer W. C. T. U. federation, representing 28 local unions of Los Angeles, with a membership of about 4500, and which voted unanimously in June endorsing Fitts for governor; Mrs. Nellie McDowell, 632 South Fifty-seventh street, Los Angeles, president Crusade W. C. T. U. local, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Bessie H. Wilson, 4714 Washington street, Los Angeles.

CANDIDATES FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY AND SHERIFF AT HUNTINGTON BEACH MEETING

Four candidates for district attorney, three candidates for sheriff and one candidate for coroner were represented in person or by proxy at the first public meeting of the present political campaign held in Huntington Beach last night at the city auditorium.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Citizens' league of Huntington Beach a new organization, of which Roy Callahan is president. Callahan acted as chairman of the meeting, introducing the speakers. No expression of the sentiment of the 200 to 250 men and women present was sought.

Logan Jackson

Logan Jackson, candidate for sheriff, the first speaker, pledged himself to a program of law enforcement if elected. He said that respect for law implied first of all a respect for the officers of the law and that the voters should select a sheriff who could command the respect of the public.

Jackson gave a brief recital of his experience as a constable, peace officer and sheriff that extended over a period of 10 years.

"I do not use liquor," he said. "If elected sheriff I will not employ in my office any person who does use liquor. It is preposterous for an officer who violates the 18th amendment himself to arrest somebody else for doing what he himself does. If they can destroy the 18th amendment they can destroy the whole constitution." Jackson said that the taxpayers spent $37,000 a year for the sheriff's department and were entitled to expect a great deal for their money.

R. E. Haynes

R. E. Haynes, candidate for district attorney, talked of the maintenance of prisoners and the condition of the penal institutions, which he said were overcrowded. He referred to his experience as district attorney and county attorney in border counties in Idaho, for six years. He laid stress on his experience in juvenile cases and declared that he was not candidate of any society, clique or clan.

"Big Bill" Sylvester

"Big Bill" Sylvester, candidate for sheriff, made a brief but interesting talk in which he recited his wide acquaintance in Orange county and his experience as a salesman in meeting the public. He urged the need of protective measures for boys and girls and the value of the sheriff keeping in touch with the young people through visits to the schools. He recited a wide personal acquaintance with the boys of Orange county, and pledged that the guardianship of the sheriff's office would be thrown about the boys and girls if he was nominated at the primaries.

Harry Westover

Harry Westover, candidate for district attorney, said:

"I congratulate the voters of Huntington Beach on holding a meeting of this character. There are so many good men in the political field at this time that the issues are clouded.

Westover pledged himself to abate the slot machines and punch boards operating in the county, if elected district attorney. He declared that if the slot machines were operating against the law, as they evidently are doing, and it was in the power of the district attorney to stop them, he surely would stop them. Continuing he said:

"Mr. West, the retiring district attorney, I am told, said that I am impossible. He said that the voters might safely elect Collins or Wetlin, but not Westover.

Experience

"They are telling that I have no ability, never tried a case in the supreme court, that I have had no experience, that I have had little experience as a criminal lawyer. But prosecutions are only about a third of the business of the district attorney's office. I have filed more civil cases in the courts than all my opposing candidates put together. When they say I have no experience they are telling a damnable falsehood.

"I stand for law enforcement. I stand for abolishment of slot machines and punch boards." You can tell a man by the company he keeps. The reference of the candidate for district attorney as to the company a man keeps, was so worded that it was apparent he meant he had no acquaintainship with the criminal element of the county, had not served this element as an attorney in the past and hence such element could expect no favors from him as district attorney, if he were elected to the office.

Ralph McFadden, candidate for sheriff, spoke briefly, stating that law enforcement was his policy and that it meant enforcement of all the laws to the best of his ability.

"I feel the office of sheriff needs to be brought up to a higher and more modern standard and that changes and improvements can and should be made. The grand jury has made certain recommendations that have not been complied with.

"These grand jury recommendations should receive the serious consideration of any county official. They come from a body of citizenry who have made an unbiased investigation and given their recommendations in all sincerity of purpose and motive."

David Wettlin, candidate for district attorney, former city attorney for Huntington Beach and former deputy district attorney of Orange county, delivered an extensive address.

"The county of Orange is the largest business organization in the county and the district attorney is the legal advisor of all the county officers in county affairs," he said. "You voters are entitled to know the ability of the men you are asked to vote for. You put a district attorney on the job to prosecute criminals. He has to meet and cope with the best legal talent money can hire. If your district attorney cannot meet this type of opponent, then the office is a farce.

S. W. Kaufman

S. W. Kaufman, former deputy district attorney, was introduced as representing Sam Collins, candidate for district attorney. Kaufman directed much of his talk at Westover and Haynes, and recited the experience that Collins had in the office of district attorney, which he said, thoroughly qualified Collins for the office. He urged that a vote for Collins meant a vote for efficiency in the office of district attorney.

A. H. Dixon

A. H. Dixon spoke for Coroner Charles D. Brown. Dixon urged the support of the voters for Coroner Brown, who is a candidate for re-election. Dixon stated that the coroner was in reality the highest officer in the county and was over district attorney, sheriff and all, in that, if the need arose, the coroner was the only man whose power over all the county officers was supreme, in that the coroner was the only officer who could arrest the sheriff, the district attorney or the supreme judges if need arose. He said that Coroner Brown had been fair in the conduct of his office and was as able and efficient as he was fair and courteous.

Wife Wanted For Congress Battle

Smith, who gives his Chicago address as "general delivery" wrote to Governor Young that despite the heat of a political campaign he craves the hand of a California maid in marriage.

"What I want is a girl that will want just one man, as I am just for one girl only," he wrote the governor. "I would like to meet someone between 14 and 55 years old. Now, I prefer red or black hair, but I'm not against blondes or brunettes."

ANNOUNCE GIFT OF CHURCH TO COLORED BODY

Meeting in the interest of the Second Baptist, colored, of Santa Ana, friends and members of the First Baptist, Nazarene and Second Baptist churches heard the formal announcement made by the Rev. U. E. Harding, Nazarene pastor, of the gift of the old Nazarene building to the Second Baptist church at a luncheon yesterday in the First Baptist church.

The Nazarene church, now located will be moved to Eighth and Artesia streets, the present site of the negro church. The Nazarenes wil lmeet in the Fox Broadway theater on Sunday mornings and work will start on their new edifice at Broadway and Bishop streets within the next two weeks.

The Rev. Otto Russell, former pastor of the First Baptist church, was one of the special speakers at the meeting. He spoke in appreciation of the Nazarenes and stated that the state board of missions of the First Baptist church, in convention, recently appropriated $1,000 to move the building for the Second church. Among the other speakers were the Rev. Harry Evans Owings, William Jerome, Bruce Switzler, L. E. Martin and J. P. Williams.

The colored women's quartet from the Friendship Baptist church in Pasadena provided music for the meeting. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sharar, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Purdom, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Martin, Mrs. Myrtlebell Parsons, Harry Evan Owings, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Williams, Mrs. O. S. Catland, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Marshall, L. R. Stausbury, Paul S. Hanna and the Rev. MrElroy Stovall.

School Students Discouraged From Entering Contests

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 15.—Pupils in California public schools will be discouraged from entering competition in the 1932 Olympic games, superintendent of public instruction Vierling Kersey announced.

A resolution adopted by the California public school Olympic game committee reads:

"We believe that competitive participation by boys and girls of public school age in connection with the Olympic games is not beneficial to their physical, mental and social welfare. Therefore, we recommend that the public schools limit their sponsorship to group demonstration of activities typical of programs of physical education according to highest educational standards.

"In keeping with this recommendation we shall most heartily encourage and support this demonstration type of activity if given the opportunity."

EAT THEIR NOISE

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—This town has no elevated railways or noisy motorists to keep it awake, but it has a far worse evil—a swamp full of frogs. To eliminate this noise, Dr. J. B. Hullett of the board of health has suggested that the frogs be shot by health officers and be used to furnish frog suppers to citizens.

LEGION SENDS 100 DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

More than 100 Santa Ana members of the American Legion and of the American Legion auxiliary are leaving here today and tomorrow for the state convention of the Legion, to be held in Sacramento for three days, starting Monday.

A number of private cars containing Legion men left here this morning. Members of the Santa Ana Amrican Legion Auxiliary Glee club, 20 in number, were to leave Wilmington this afternoon via boat for San Francisco and then to Sacramento, and the Santa Ana American Legion Drum corps, of 43 men, will leave here tomorrow, on a special car, for the convention city.

YOUNG BACKERS IN FULLERTON ORGANIZE CLUB

A Fullerton Young-for-Governor club was launched at a meeting held in the office of Attorney Albert Launer in Fullerton this morning, when Judge Rex Goodcell, who is on a speaking tour of the Southland for the governor, spoke briefly.

Another meeting, when final steps in the organization of the club are taken, will be held sometime next week, it was announced. Howard Irwin, Fullerton realtor, is slated to head the organization. Irwin is a member of the county Republican central committee.

It was reported at the meeting that many Legion members of Fullerton had expressed a desire to join the Young organization.

Accomplishments of Governor Young were outlined by Goodcell. He discussed his ability as an executive and declared that the attacks which had been made by his rivals were ridiculous.

The contest, Goodcell said, is between Young and Rolph. Observations on a speaking tour in the north were cited by Goodcell, who said that while Rolph was strong in the north, indications were that Young would poll a much larger vote.

Reports from all over the state revealed an increasing interest in the candidacy of Young, Goodcell said.

WOMEN IN PULPIT

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A petition to admit women to the ministry of the Church of England is being considered by the conference of bishops which recently met at Lambeth. This movement is nothing new, as women preachers are known all over the country. But their acceptance by the religious heads is somewhat vague, and it is expected that official approval will come out of the conference.

SERVICES FOR MARCHANT ARE HELD THURSDAY

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the Smith and Tuthill Funeral parlors for Clyde Marchant, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Marchant, of West Sixth street, Tustin. Marchant had lived in Tustin for 29 years, and formerly was a resident of Jewell county, Kas., where he was born. He was a graduate of Santa Ana High school and Stanford university. He also attended a year in the Tustin grammar school.

Following his schooling, he worked in South America, as an engineer employed by the government. He was married in 1916 to Jessie A. Nodder, of Buenos Aires.

Due to a failing in health, he, with his family, returned to California about four years ago, where he was placed in a sanitarium, while his family was at the parental Marchant home. Marchant's health gradually improved, but he again suffered a relapse, from which he never recovered.

Marchant is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Marchant, a sister, Miss Mildred Marchant, and his three children, Samuel, Lenora, and Donald. His wife died a year and a half ago, while on duty as a trainednurse at Downey.

CITRUS ASSOCIATION PAYS $158,116.72 TO MEMBERS

The Santa Ana-Tustin Mutual Citrus association, under the management of A. J. Theis, this week made its first payments to the growers from the first pool, which ran from May 1, to July 1. Payments to growers amounted to $158,116.72, with an average of $3.29 per field box, or $6.58 per 100 pounds, net to the growers.

An average eight cars of oranges is being shipped each week, with a total of 122 cars up to date. This date marks the middle of the second pool, which runs from July 1, to September 1, while the third pool runs from September 1 to October 1, and the fourth pool, which will finish the season, probably will last through the middle of October.

Sixty cars of fruit are yet to be shipped this season while 68 cars were shipped in the first pool, with 462 boxes to each car.

Although a lighter crop was produced this year, prices to the growers, in some cases, were better than for last year's crop, due to the present scarcity of fruit on the market, according to Theis. From all present indications, a larger crpp is being predicted for next year, ranging second to last year's crop.

AUDIENCE OF 7000 PRESENT TO HEAR BAND AND ADDRESS BY PHIL SWING LAST NIGHT

By RUTH ANDREWS

Record crowds continue in attendance at the weekly concert programs being offered in Birch park by Santa Ana Municipal band under D. C. Cianfoni's direction, the largest crowd of the season being in attendance last night. An audience approximating 7000 packed the small park to capacity.

They were drawn from all over the county in anticipation of the "California Night" program, with appearance of Congressman Phil D. Swing as a special attraction, many people standing throughout the entire program.

An impressive demonstration by the American Legion Drum and Buble corps preceded the program effectively, lending a patriotic note to the event.

Contrasts of tempo, mood and shading were quickly apparent in the opening overture, "The Big Bear," one of Cianfoni's own stimulating compositions, read by the director with characteristic verve and fire. The favorite arrangement from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" was richly colored, interpreted with feeling for detail and dramatic effect in an exceedingly artistic portrayal.

In response to many requests, Cianfoni's own band arrangement of themes from Cadman's graceful light opera "The Belle of Havana" was repeated for the second time this season, its joyous gaiety and appealing melody having made it a favorite with local audiences.

Presentation of the featured march, "The Boulder Dam," composed by Director Cianfoni within recent months and dedicated by him to Congressman Swing as a tribute for his efforts in the Boulder dam controversy, was preceded by a brief introductory analysis of the work by Harry Hanson, president and manager of the band, adding decidedly to its interest.

The work, descriptive throughout, symbolizes events marking the history of the Boulder dam project, opening discordantly, followed by more harmonious treatment, ensuing conflict in the closing trio finally concluded triumphantly. Vigorous reading of the impressionistic work under its composer's baton was followed by Congressman Swing's introduction to the throng by Hanson, the entire assembly rising in welcome.

Expressing his happiness in being present, and his appreciation for the unique march describing in musical language the Boulder dam controversy and dedicated to him by Cianfoni, Swing paid high tribute to Santa Ana's musical organizations.

"I know of no city in California that can boast of finer musical organizations than this city possesses," he stated. "These organizations are an asset of which any community has a right to be proud. I was already well aware of Cianfoni's reputation as a musical director in Erie, Pennsylvania, prior to his coming to Santa Ana, Congressman Shreve from Pennsylvania having praised his work highly to me while I was in Washington."

Briefly touching upon past difficulties encountered during the Boulder dam controversy, Swing outlined the benefits to result from this undertaking, attributing his utimate success in putting over this project to the support of loyal Californians, paying personal tribute to Colonel Finley and W. Jerome of this city, as well as the people in general.

Stressing his optimism concerning increased financial prosperity for this section, Swing expressed the belief that Southern California would be the first place in the United States to recover from the recent depression because of the profit it will experience through the Boulder dam project.

"Utilization of the resources of the Colorado river will aid tremendously in developing California's agricultural and mineral resources, as well as prove of great benefit to manufacturing industries. Within the next 20 years, I predict an increase of 5,000,000 additional population for this section," Swing commented.

The congressman's address was followed by a pleasing song group by that popular local ensemble, the American Legion Auxiliary Glee club, directed by Cecil Willits. Voices blent sweetly in the old favorite "I Love You, California," selected in tribute to Swing, "O Irish Hills" (Lester) which they plan to offer in the state contest for Legion choruses in which they will participate next Tuesday, also the graceful "Rosita" and as an encore, the popular "Chant of the Jungle."

Two favorite descriptive compositions from Cianfoni's pen followed, the melodies "Echoes of the Mission," suggestive of sacred lore of early California, its interwoven chimes and chanting of male voices softly restful; also the picturesque intermezzo, "California Whispering Pines" with its hint of natural setting and realistically interwoven twitter of foodland birds. Ever alluring melody of the Strauss Viennese waltzes, "The Blue Danube," made a conclusion of never failing appeal.

THEIR BIG EVENT

LILLE, France, Aug. 14.—It was just a small event to some people, but to Leon Decaen and Simone Flament, performers in Barnum's show here, it was the biggest event in their lives. It was their wedding, which united two of the smallest performers in the world. The bridegroom was four feet tall and the bride three feet four inches.

PASTOR 'TAKEN FOR RIDE' TO BAPTISM

DENVER, Aug. 15. — (INS)— While the Rev. J. T. Coulter, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal church here, was engaged in a baptismal ceremony at a local hospital, police were searching for him throughout the city at the request of his wife, who feared he had been "taken for a ride."

The Rev. Mr. Coulter was called to the door of his home, the wife stated, and after a hurried conference with two men, left the house—saying he would be gone a short time.

Mrs. Coulter, seeing three men in a large, curtained car in front, immediately became apprehensive when he failed to return after some time and called the police.

Shortly after patrolmen had been detailed to search, the Rev. Mr. Coulter telephoned to advise his wife that he would be late. He was baptizing a man seriously ill.

WHITE COLLAR WORK APPEALS TO GRID STARS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—(INS)—"White-collar" jobs seem to have supplanted the pick-an-shovel, stevedoring and other laborious endeavors that football players pursue in the off months so as to enable them to keep in condition for the coming grid campaign, judging by the summer activities of Quaker City stars.

Of the 45 moleskin warriors, of Temple University, only ten are indulging in work that requires more brawn than brains.

But that's all right according to Head Coach Heinie Miller, whose tutoring has brought the Owls from rank obscurity to national prominence in the short space of four years.

"It doesn't make any difference to me whether the boys work hard or take things easy, provided they do not go to extremes in either case. Some of the players were employed at heavy work last summer, while others took easy jobs or else did nothing, and I could not note one particle of difference in their playing last fall," Miller said.

"I do not believe in letting football players work too vigorously during the summer months, as they become both mentally and physically tired.

"On the other hand, I do not like to see the players loaf through the entire summer. Some of the athletes go home and do nothing but eat and sleep and as a result, they report to the training camp much over weight, and it takes them at least a week to work off the excess poundage. It is up to the individual himself whether or not he wants to work. It doesn't make any difference to me as long as he reports in the proper physical condition."

HOOVER FACES TASK IN NAMING MEXICO ENVOY

By LOUIS JAY HEATH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—President Hoover will soon be faced with the difficult task of naming a new ambassador to Mexico City to succeed Dwight W. Morrow. Morrow's success in the New Jersey senatorial primaries has made his resignation only a matter of months and already interest is centering here in his probable successor.

Observers see a dual problem confronting the president in selecting a man for the Mexican post. Mexican-United States relations are now on a more friendly basis than for many years past. Mr. Hoover is understood earnestly to desire that they remain so. Ambassador Morrow has, according to all reports endeared himself to Mexico officials and to the Mexican people who will feel keen disappointment at his departure and inevitably will measure his successor by comparisons with him.

President Hoover's task is to select a man who can measure up to the Morrow standard of ability and at the same time carry on the policy of friendly international cooperation which began with Morrow's advent in Mexican-United States relations.

For some time past the name most frequently mentioned whenever official and unofficial speculation is heard is that of J. Reuben Clark, who has been holding the fort at Mexico City during Morrow's recent absence. Of late there have been rumors that for private reasons, largely because of the heavy financial burden which the Mexican ambassadorship entails, Clark might hesitate to accept the post if it were offered him. Clark would be persona grata to Mexico, it is believed in unofficial circles here and Mexican Ambassador Tellez in private conversations frequently has expressed a very high opinion of his capabilities.

Clark's association with Morrow is also of long standing and there are many here who believe that the former Assistant Secretary of state would be Morrow's own personal choice as a successor. His association with Morrow in Mexico has made him thoroughly familiar with the ambassador's methods and program which should prove valuable in continuing the present relations. It is also believed that Morrow's recommendation in the matter will have a most important bearing upon the president's final selection.

Where did you get that spiffy ensemble?

WELL, BOB—You know whether a fellow goes to college or high—it takes a lot of new clothes. So I went into Hill & Carden's and outfitted from head to toes, and Bob, Hill & Carden's have everything a fellow needs for school wear—they have the classiest new suits and their furnishings are "positively knockouts."

"WHY MAN ALIVE" . . . I bought three $3.00 and $3.50 Shirts for only $5.85—4 shorts and uppers for only 79c each. This suit for $40.00, and it's the latest fall style, too. Hat for $5.00—Florsheim shoes, $8.85—1 dozen fancy rayon hose for $3.00—and a peachy gladstone bag for only $9.85. I guess that isn't so bad. Anyway Dad was sure pleased and I—well you said it.

MATTY LAIRD TO PILOT NO. ONE AIRSHIP

He will pilot a Laird Speedwing Special, similar in construction to the plane in which Charles W. (Speed) Holman executed one of the first outside loops of aviation history.

Official entry number "Two" has been alloted to Margery Louise Doig, of Danbury, Conn., in the Women's Western Air Derby, a race from a Pacific coast city to Curtiss-Reynolds airport, scene of this year's Olymplad of the Air, from Aug. 23 to Sept. 1. Miss Doig, who holds a limited Department of Commerce commercial license, will fly a Pitcairn biplane.

Another Chicago veteran flyer-designer, Eddie Heath, has received entry numbers "Three," "Four," and "Five." One of his entries is a Heath Cannonball, a midget plane which attained a speed of 150 miles an hour at last year's races.

Gladys O'Donnell, who received several awards in last year's closed course events, also has entered the Women's Western Air Derby this year, but as yet has not been assigned a number. She plans to pilot a Waco biplane.

The Thompson Trophy race is the outstanding speed event of this year's meet. This race carries total prizes of $10,000 for the first three fliers, as well as gold, silver, and bronze trophies. Forty-three other events have been scheduled and approved, and include several stunting events in addition to the closed course races in the shout which take place from August 23rd to September 1st.

A YODER AFFAIR

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Aug. 15.—When Newton G. Yoder, 26-year-old farmer of West Liberty married Miss Mary Yoder, 27-yearold teacher of West Liberty, the Yoders had things all their own way. Newton's father married a Miss Artie Yoder, and his wife's father married a Miss Saloma Yoder. There are no relation ties between any of the families.

TARIFF RULES CAUSE SPANISH TRADE PROTEST

MADRID, Aug. 15. — Although there is an insistent demand among various commercial and trade bodies that Spain abrogate its existent modus vivendi with the United States, there is little possibility of the present government taking such a step.

As soon as President Herbert Hoover signed the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, the government appointed a committee comprised of employees and experts of the ministry of state and the ministry of national economy to consider the requests of Spanish business men.

The committee deemed that the modus vivendi should be abrogated, not only on account of the tariff which is particularly hard on Spanish products — especially manufactured cork—but on account of the other restrictive measures which United States has adopted, in connection with the so-called Mediterranean fruit fly, not to mention the loss of business which the 18th Amendment caused.

Now that the report has been made, however, there is little chance of anything being done about it. The Berenguer government is more and more showing a tendency to postpone the solution of such problems to the time when Spain shall return to parliamentary government, and it would hardly care to risk the responsibility of denouncing the 1906 treaty, but would much prefer to have a government chosen by the nation to handle such an important question.

The clearest indication that nothing will be done for the time being, however, can be derived from the fact that during the last week of June the Duke of Alba, minister of state, departed for a relatively long tour of France, England, and Switzerland, and upon his return to Spain he intends to remain in the summer resorts on the north coast.

AN OFFICER, TOO

OLD CAP AND BALL PISTOL DISCOVERED

CHICO, Calif., Aug. 15.—An old cap and ball pistol, estimated to be about 100 years old, was found here when J. W. Perkiss was digging a pipe line on one of the city streets.

The pistol was five feet underground. The handle had rotted away, and the iron parts were heavily coated with rust, but the brass trigger guard was still in perfect condition.

After cleaning the weapon, it was found to be a Colt, with the number 133,830 engraved on the side.

BAN BILLBOARDS

PARIS, Aug. 15.—By placing a heavy tax on billboards which are becoming a nuisance in France, the government plans to tax them out of existence. Rates contemplated now include a tax levy of $24 for every square foot of billboards less than six square feet in size. If this goes into effect all over the country some of the large billboards will bring a tax of$16,000.

SAYS YOUNG OR ROLPH IS REAL BALLOT ISSUE

Presented to a group of campaign workers and leaders today at luncheon at St. Ann's inn, by Freeman Bloodgood, Young manager in Orange county, Judge Rex B. Goodcell, former collector of internal revenue, of Los Angeles, gave an interesting resume of the progress of the Young campaign and stressed points which are winning increasing strength for Governor Young. Judge Goodcell is just completing a tour of the entire state and is fully informed on conditions throughout the state.

"The real issue of the campaign is whether the people want Young or Rolph," Goodcell declared. He then spoke of conditions in the northern part of the state, where he declared the sentiment was that Fitts would not carry anything north of the Tehachapi mountains.

"Informed politicians there assert that Fitts will receive only 160,000 votes in the entire state and that 130,000 of this vote will come from the eight southern counties," the speaker said. "Betting in the north is three to one against Fitts and 10 to seven for Young. The Rolph people in San Francisco declare that their only hope is that Fitts will split the vote sufficiently to enable the ultra liberals to elect Rolph."

It was brought out that Governor Young had secured the state building for the south after that project had hung fire for 15 years; that the University of California at Los Angeles had received only the old buildings in Los Angeles from past administrations, but that the governor had secured support which made possible its great expansion; and that under Gov. Young the secondary highways in the south had received state approval in a ratio of four to one as for those in the north. It also was revealed that Young was the only one of the candidates who has pledged against a plan of congressmen at large and in favor of giving representation in congress and the state assembly as provided through the law and the 1930 census, declaring that he would veto any other plan.

"The people of the state are beginning to understand the falsity of the tax propaganda spread by the Governor's opponents," Judge Goodcell asserted. "They are resentful of having been misled by such false statements. They resent the fact that Mr. Fitts is knowingly promising a revision of the tax system of the state that has been held directly unconstitutional by the supreme court of the United States.

"The opinion is unquestionably growing, based on such wild misstatements as those concerning the tax situation, that neither Mayor Rolph nor Mr. Fitts has any knowledge at all of the structure of state government. Both have promised to do things that under the law can't be done. Neither of the governor's opponents has a real issue in the campaign except personal ambition."

Judge Goodcell is scheduled to speak at Laguna Beach tonight.

Norman Paul made a slight gain on Mario Mercurio in the boys' division for first place and Sue Verberg climbed up on the lead piled up by Corrine Pennington, who is second in the girl's division. Luvina Layton Schade continued to lead in this division.

The contest closes on Aug. 24, a week from Sunday.

NOAH RUSH IS WARNED TODAY ON PROBATION

A "slip" on the part of Noah Rush will mean a term in the penitentiary, as a result of action taken by Judge James L. Allen in superior court today.

Rush was before the court on a petition filed by the probation department asking that probation previously granted on a plea of guilty to operating a motor car while under the influence of liquor last winter, be revoked because of asserted violation of the terms of probation. The prisoner since that time had been found guilty of the same charge by a jury, and is now serving time in the county jail in lieu of paying a fine of $500 that was assessed by the court.

Judge Allen revoked the probation granted at the time of the first offense after the hearing today and sentenced Rush to the penitentiary for a term of from one to three years. Then he suspended the sentence, giving the prisoner a chance to make good under the stimulus of a "powerful threat." A condition of the suspension of sentence was that he leave intoxicating liquor alone.

Rush, who was injured in the latest accident which resulted in his arrest on a charge of operating a car while intoxicated, was remanded to the custody of the sheriff to carry out the rest of his sentence on the jury conviction.

SANTA ANA GIRL GIVEN AUDITION

Miss Florine Pollock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Pollock, 1113 West Fifth street, was in Los Angeles today for an audition held in Baldwin hall under the auspices of the Southern California Music company, with a scholarship at the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, New York, as a reward for the successful contestant.

Miss Pollock is a young coloratura soprano, a pupil of Ellis Rhodes of the Orange County school of Fine Arts, and has won much praise throughout Orange county. She has appeared on various programs and in different churches of the county, and was presented in a successful recital on Tuesday evening in Anaheim.

Miss Hazel Filer, who accompanied her on that occasion, will be at the piano for one of her numbers at the audition, "Une Voce Poco Fa" from "The Barber of Seville," by Rossini, and her mother, Mrs. Pollock, will accompany her in her second song, "For You Alone," by Geehl.

Th condition of J. C. Nava, pastor of the Mexicon Methodist church here, who was seriously injured on August 1, in an automobile crash, and who has been in the Santa Ana Valley hospital since that time, was reported improved today. He suffered a fractured skull and his condition has been critical.

FOUR INJURED IN HEADON COLLISION

Four persons were injured late yesterday when cars driven by Mrs. J. C. Hillebrecht of Orange, and J. C. Smith of Rialto, collided head-on, on the state highway, south of Tustin.

All of those injured were occupants of the Smith machine. They were taken to the county hospital, where two remained overnight, the others being given first aid treatment and removed to their homes.

Mrs. J. C. Smith, 35, suffered a badly injured ankle, Roger Smith, 6, suffered cuts and bruises about the head and face. Mrs. C. R. Smith, an aunt of the youth, suffered severe cuts and bruises on the legs and about the head and face, and Edwin Birdsall, 36 of Corona, was cut and bruised.

Electric Tools Taken from Shop

Electric tools, worth $275 were reported stolen from a blacksmith shop at 634 French street, owned by Steele Finley, some time last night. The Santa Ana police department was today making an investigation.

An electric drill, worth $80; a cutting and welding torch, electric, worth $145; a set of three air gauges, worth $45, and 40 feet of extension cord, worth $5, were among the articles reported stolen.

Entrance into the place was made through a side window.

PRESTON WITH HORTON STORE IN RADIO WORK

Friends and business associates of Ralph P. Preston, 807 West Washington avenue, were congratulating him today upon the fact that he is now identified with the J. C. Horton Furniture store, North Main at Sixth street, where he is in the radio department, of which Lloyd Gowdy is head. Preston has had a wide experience in the business, for he maintained the Preston Radio shop at Third street and Broadway for three years, and prior to that had been in the furniture business at 311 East Fourth street, for 19 years.

Preston came to Santa Ana from his native state, Vermont, 22 years ago, entering immediately into the business life of the city. He stated today that while he had been a competitor of J. C. Horton, founder and manager of the furniture company of that name, for over a score of years, he always had found him so courteous and fairminded that it was a satisfaction to be associated with him now in the radio department of the Horton store.

His years in the furniture business will enable Preston to serve his patrons in any department of the store, but he expects to confine his activities largely to radio and refrigerator salesmanship.

NATIONAL PARK AREAS ATTRACT TOURIST HORDE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(INS)—The "See America First" movement is growing steadily despite the annual migration of hundreds of thousands of American citizens to Europe, Canada, Mexico and other foreign lands.

The impulse to visit the great scenic places of this country is disclosed in the report of the National Parks Service, showing that increased from 488,266 in 1917 to 3,248,264 in 1929.

Reports reaching officials here indicate that the summer of 1930 will see a new high record established in the national parks, with millions of others seeking vacation rests in privately controlled resorts.

The national park service of the country has been expanded until there are now 21 national parks, and 29 so-called national monuments, some of which may be converted into national parks. Three other parks are to be definitely listed among the government's show places within another year or two.

Yosemite national park in California, with its famous falls, is easily the most frequented of the parks. There were 461,257 visitors to this park in 1929. Yosemite's nearest rival is Rocky Mountain Park in Colorado, which attracted 274,408 visitors.

These parks, according to officials, attract the largest number of visitors in part because of their accessibility. The famous Yellowstone area in Montana and Wyoming consistently retains a high ranking.

During 1929, there were 260,697 visitors to Yellowstone. During the same year 217,783 sought out snow-caped Mount Rainer in the state of Washington, while 204,408 visited Platt park in southern Oklahoma, seeking the benefit of its mineral springs.

Among the other parks ranking high in visitors are: Hot Springs, Arkansas, 184,517; Grand Canyon, Arizona, 184,093; Crater Lake Park n Oregon, 128,435; WindCave park, 108,943, and Acadia park, Maine, 149,554.

Increased use of private automobiles for touring is shown to be the chief factor in the enlarged attendance. In 1924 315,915 private cars entered national parks, while the number increased to 689,925 in 1929.

MINISTER SEES NEW FAMINE IN SOVIET RUSSIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—That the Soviet domain will experience another and more terrible famine, is the opinion of the Rev. Louis R. Patmont, recently returned to his pulpit in Santa Rosa, Calif., after serving several week's tour among the Soviets.

The Rev. Patmont's adventures in Soviet Russia finally landed him, penniless and hungry, on the Chinese border, whence he made his way to Shanghai.

Interviewed by a United Press special correspondent on board the steamer Siberia Maru en route from Shanghai to Seattle, the Rev. Patmont said:

"The Soviet, without a doubt, are heading for another famine, and here are the reasons: Collective farming with very few exceptions has proved a failure.

"Another drought is inevitable because of the sparing snowfall during the past winter. Because of this latter circumstance the Moscow government was unable to exploit its forests and therefore will be unable to adequately finance its vast industrial schemes, its bureaucracy and its red army. Because of the intimidation of the peasants and the adherents of religious faiths, private farming has been reduced to a minimum. A very large percentage of the population has been thrown into turmoil and confusion. The masses are disorganized.

Trip to Russia

"I was able to ascertain these facts after an extensive trip in Russia. It was a difficult matter to obtain the U. S. S. R. visa. In Berlin, Riga and Warsaw my applications for a permit to travel in the Soviet union were declined because of the fact that I filled out the questionnaires in the Russian language. I discovered that press agents who understood and speak Russian are classed as undesirables. When I reached Helsingfors, Finland, I decided to change my method of approach to the Soviet legation.

For some years past I have been interested in paleontology. Since finding some dinosaur bones in Mexico a year ago, I have been called upon to lecture on the subject. Fortunately I was in possession of a few letters of appreciation from schools and colleges. The photographs which I had with me, together with a few fossils and petrified reptile eggs which I had picked up in Latvia and Sweden, together with some other rather artificial material, sufficed to convince the Soviet consul at Helsingfors that I was interested in the science of paleontology. The application blank was filled out in German, I stated that I was interested in the Russian collections of prehistoric animals and that I wished to visit museums in Leningrad, Moscow and Siberia. I again paid my vise fee, telegram charges, etc. The much heralded check up system at Moscow evidently did not function. After waiting for three days a telegram arrived from the central executive committee granting me permission to visit Russia.

Ruse Effective

"When I arrived at the border station of Belo-Ostroff I was asked to leave the train. In the customs house hy baggage was searched. A 'G. P. U.' (political police officer) beckoned me into his office. He addressed me in the Russian language asking that I produce my papers, passport and money. Instead I brought in my baggage and looked puzzled. The ruse worked. The man evidently was convinced of my ignorance of the Russian language. He promptly addressed me in German. He carefully examined my letter and U. S. passport, then counted my money. I was given Rb. 1.94 per U. S. dollar. A subordinate was told to keep me under observation until reaching Leningrad. Because of my resemblance to another passenger I made the trip unmolested. The other man became the victim.

"On the Trans-Siberian trains I noticed I was forever being watched by G. P. U. spies; I experienced little difficulty in evading them.

"There was no marked difference of living conditions in many of the large cities I visited, namely, Swerlowsk, Perm, Tomsk, Krasnoyarsk, and Yeniseisk. People everywhere suffered under the oppression of bolshevik regime.

WINS TITLE BY DEFAULT

It was not in the eyes of the judges, but in the light of subsequent developments that Miss Margaret Ekdohl, pictured here, was chosen the new "Miss America" and winner of the International Beauty Pageant at Miami, Fla. Margaret was given only third honors when the original decisions were made, but now has captured the title through the disqualification of the first and second prize winners. The 18-year-old blonde from Tampa, however, still has a claim to being the "fairest of the fair," for her more comely competitors had been unfair in declaring their marital and residential status.

IT'S THE CLIMATE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—"It's the climate," is the reason why Mrs. Ruth Marguerita Smythe asked for a divorce. She said she liked California's sunshine, while her husband, Roy Samuel Victor Smythe, pined for the snows. He left her, she charged, and went to Ontario, Canada. She was granted a divorce.

TELLS AIMS OF PEACE MAKERS AT CONFERENCE

His talk follows, in part:

"Never before had a peace conference such a task before it, so many important questions to settle, world wide questions. Everybody was expecting much, too much. They expected everything to be done openly; great and small nations to be treated alike; in short, they expected that the 'world would be made safe for democracy.'

"There were too many difficulties in the way to allow all these highly desirable things to be accomplished. Let's notice some of these difficulties.

"1. A number of secret treaties had been made which have been explained and which the European representatives declared must be carried out even though they conflicted with Wilson's 'fourteen points' which had been accepted as the basis for settling things.

"2. Bitter hatreds and fear of Germany had only been increased by the war.

"3. The narrowly selfish aims of the European and Asiatic nations clashed with the unselfish and altruistic aims of the American nations.

"(a) France wanted revenge on Germany and guarantees of future safety as well as Alsace and Lorraine.

"(b) England wanted to destroy the German sea power but retain her own as well as destroy Germany industrial and commercial strength and rivalry.

"(c) Italy wanted to recover the peoples and territories along the Adriatic sea which Austria had held for more than a century

"(e) China wanted out from under the control of the foreigner.

"(f) Greece wanted more territory both in Asia Minor and in the Balkan peninsula at the expense of her neighbors.

"(g) Then the Poles, Czechs, Slovaks, Serbs, Roumanians, Hungarians, and other subject peoples were clamoring for freedom and independence.

"(h) Russia had turned Bolshevik and was as much an enemy of the allies as of Germany or more so.

"(i) International labor was there demanding certain provisions and rights.

"(j) Irish delegates demanded freedom from England.

"Many of these demands were just. But even just and righteous demands have little chance when they conflict with selfish and unjust demands if those deciding are the selfish and unjust fellows.

"The fact that the peace conference was so large made it difficult, in fact impossible to please all. You will remember there are 72 official delegates from 32 different nations. Paris had become a cosmopolitan city, the capital of the world, a great common melting pot for humanity.

"Many of the leaders thought the conference should be held in some neutral country. It was finally decided to hold it at Geneva, Switzerland. To this the French objected. The powerful French delebates, Clemenceau and Jules Cambon, wanted it held in France and there it was held. Why? These French delegates largely dominated the conference. Bitterness, hate, revenge, humiliation of Germany, punishment of the once proud victor over France, and the strengthening of France were constantly in their minds. Just 48 years before the Germans had badly defeated the French and compelled them to sign a very humiliating treaty and pay a large indemnity. This treaty, which exalted Germany and debased France, was signed in the Hall of Mirrors in the old palace of Louis XIV at Versailles. At the same time and place the German empire was established.

"Poetic justice now demanded that the humiliating treaty which Germany is to be compelled to sign should be made and signed at the same place.

"Most of the delegates arrived in Paris during December, 1918, but the first session was not held until January 18, 1919. That date was the 48th anniversary of the signing of the treaty between France and Germany just referred to. This session was held in the Hall of Mirrors in Versailles about eleven miles southwest of Paris. Thus you see the conference started off by stirring up old quarrels and memories and with the 'get even' spirit.

"A few of the Parisians and their European guests tried to revive the old days of 'gay Paris' and vie with the congress of Vienna 100 years before. But the people were too poor, the shadows of death and destruction were too close. Paris was crowded but not with the customary French and Europeans. Into Paris had been poured the survivals of institutions, of various civilizations, religions and peoples of the world. These were trying to make Paris one great democratic melting pot. No great public receptions and dances were given. Yet the theaters were filled, some private dances in private homes were given. One account tells of President Wilson, Lloyd George and Lord Balfour attending one dance and remaining till after 12 o'clock. The cost of lodging and food was excessive. Food privateers prospered. A law of France at that time provided that merchants should be paid by the government the full market price for all food that spoiled. Unscrupulous merchants took advantage of this by holding back great quantities of good food. This made the supply scarce and the price high. That held back would spoil and the government would pay for it at the excessive price. Rents went up 200 to 300 per cent.

"Yet, in spite of the fact that the 'big five' then the 'big four' and later still the 'big three' dominated the conference and would allow the small states and their delegates little or no voice in shaping the final terms, and in spite of the fact that the sessions were secret, the Paris peace conference was much more democratic than the congress of Vienna. The men who dominated and dictated what should be done did have in mind the people, the great masses, the poor man. They did not forget that they were the servants of the people not the masters, and that all must report back to the people at home and that their work must be approved by these same people. In general they made an honest effort to do justice to all under the existing conflicting conditions. All wanted to go as far as feasible toward ending destructive wars. But when it came to define this policy they divided into two groups. (1) Pacifists, they stood for the League of Nations and some world government to prevent future wars. They were forward looking. (2) The Militarists, they wanted safety through strong nationalism with strong national armies and navies. They were backward looking.

"At the first session on January 18, the delegates from Greece, Belgium and Poland delivered powerful speeches against the attitude of the 'big five' in denying the small states a voice in fixing the terms of the treaty. They were told once for all by Clemenceau, the Old Tiger of France, that the 'big five' had contributed the 12,000,000 soldiers to win the war, had paid the expenses and would be expected to enforce the treaty and preserve the future world order, therefore they had the right and would dictate the terms of peace.

"One writer (Dillon, P. 117) says, 'Never before was political veracity in Europe at so low an ebb as at the beginning of the peace conference. Four-and-one-half years deliberate lying for victory destroyed all good faith in the veracity of those shaping the world politics. All kinds of promises were made. All their acts were surrounded with the greatest of secrecy and the strictest censorship. This secrecy was carried over into the Peace Conference as well as the censorship. I can not say that the lying was but deception was Each delegate gave out to the press what it wanted published at home. In many cases these press reports were far from the actual truth.

"You may think and think rightly that much of what I have said tonight has little to do with international relations. Yet, indirectly it does. I have given you some of the sidelights of the peace conference, some of the conditions which always exist at the end of a war, conditions which make it impossible for any group of men to do what should be done. Any treaty and all the conditions which help to determine it has to do with international affairs."

ATWOOD

Mrs. E. P. Francis and son, Wilbur, and Mrs. Arthur Harms and son, Henry, are at Newport Beach for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Barbre and children were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Barbre, the dinner being given in honor of Mrs. Ruth Barbre, who is leaving soon for Kansas.

Mrs. Samuel Crooke, of Huntington Beach, spent Tuesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Levier. Her son, Sam jr., who is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital with several broken bones received when he fell from a tree last week, is getting along nicely and it is expected he will be taken home this week.

P.-T. A. LEADERS RETURN TO CITY

Two of the city's most active P.-T. A. workers, Mrs. Neal Beisel, 417 Cypress avenue, and Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, North Main street, have returned from the state board meeting of California Congress of Parent and Teachers, held in the Hotel Alexandria, Los Angeles. Mrs. Beisel was attending in her official capacity as state chairman of standard and superior associations, a newly created department, while Mrs. Robertson attended as the fourth district president.

An intensive planning of the work of the congress for the coming year consumed the time during the two-day session, and the two local delegates feel that much was accomplished toward systematizing the work. The next state board session will be held November 11 and 12 in San Francisco.

Veterans Are To Honor Phil Swing

It is expected there will be quite a large attendance of the veterans and their families to show their appreciation of the efforts of Comrade Swing in their behalf during the recent pension bill legislation. Representatives of the press of Orange county will be guests of the veterans.

The income and receipts of the 1217 colleges and universities in the United States amount to over $500,000,000 annually.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Grandy motored to Pasadena, where they visited George Grandy, a cousin, who is a patient at a hospital following a recent operation. From Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Grandy went to Eagle Rock, where they were dinner guests of Mrs. Grandy's sister, Mrs. Clara McKee.

Miss Louise McKee, a niece, who is touring Europe with a party this summer, has been in Switzerland and attended the Passion play, while in Germany.

In September when the other members of the group, who are college students, returned to America, Miss McKee will go to England, where she will enter Oxford university for a special course.

Charles Baker, who has been spending a two weeks vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Baker, returned Wednesday to Jacumba, San Diego county. Over the week end Charles Baker entertained as his guest, a friend, Clyde Lilley, of Jacumba.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Finley and Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Finley and daughter motored to Los Angeles Wednesday evening and were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richards. Mrs. Richards is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Finley and their marriage was a recent event.

OAKLAND-PONTIAC
up to $170

We have just been advised by the Oakland Motor Car Company that, effective August 11th, prices on all current model Pontiac Big Sixes and Oakland Eights have been reduced . . . with reductions up to $170.

Pontiac Big Six—now $665 and up
A big car at small car price

Oakland Eight—now $895 and up
America's lowest-priced Eight

These reductions are made because in the winter the factory will present two new cars which, while changed enough to classify as new models, will remain practically unchanged in appearance, size and design.

The two new cars will have the same type engines used in the cars now offered.

These new prices give you an opportunity to own a big car at small car cost and at a great saving.

'MOCKING BIRD' WHISTLER WAS 'TREE SITTER'

MONTREAT, N. C., Aug. 15.—The "Oklahoma Mocking Bird," Miss Esther McRiser, has revealed herself as one of the early "tree-sitters," although her activities in that field were not aimed at an endurance record. Miss McRiser is spending the summer here.

"When I was a girl," said Miss McRiser, "I enjoyed nothing more than climbing up a tree in our back yard and staying there for hours. I would practice all my bird calls, and it was most amusing to see one of my pets go around looking for a cat when I would imitate a cat bird.

"But I used my time when a tree-setter not merely to practice whistling—and tantalizing my pets, but in studying my school books so I would know my lessons perfectly. So climbing a tree in early girlhood has enabled me to climb in scholarship, and in my career as a whistler.

"I am in favor of tree-setting, for reasonable periods, when boys and girls employ the time for preparation and improvement," the "Mocking Bird" declared.

Miss McRiser was graduated from the University of Oklahoma in 1922. For some time she represented the Southern Presbyterian Church as Field Secretary for Christian Education. In September, she will become Field Secretary of the Northern Presbyterian Board of National Missions.

SAYS AMERICA ADVANCING AS LEADER IN ART

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—America is surging to the fore with the development of fine arts which is destined to rival that of ancient Greece and Renaissance Italy, according to Professor Emerson H. Swift of the department of Fine Arts, Columbia University.

In America architecture, painting and the drama the first evidences of this country's ascendency in fine art are beginning to appear, said Professor Swift, who has just completed a survey of educational institutions, civic projects and agencies allied with are activities throughout the United States.

Increasing wealth, which is bringing leisure, travel and association with older cultures, is the mainspring of the new "American Renaissance," Prof. Swift said. Even the World war served to inspire several millions of Americans with an interest in the art of Europe, although the soldier saw France in an aspect which was "sordid and dispiriting enough at times."

The final impulse to the present movement in this country, Prof. Swift finds, is being supplied by the schools and colleges, which are providing widespread and constantly growing facilities for the general public.

"Up to the beginning of the present century, the fine arts in America concerned few of our people save a small group of foreign-trained artists and wealthy amateurs who, more by chance than inclination, had travelled or studied a genuine interest in some phase or period of what they felt to be a fascinating subject," Prof. Swift declared.

"The vast majority were still inclined to regard painting and sculpture as too exotic, too far removed from the affairs of daily life to warrant their giving them any particular thought or attention, while architecture was beneath their notice.

"The reason for this state of affairs is not far to seek. A background of almost three centures of rough pioneering, of feverish exploitation of the vast resources of a virgin continent, of an austere puritanical spirit which had frowned upon all artistic expresison as a snare of the devil—such a tradition, together with the inbred habits of thought which it engendered, had provided but barren soil for the growth of art.

"With the turn of the century, however, a change became manifest. Increasing wealth and leisure not only encouraged the habit of collecting works of art for private delights as well as public satisfaction, but also gave rise to a continually growing stream of travel which spread itself broadcast upon the continent of Europe."

WEST PROSPEROUS, SURVEY INDICATES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15—The west, and particularly the Pacific coast, is the most prosperous section of the United States today.

Out of 10 important cities in the mountain and Pacific coast states, with populations of 100,000 and over, seven show an annual average industrial wage higher than the average for the entire United States.

According to statistics just released by the business survey department of Dorrance, Sullivan & company, the average of the 10 cities is $1430 and for the 11 states is $1398, as compared with $1300, which is the United States average.

Los Angeles stands out from all the rest as the city with the highest average per worker. This city claims an average wage of $1498. Second is San Francisco with $1461 and then Oakland third with $1460.

Other cities in the group, according to their standings, are: Seattle, $1438; Tacoma, $1374; Denver, $1340; and Spokane, $1331.

With respect to the average output per worker, however, San Francisco outshines Los Angeles, having an average of $10,250 as compared with $9160 in Los Angeles. Oakland has an output of $10,000.

The average annual output per worker by states is: Wyoming, $15,300; Montana, $14,260; Arizona, $13,100; Utah, $12,020; Nevada, $11,000; California, $9860; Colorado, $8700; Washington, $6490; Idaho, $6380; Oregon, $5590, and New Mexico, $4330.

Industrially, San Francisco heads the list. The percentage of population industrially employed in the 10 cities in the Pacific coast and mountain states, according to their standings, are: San Francisco, 7.5; Los Angeles and Portland, 7.2; Oakland, 6.3; Denver, 5.4; Spokane, 5.2; Seattle, 5; San Diego, 3.7; and Salt Lake, 3.6.

BUENA PARK, Aug. 15.—The interest and enthusiasm shown by the executive board of the Grand Avenue P.-T. A. at the first meeting of the year indicates that this will be one of the most successful years in the history of the organization.

The president, Mrs. F. M. Ensign, announced that the program for the year's work had been outlined, and appointed the following chairmen for the various committees: Program, Mrs. V. L. Orahood; membership, Mrs. C. R. Allin; hospitality, Mrs. Fred Bastady; reception, Mrs. J. H. Page; budget and ways and means, Mrs. L. J. Robeson; publicity, Mrs. Eleanore Jones, and music, Mrs. Rayburn. The grade mothers, who will be appointed when school starts, will also assist in plans for a membership drive.

Plans were discussed for a reception for the teachers to be held in connection with the first P.-T. A. meeting, September 25.

Community singing will be an important feature of the assembly meetings and 50 new P.-T. A. song books were ordered.

The P.-T. A. was also asked to provide new velour curtains for the windows in the auditorium, as one of the projects for the year.

Doctor Needed Players Collide Players Crash

BUENA PARK, Aug. 15.—Howard Drake and Hugh Butler were eager to win the ball game in which they were playing with a group of boys on Highland avenue and when a foul ball came their way, they rushed after it with such force, that when they emerged from the crash which followed, they had battled scarred faces. Howard had a broken nose and a deep gash on the side of his face, which required nine stitches to close, and Hugh had a laceration over his eye, which took one stitch. They were both treated at the office of a local physician.

SAN CLEMENTE CITY ENGINEER FIRST CITIZEN

SAN CLEMENTE, Aug. 15. — City Engineer Ayer celebrates his fifth year in San Clemente August 18. Ayer was the first man to take up residence here. When he arrived cattle still were grazing on the land.

When Ole Hanson planned San Clemente in 1925 Horace H. Taylor, Los Angeles, was appointed engineer. Ayer was sent to the coast land south of San Juan Capistrano mission to take charge of the work in laying out the city along lines that Hanson had worked out. He set up his tent, gathered three assistants, chased out the cattle and began making a survey. And today Ayer is still carrying on his work.

On December 6, 1925, Ole Hanson and his sales force opened San Clemente for sale. Ayer had one unit of the city ready and was working on the others. A record sale was made the first day and San Clemente became a reality.

NEW STREETS TO LIDO ISLE BRIDGE READY

NEWPORT-BALBOA, Aug. 15.—The new streets have been paved on the mainland portion of the Lido isle properties. In other words the paving is completed on the roads which will connect Newport boulevard, at the entrance from the north into the city, with the new bridge.

The bridge itself was completed some time ago, and as soon as the approaches on both sides are finished, which will require about another month, according to City Engineer R. L. Patterson, it will be possible to travel from the boulevard to the Lido isle clubhouse on nwe paved highways.

While the Griffith company, general contractor for the huge $1,170,000 improvement contract, is building the approaches to the bridge, it is also paving the new streets on the island itself, as well as finishing up the phone, light, water and gas connections.

In about two weeks dredging will begin in the channel under the new bridge, which will enable boats to travel all the way around the island. The dredging contract has been awarded to Sparkes and McClellan.

In about two weeks dredging will begin in the channel under the new bridge, which will enable boats to travel all thew ay around the island. The dredging contract has been awarded to Sparkes and McClellan.

A new house for an Ontario man is now being built on Lido Isle. Many lots have been sold to people in the Ontario district, it was learned today. Hollywood actors and others of the film capital have also been prominent among Lido isle property purchasers.

TOMATO PLANT PACKING OVER 60 TONS DAILY

BUENA PARK, Aug. 15.—The Uddo Taormina corporation's tomato cannery in Buena Park is running at full capacity and handling from 60 to 75 tons of tomatoes a day, and from present indications the plant will double the production of last year, which was estimated at $300,000. Forty-five tons per day was the maximum capacity last year.

Tomotatoes are shipped here from as far south as San Diego and north into the San Fernando valley and during the past week more have been brought in than could be used here and are being shipped to the Arlington plant owned and operated by the same company.

The concern was established in 1922 as the New Central cannery and later enlarged and became known as the LaSierra Heights Canning company. On February of this year the industry was absorbed by the Uddo Taormina corporation, which operates a chain of industries extending from coast to coast. Extensive improvements were made in the plant during the year and $15,000 worth of machinery was installed, which included an automatic cooker, labelling machine and an additional steam boiler and other new labor saving devices.

The tomatoes are dumped into the wash rack and taken on a belt past the operators who sort and trim them, and are then carried by machinery to the grinding machines, pumped into the cooking vats, and then into the containers from which the cans are automatically filled, the lids are soldered on, and the cans run on conveyers to the automatic cooker where they are to remain for a short time and then on conveyors to the labeling machine and into packing boxes.

Over 70,000 cans of tomato sauce are produced every day and shipped to all parts of the globe. It is estimated that 10 carloads of cans will be used for the season's run. The season usually extends from June to December.

TRIP TO ALASKA DESCRIBED FOR ORANGE GROUP

Mr. and Mrs. Crist related the story of their travels by the inland route from Seattle to Alaska. They then made a leisurely trip up the Yukon river which took 12 days on a river boat. The boat was propelled by a huge wheel in the back, and resembled the old boats which once traveled the Mississippi river, Mrs. Crist told class members.

Wood was burned in heating the boilers and one cord of wood an hour was required to get up the required amount of steam ,the travelers said. About five or six miles an hour was made on the upward journey and a speed twice as great was made in coming down with the current.

When stops were made to load fuel, mosquitoes made life on the boat unbearable, Mrs. Crist said. For several days the travelers were entirely out of touch with the out side world, but at Fort Yukon, found radio communication established through the government station.

Phonographs in the home were more popular than radios, Mrs. Crist said, and in an Eskimo village visited, she said there were up-to-date homes built of logs with radios and many modern appliances.

Hydraulic mining was observed by the travelers and at Fairbanks the agricultural college was visited. The ground in the northern country is frozen within three feet of the surface the greater part of the year. Small grains and small berries are raised successfully, Mrs. Crist said. Sunshine 24 hours a day in the summer causes rapid growth.

When in mosquito-infested countries the travelers wore hats similar to those worn by bee men, netting covering the hats and being tied under the chins of the wearers.

PLAY GIVEN AT TEA OF ORANGE CHURCH GROUP

ORANGE, Aug. 15.—A play which was cleverly directed and presented was the principal feature on a program presented at a missionary tea which was given yesterday afternoon at the Presbyterian church. The new 510,000 organ recently installed in the church was used for the first time, when the program was opened with two solos played by Mrs. Raymond Warren.

The play, "The Missionary Barrel." was given by a group of girls and was directed by Miss Marcella Turner. The first scene showed the packing of the missionary barrel by members of a service class and the cast included Miss Turner, Miss Pauline Snodgrass, Miss Louise Dews, Miss Duloie Green, Miss Julia Herrington, Miss Helen Estook, Miss Caryl Harper and Miss Elizabeth Gill.

Those taking part in the next scene which revealed the unpacking of the barrel by the missionary's family were Mrs. Edith Culter, Mrs. H. E. Harner, Miss Anna Huscroft, Mrs. Helen Talbot and Junior and Bobbie Harner.

A piano solo was played by Virginia Wells and two solos were sung by Bobbie Harner, who was accompanied by his mother at the piano. Mrs. F. E. Harrison presided at the meeting.

The society is divided in groups representing the days, weeks and months of the year and women representing the days and weeks of Auguest were hostesses at the tea which followed the program. Assisting at the tea service were the Misses Nancy Herrington, Doris Asher, Caryl Harper and Faith McElfresh.

Decorations for the church parlors included summer scenes and lively baskets of flowers in vivid hues.

O-O-O-H! What marvelous things I can do!

"Tickletoes" is the one and only doll in America that can do all those wonderful things that make her truly "almost human." To see her is to fall in love with her.

Come and See Me On Display

At the Register Office

Not only a sleeping doll—she has arms and legs of soft life-like rubber that is washable—has three different voices—rolls her eyes—sucks her thumb—enjoys a pacifier—and wears cute removable clothes.

I am the cutest, happiest baby doll ever created. You will love me!

"Tickletoes" Is the Wonder Doll of the Age

"TICKLETOES" is the only doll in the world with soft, life-like rubber legs and rubber arms, and those marvelous rolling-sleeping-winking eyes. Squeeze either leg and hear this baby cry, or turn her over and she cries.

She is the cutest and happiest of all baby dolls, for she can clasp her hands, turn her head, suck her thumb, enjoy her pacifier. She is elegantly dressed in baby clothes and wears stockings, moccasins and real rubber panties.

Just picture the joy of the children proudly "mothering" cute little "Tickletoes." Even grown-ups like to play with this "almost-human" doll.

Rivers Defeats Kid Allen In 'Homecoming

HOOKS AND SLIDES

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Babe Ruth says he will break his home run record this year . . . The longest drive he ever made, says Babe, was one he smacked in Tampa, Fla., in an exhibition game with th Giants . . . Babe was a member of the Red Sox at the time . . . The ball traveled 565 feet . . . One time in Detroit he lifted one over the right field wall and it rolled down the street . . . a boy on a bicycle chased it three blocks . . . In Chicago a couple of years ago, the Yanks had a train to catch . . . and the game dragged on through extra innings . . . the train was to be held 15 minutes and the athletes were just starting the 16th inning when Ruth told Hug, "Here goes your old ball game, and we'll just make that train." . . . He smacked the first pitch over the top of the right field bleachers.

It won't be long now before Primo Carnera is knocked for several goals, because enterprises purely entertaining aren't drawing very well and the Big Alp will soon have to fight somebody good.

The Giants are going to be in first place on or before Sept. 15—or in second place a game and a half behind the Cubs or Robins—or in third place a game or so behind both the Cubs and Robins—but I do not think they will finish the season in last place.

With three more pounds behind his punches, Kid Chocolate would have beaten Kid Berg badly in their recent quarrel which some called a draw, which some gave to Chocolate and some gave to Berg.

Notre Dame will defeat Southern California Dec. 6 at Los Angeles.

LUMBER IS BIG HELP

Clarence Blair has fielded better at second base for the Cubs than Rogers Hornsby ever fielded in his palmiest days. But the absence of Hornsby's bat will cost the Cubs a pennant this year.

Bill Terry and Lou Gehrig are playing great games at first base for their respective New York teams, but before long their laurels will be threatened by a young fellow named Eddie Morgan who plays for Cleveland. Even though Bill Terry is one of the greatest first basemen that ever played.

Lew Fonseca, who led the American league in batting last year, and whose injury this season gave Morgan the chance to prove his greatness, may be the big shot in a trade the Indians are said to have in mind—with a team that has a good left-handed pitcher.

Harry Rice, traded to the Yankees in the deal for Hoyt, seems to have settled down since leaving wild and wooley Detroit for sedate Manhattan. There is nothing final about that, however, as Harry knows all sorts of ways of becoming unhitched.

THIS SHIFT BUSINESS

Football umpires will not be bothered a great deal by the change inthe shift rule requiring players to stop a full second between moves. And they will not be forever looking at stop-watches either.

Barry Wood is going to be one of the greatest football players in the east this year besides Albie Booth. And Carideo of Notre Dame will be All-American quarterback once more.

Wesley Ferrell of Cleveland, pitching his second year in the major leagues, will lead all the pitchers in both leagues when the totals are added up the last of September.

Bill Walker will stand the Athletics on their ears in the first game of the world series in New York. But Bill may not get a

SUBSTITUTE IS OUTPOINTED BY FULLERTON BOY

Substituting for Johnny DeCorsey, who claimed an injured hand, Jack (Kid) Allen, Cuban welterweight champion, lost seven out of 10 rounds and Referee Bob White's decision to Indian Jimmie Rivers at the Orange County Athletic club, last night.

It was a nice "homecoming" for the Fullerton fighter who has been here, there and everywhere since his last appearance at Promoter Henry T. Foust's Delhi shanty. Allen was a pretty much helpless champion in the wise hands of the cagey Indian and for a fellow who defeated "Wild Man" Macias, did not make much of a showing.

Allen had a good excuse, however. He accepted the hot spot on less than six hours notice, DeCorsey notifying Promoter Foust 1 p. m. yesterday that he would be unable to appear. DeCorsey said he hurt his hand punching a bag that morning. He did not explain what he was doing in the gymnasium the day of a scheduled bout. Most fighters loaf for two days preceding an engagement.

Jack managed to get White's points in the fourth, sixth and eighth, with Rivers taking all the rest, but Allen's advantage in his "big rounds" was little better than a shade.

Rivers kept boring into Allen in the ninth and tenth, staying on top of the Cuban, and was far ahead at the finish.

It wasn't a very good finish to a mediocre card, but the Delhi business office wasn't to blame. Foust had lots of tough luck with his program. Originally he had booked Urban Hernandez with Jimmy Fox, an attractive offering, but Hernandez was scratched because of a skin ailment. Then DeCorsey had to be pulled at the last minute.

Although he tired rapidly in the last round and might not have been around at the end of another round, Don Smith decisively outpointed Sal (Battling) Ortega in the six-round semi-final. In condition, Smith looked capable of stopping Ortega. He is a beautiful boxer and a stiff puncher. Ortega tried hard but that was about all. His barrage of wild swings was mostly wild.

Art Molino scored a technical knockout over the ancient colored featherweight, Willie Pitcher. Pitcher was just a catcher, and caught so many in the "tummy" that his second pitched in the towel during the fifth inning.

Wednesday—American Legion vs. Richfield Oil, 6:45 p. m.; Courthouse vs. Excelsior Creamery, 8:15 p. m.

Thursday—Pacific Telephone vs. Peek's Market.

You had to say mister to the Orange County Builders' exchange baseball men today. They were undisputed champions of the first half of the Santa Ana City league, if you please.

They got that way in the Bowl last night when in one of the wildest and most exciting games ever played here they defeated the Dennis Printers, 13 to 12, in a 10-inning struggle that was supposed to go only seven.

This was the second of a two-out-of-three game playoff between two clubs that tied for first place in the first half of a split season. The Builders won the first start last week, 12-3, so their second victory automatically catapulted them into the final titular series with the club that finally captures the second half pennant. Four terms are tied for the lead now and the race has only four more weeks to operate.

Both teams launched savage offensives in the first three innings. First up, the Printers scored two in the first, four in the second and four more in the third before Ray Grisot got his bearings and began to pitch ball. The Builders made six in the first and another in the third at the end of which they were behind, 10-7. They tied the score with a three-run attack on Bill Humphrey in the sixth, matched run for run with the Printers in the seventh, and did it again in the tenth plus the mighty tally that meant the ball game.

Doubles by Vance and Nickey and a single by Echols broke up the lengthy argument, after singles by Dorman and Humphrey, with a couple of infield outs sandwiched between, apparently had won it for the Printers.

The earlier half of the doubleheader resulted in an easy victory for the Eastern Oil company, 7-1, over Peek's market. "Bomo" Koral pitched the Butchers into submission and knocked in four of his team's runs.

Gallery Held To Blame As Tilden Quits

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I.N.S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—William T. Tilden, 2nd., at once the greatest figure and the stormiest that American lawn tennis has known, will not be among those present when the Eastern grass court championships in singles are resumed at Rye this afternoon. It is unlikely that he plans ever again to be in that championship or even in that vicinity, although admittedly these overnight impulses are subject to change in the mellowing light of a new day.

Tilden probably was mellow today like a full grown cactus. He had been hooted off the courts by an imbecile gallery in the midst of a match he had been losing to Cliff Sutter at 1-6 and 0-4 in sets and 0-15 in points and no darker indictment has been leveled against American sportsmanship. There is never any possible extenuation for bad manners.

The blame, therefore, rests solely with the gallery. In a strictly negative sense, however, the fault is Tilden's. He should have ceased to play lawn tennis at such time as he found himself unable to play lawn tennis with characteristic results, which was about three years ago. Instead, he has continued to go through the empty gestures of a pantomime, unloved by many, and, apparently to the eyes of some, unlovely.

Tilden was never an appealing figure to the galleries. But when he was beating the world, he didn't need their admiration. He merely got the only thing that is really important to human kind, respect. It would seem, judging by yesterday's demonstration, that he no longer commands that attribute.

If he had retired from tennis when the spark of genius was definitely dead, he would have left a memory of the Tilden who was great. Many now will recall him only the Tilden who was old and futile and inept. He no longer is

NEED VICTORY TO CINCH FLAG FOR LAST HALF

What was to have been just a skylark for the young men of Santa Ana will be another of those terribly important contests when the Stars go to Long Beach tonight for their thirty-sixth and last regularly ordained game of the 1930 National Night league schedule.

It is a cruel prank of fate that has carried this fighting team to the last day of a four-month season without definite assurance of success, but baseball is "war" and with all allied against them the Stars can expect no quarter until the last man is out in the ninth inning.

Indeed, the word is out that Messrs. Milton Fish and Joe Bell, who compose the Long Beach "board of strategy" and have little in common with Santa Ana anyway, intend to make a grim bid for the pristine glory that only last year they knew so well.

Bad Year For Acorns

At this time in 1929, the Long Beach Acorns were just whipping Santa Ana for the championship and preparing for the Southern California playoffs. Statisticians remember that Long Beach lost the title to Riverside after winning the first two of a five-game series, muffing the championship when it was right in its hands. The Acorns never have been the same since. They were barely able to finish in the first division this year, hardly a worthy showing for a front flight combination.

Past or present records will mean nothing when the old rivals lineup at Recreation park, located just off East Ninth street, the "new road" into Long Beach. The Stars can't win by the simple expedient of pointing to their per-

NEW ADDITION TO TOM THUMB OPEN SATURDAY

Using the 55-year-old palm and pepper trees on the old McFadden place at South Main and McFadden streets for a natural setting, W. H. Dixon will open the first 36-hole miniature golf course in Orange county tomorrow night.

The new course adjoins the Tom Thumb golf course, which was the third miniature links installed in the county. Dixon will be enabled to offer the golfers of Orange county their preference of cottonseed or felt green. This is said to be the only course in Southern California with such diversity.

A remarkable transformation has been brought about in the last nine days. The stately trees and a large 55-year-old brick fountain are the only things left between the holes of the new sporty golf course. All kinds of new hazards have been built, including many water traps, steep bunks and rustic fences. A large enclosed water fountain of colored rock also has been installed.

The program for the opening night is expected to draw a large crowd. Four mayors, Frank Purinton of Santa Ana, W. E. Clement of Orange, Marcus Johnson of Newport Beach and L. E. Miller of Anaheim, will play the first round while presidents and representatives of Business and Professional Women's clubs of Orange county will also play. The Orange county Valencia orchestra will provide music and Lyle Anderson will be announcer over a Williams and Klentz loud speaker system.

The same type of felt is being used that Mary Pickford is installing on her private course. One hole on the Dixon course measures 140 feet.

Dixon has been instrumental in building over 20 courses in Southern California. His construction superintendent, Lawrence Brody, had charge of the newest and best course here and designed the plans. Between 30 and 38 men have been working night and day for nine days to complete the job.

SOUTH GATE, Aug. 15.—Jack McVey, colored middleweight, who will fight Ace Hudkins this month, was an easy victory in his eight-round bout here last night with Young Terry. Terry went down in the third round for a six count and was punished in the other rounds.

WESTMINSTER DEFEATS GROVE FOR 'B' TITLE

Westminster looked for more night baseball worlds to conquer today, happy in the knowledge that its long season in the Orange County "B" league was over and that it was the champion team of that confederacy, having scored its second straight victory over Garden Grove at Westminster last night, 17 to 9.

The Aviators temporarily disbanded today, six of the team leaving on vacations, but they will be back in harness in a couple of weeks and ready for the series with Ontario, champion of the American league's junior circuit, which league President George Peterkin hopes to arrange.

Westminster won the third and deciding match of the Garden Grove play by hammering three Pepper pitchers, Abbott, Hodgeson and Edwards, for 17 hits, including home runs with the bases full by Bill Gardner and Boyd Davis. Gardner blasted two homers during the slaughter while Starkey and Clemmons both got one each.

Russell Muir, Garden Grove's ace gunner, did not pitch on account of "overwork." He hurled a game in Long Beach the night before and was too exhausted to take his turn in the finale with Westminster.

The box score:

OCEAN FISHING IS RADIO MAN'S TOPIC

Four radio talks of interest to all Orange county sportsmen who like ocean fishing will be given by Captain Winch, an authority, between now and Wednesday.

Captain Winch will discuss the so-called fishing license evil, grunion and other interesting topics. He will talk over KNX at 6 p. m. today, over KMTR Monday at 2:45 p. m. and over KHJ Tuesday at 5:15 p. m. and Wednesday at 9 p. m.

Carnera And Sharkey Tilt Sure, Belief

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Primo Carnera and Jack Sharkey will meet in a ten-round bout in Chicago on or about Sept. 29, it was announced by Mique Malloy, Windy City promoter, before he left for the west late yesterday.

Bill Duffy, of Carnera's "board of control," and Johnny Buckley and Jack Conway, Sharkey's managers, Malloy said, have verbally agreed to terms and expressed wilingness to sign the official papers in a few days.

It was understood Sharkey will receive $100,000 with the privilege of 30 per cent of the gate and the Italian will get no guarantee but 25 per cent of the receipts.

The fight will be held either at Soldiers' field or one of the baseball parks.

INDOOR GOLF LINKS TO BE BUILT HERE

Santa Ana's first indoor golf course will be opened late this month in the O. A. Haley building, Bush and Fifth streets, with R. A. Stubbs and H. A. Froehlich as proprietors and managers.

The newest playground for the city's "bantam links" devotees will be an 18-hole affair, with many new and interesting features.

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

The baseball player has invented a simple little stunt to relieve himself of the tension he is under when he stands at the plate facing the pitcher. It is so simple that I'm drawing on it to illustrate a way to overcome tension in golf.

You've seen the pitcher stand on the mound, ball in hand and already to pitch. Instead, he waits and looks at the batter, nervously swinging his bat.

You also have seen the batter walk out of the box if the pitcher delays too long. He'll dust his hands, adjust his cap or hitch up his pants and then step back to the plate. Why?

He does it to relieve the tension. The pitcher is delaying the throw intentionally, knowing the batter is tensed and eager. The batter's little stunt forestalls him. He's literally turning his own guns on him.

Golfers get that way at the tee, particularly at the first or 10th where a crowd stands close by. To overcome that tension, my advice is to step back from the ball, "out of the box," as it were, take a practice swing and then get back and hit the ball before you've time to get nervous again.

CROWD BLAMED AS TILDEN QUITS COURT

important, in spite of his gallant victory at Wimbledon this year at the age of 38. So human nature, which doubtless wished to pay at his heels but lacked the temerity, now does so, openly and unafraid.

Tilden himself arranged this situation by letting the public see a side of him that age had made vulnerable. Human nature never was known to be merciful with vulnerability.

Tilden, of course, has clung to the quasi-prominence of his fading glory for reasons of his own. These represent a question that had to be decided between the man himself and his innate taste just as his action yesterday in walking off the court and forfeiting to Sutter was a matter of personal judgment. If it wasn't justified—and there is hardly a precedent to justify it in all the history of sport—Tilden doubtless is prepared to accept the consequences.

For instance, Mister Tunney, an aloof spectator, condemned the procedure in measured tones. He intimated that a prize fighter who would quit under public abuse would be regarded as unworthy of the best traditions or something. I think I may be of come slight aid to Mister Tunney here by stating that the prize fighter who walked out on his fight and his purse would be a lunatic. He is a paid performer and, therefore, open to random heckling. Tilden is not.

So, in the last analysis, the gallary hadn't a leg under it when the incident was over. After all, the law says that Mr. Tilden is entitled to be an indifferent tennis player if he wants to be.

BITTO STOPS TOM MOORE

CULVER CITY, Aug. 15.—Joe Bitto, who lost a decision to Tom Moore last year, evened the score last night when he was awarded a technical knockout in the fourth round of their main event fight. Moore received a cut over the left eye and the referee stopped the fight.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Walter Johnson lost a roll in Florida real estate . . . and dropped some more in the recent stock market "readjustment." . . . Several people have written to ask what a "seeded" player in a tennis tournament was . . . The word has the same meaning as "planted" . . . The best players are planted in such a position in the draw that they will not have to meet one another in the early rounds of the tournament, and these players then are known as "seeded." . . . Now that the game is being played in many cities under the Mazdas, you can expect to hear about pitchers who work best in the evening . . . such a fellow is Caveman Ed Greer, the Denver right hander who has been blanking the opposition at night time . . . he's a nightmare to the lads. . . .

ROOSEVELT DEFEATS EDISON PLAYGROUND

Clearing the way for its championship game with Lincoln at Lincoln Monday, Roosevelt playground defeated Edison, 14 to 7, in a Santa Ana Summer Playground league game yesterday. The Rough-Riders made most of their runs in the early innings. Bowe hit a homer and a triple. Marlborough had four safeties, three of them doubles. The score:

centage, so they will have to go out and get their basehits as usual, and it promises to be a fairly tough game at that.

Manager Herb Salveson thinks enough of Long Beach that he will employ his "regular" lineup, the same that waded through La Habra and Whittier within the past ten days and cinched, at the very worst, a tie for the second semester streamer.

Cornelius To Pitch

Joe Cornelius, the Stars' ace heaver who seems to go better the more he works, will be on the protuberance as usual. His ball-and-strike partner will be "Eeny" Wilcox, and this pair will be on the trail of their twentieth triumph. If they get it you can start sending in your orders for the Santa Ana-Whittier series, because it will be all over except the playoffs.

Cornelius, supporting cast, always pretty efficient, will find the large but agile Bill Cole, hero of the Whittier game, on first base; the hard-hitting, swift, daring Leavitt Daley, the team's leading batsman, at second; sure, steady Bill Hunter on third, and the colorful, hustling little sparkplug, "Memphy" Hill at shortstop. In the outfield will be the league's greatest trio of flyhawks,—Randolph Bell, Wayne Nelson and "Rosy" Merrill,—all experienced, nonchalant fellows, equally able on offense as defense.

Long Beach has two pitchers groomed for this important assignment. The Stars have never faced either. It is Deene Downer's turn to work but the Acorns are said to be planning on sending to the ridge Walt Sheek, another newcomer to their staff. Downer is a fast-ball gunner who usually starts like a house afire but runs into trouble about the sixth inning. Sheek is a change-of-pace pitcher. He has done well of late, few of his opponents hitting the ball hard.

Maness Hard Hitter

Odie Maness, one of the finest hitters in the league, will do the Acorn backstopping. Maness has hit a home run against almost every pitcher inthe league. The Stars will have to look out for him, and also Rod Ballard, the big Acorn midfielder from Oregon State college, who hits 'em from town to town himself.

Kenny Felock, a regular last year when Long Beach went into the finals, is back in an Acorn unie and probably will appear in right field.

Mann, a great fielder and a dangerous hitter, will be in left field on the other side of Ballard. Mann made one of the greatest catches ever seen in the Bowl when Santa Ana last met Long Beach. He went back clear to the bank for Bill Hunter's terrific line drive, catching the ball on the dead run just as it passed his shoulder.

Landreth at first base, Davis at second, Elliott at third and Captain Al Kohler at short give Long Beach a very fair infield.

Anaheim vs. Fullerton

Anaheim, Santa Ana's only rival for first place, meets Fullerton at Fullerton tonight. It is hard to believe Fullerton has a chance, but "Bus" Callan will have his strongest team out to give the Pacemen as much trouble as possible. The Nite Hawks think they can trim the Valencias, but such a feat does not seem to be on the books.

None of the other games mean anything, but the contestants will go through with them just to play out their schedules. Orange goes to Whittier, Olive to Huntington Beach and Garden Grove to La Habra.

The standings:

| | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Santa Ana | 14 | 2 | .875 |
| Anaheim | 13 | 4 | .765 |
| La Habra | 11 | 6 | .647 |
| Olive | 10 | 7 | .588 |
| Whittier | 8 | 9 | .471 |
| Long Beach | 8 | 9 | .471 |
| Garden Grove | 7 | 10 | .412 |
| Huntington Beach | 6 | 10 | .375 |
| Fullerton | 4 | 12 | .250 |
| Orange | 2 | 14 | .125 |

Santa Ana and Orange have game to play; Huntington Beach and Fullerton have game to play.

Rain Halts Rye's Net Tournament

The program called for Baroness Levi of Italy, to meet Helen Marlowe, Los Angeles, in one match, and Clara Zinke, Cincinnati, to meet Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Calif., in the other.

Lawless Favorite To Beat Anderson

LARGEST ROSE BUSH

CALISTOGA, Calif., Aug. 14.—What is said to be the largest rose bush in the world is that of C. L. Tucker of this city. Thirty-one years ago he planted a bush of the double Cherokee variety and today the trunk of the bush measures three feet in circumference. It bears a load of 40,000 roses every year.

GOVERNOR WILL BE HEARD OVER KREG THURSDAY

KREG will rebroadcast next Thursday night a talk which will be given by Gov. C. C. Young over KHJ, Los Angeles, giving to Orange county auditors a chance to hear the governor through the Santa Ana radio station and, figuratively, bringing the state executive into more intimate touch with local listeners. The address will be on the air from 7 to 7:30 p. m.

Immediately following the concert to be given in Birch park next Thursday night, KREG will broadcast by remote control two talks which will be given in the park by Marshall Stimson, Governor Young's campaign manager in Southern California, and by Judge Rex Goodcell, who is in the Southland speaking for the governor.

Stimson will speak over KREG tonight on behalf of Governor Young. His talk will be heard from 7 to 7:30 p. m.

MORGAN IS TO PLAY SINGING VIOLIN TODAY

Charles Morgan and his singing violin will entertain KREG listeners today. Morgan, who has appeared on previous radio programs here and who has won distinction in playing over other Southland stations, will be on the air from 7:30 to 7:45 p. m.

Mrs. Belle Spangler, candidate for the office of county tax collector, and the only woman not now holding office, who is seeking nomination at the primaries, will speak over KREG for 15 minutes, from 7:45 to 8 p. m.

Daly's Ozark Fiddlers, Marshall Stimson, the Dot and Ben Variety Duo and the Society Marathon are other outstanding attractions on tonight's program. The Ozark Fiddlers will play from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m., Marshall Stimson will be on the air from 7 to 7:30 p. m., Dot and Ben will entertain from 8 to 8:30 p. m. and the Society Marathon will be broadcast by remote control from the Casino ballroom in Balboa from 9:30 to 10:30 p. m.

The children's hour, with Inez Moore, will be heard from 4 to 5 p. m. and Inez Moore's junior program will follow, from 5 to 5:30 p. m. From 5:30 to 6 p. m. a studio program will be heard and from 6 to 6:45 p. m. the Shoppers' Guide, with music, will be on the air. News of the day will be read from 6:45 to 7 p. m.

LOS ALAMITOS

LOS ALAMITOS, Aug. 15.—W. K. Pearson, of Oklahoma, has purchased the Percy Hayes home on Howard street. His family will join him in a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Karch, of Long Beach, have rented the home of Mrs. Minnie Wyndham at 274 Howard street.

Mrs. Ethel Amspoker left recently for San Francisco. On her return she will be accompanied by her daughter, Louise, who has been working there.

Ruth Kelly is quite ill at the home of her mother, Mrs. Delia Kelly, of Katella avenue.

SILK CLASSIC

Beginning Tomorrow (Saturday) at 9:00 A. M.

PRICES BASED ON LOWEST ALL-TIME SILK QUOTATIONS

These are the Weaves that have been accepted by the fashion world for Fall and Winter wear

Never in modern times have silks been priced so low. It is hard to believe that America's FINEST SILKS could be offered you at the prices mentioned below. Not only will women be able to buy one dress but many—and why shouldn't they when they can save many dollars and still know they are buying the newest fashions and superior qualities.

We cannot express in words the greatness of this event but we want you to come—we want you to see the new colors—the new weaves—see our windows tonight. But by all means come—you will be greatly surprised in the values when you make comparisons in qualities even of six months or a year ago. Silk Classic begins at 9:00 A. M.

"Will Call"

If it is more convenient for you to get silk later and still save the difference you can put them in the "Will Call" by depositing 1-4 of the purchase price.

Caprice Transparent Velvet

This will be the greatest of all velvet seasons. Paris, New York and all the style centers have sponsored them—this is why Van Antwerp's have selected the finest silk back transparent velvet made in America—it is unbelievable that the best could be purchased for $4.95; of course, the price is only during the Classic. Transparent velvets for suits—for dresses, for coats in those lovely shades of Sumatra, Manila Brown, Corinthian Green, Winetone, Adamia, Guardsman Blue and Black.

(We are happy to announce that our price is much lower than the identical quality offered in a large metropolitan department store in a big event)

Last year hundreds of dresses were sold—we know many more will be sold this season—the price for a better grade being very much less. Use the "Lay Away" plan if you wish, but be sure and share the savings in many dollars. See our special window displays tonight. Silk Classic price $4.95 yard.

$4.95 Yard

Beau Monde Como Crepe

Regularly $2.95

In fact, until recently Como Crepe sold at $3.75 and many yards were sold at this price—women know that Como Crepe is the finest silk crepe, with a lovely finish and weave. All the better dresses will be made of this crepe and to think that 30 colors in a new stock will be offered for only $1.85. With all our wonderful silk values in the past, we want to emphatically mention that every woman who needs silks for Autumn cannot afford to overlook buying Como Crepe—the greatest of all values ever offered by Van Antwerp's. It almost seems impossible that the finest crepe made could be offered at this low price. There will be only 1500 yards available, so make your selections tomorrow.

A Beau Monde Silk, Regularly $3.25

Canton Crepes, especially the finest qualities, will be prominent among other leading weaves. The New Blue, the New Green, the New Brown, Navy and Black are colors worth seeing—you will appreciate the low price. Not in years has such an opportunity appeared when one could purchase the best at $2.35. Every dress you have can be the best in fashion at a very, very ECONOMICAL PRICE.

All Canton Crepes are 40 inches wide. Soft, draping weaves—And during the Classic only $2.35 yard.

$2.35 Yard

Lady Lure Satin Crepe

A Beau Monde Silk, Regularly $3.25

You will be amazed at the value—if you are used to paying $3.25 to $3.75 yard. Five outstanding shades for Autumn—and they are the correct and authentic colors. 40 inches wide. Satin is a fall and winter fabric always prominent and included in every woman's wardrobe. This event will please hundreds of women—it will give them an opportunity to get their silks early and thereby benefit not only in the pleasure of having new dresses early but to think of the big savings envolved. For the Silk Classic only $2.35 yard.

Legion Honors Past Commanders At Dinner Meeting

CANDIDATES IN PRIMARY RACES ARE PRESENTED

A session of good humor and good fellowship followed the monthly dinner meeting of the Santa Ana post of the American Legion at the Legion hall last night, when 28 candidates for nomination and a number of prominent citizens were presented to the large crowd which filled the hall, by Judge F. C. Drumm in his inimitable manner.

The occasion was the dinner honoring the past commanders of the post and the affair was known as past commanders' night. Congressman Phil Swing was present for the affair, but had to leave in time to make an address in Birch park and his remarks to the Legionnaires and their guests were quite brief. He expressed his pleasure at being present at any gathering of service men and declared that he was always ready to serve the organization or its individual members in any way he possibly could.

The impressive moment of the evening came when Hunter Leach, vice commander of the post, presented to Franklin G. West, junior past commander, the past commander's badge, on behalf of the post. Other past commanders who were introduced to the crowd last night were Dr. John Wehrly, Ed McFadden, Charles Van Wyk, Maurice Enderle, Franklin Grouard, Jules Markel, Wilbur Getty and William Iverson. Past commanders from other posts who were introduced included Ted Craig of Brea; Fred Dukes of Garden Grove, Sam Collins of Fullerton and Henry Wallace of Orange.

Vice Commander Leach announced, following the dinner, that in accordance with custom the candidates had been invited to be present, "that they might parade before our view." No candidate was permitted to speak, the introduction being confined to the presentation of the candidate. Before introducing any of the candidates, Judge Drumm started the fun ball rolling by declaring that even the incumbents were now willing to reduce taxes and enforce the ball, and that while there were some offices where there was no opposition, with only one candidate, seven men after the sheriff's office and four after that of district attorney.

Candidates who "took a bow" were as follows: Sam Jernigan, Ralph McFadden, Leo Porter and William Sylvester, for sheriff; Sam Collins and Dave Wettlin, for district attorney; Ray Adkinson and R. P. Mitchell, for county school superintendent; Kenneth Morrison, justice of peace; Justine Whitney, recorder; W. C. Jerome and W. R. Lambert, for auditor; George Montgomery and James Sleeper, for assessor; Mrs. Belle Spangler and J. C. Lamb, for tax collector; Earl Abbey, J. C. Joplin and E. B. Trago, for treasurer; W. K. Hillyard and W. G. Knox, for surveyor; Charles Brown, for coroner and public administrator; Vernon Barnhill, Bert Dawson, Jesse Elliot, Frank Lutz and Cornish Roehm, for constable Santa Ana township. Others presented to the group included W. B. Williams, Ted Craig, P. G. Beisel, William Iverson and Z. B. West.

At the close of the introductions and fun Judge Drumm expressed the wish that "the best man win," and declared that regardless of who might be elected he was confident the people of the county would give their support to their officers.

The Elks orchestra, under the direction of "Stormy" Gordon, furnished music for the occasion, and three acts of vaudeville were presented through the courtesy of Norman Sprowl of the Fox theaters.

The snappy Legion drum corps, which leaves tomorrow for the state convention at Sacramento, marched into the hall following its appearance at Birch park and played several selections. The corps is well trained and make a fine appearance in blue and white uniforms and while enamel helmets.

A business session of the post was held later in the evening, at which plans and details in connection with the state convention were discussed. The official delegation of 28 regulars and alternates is to go to the state meeting uninstructed in every respect, according to Ed Kolbe, adjutant of the post.

CIVIC WORKER

Mrs. Belle Spangler, below, is seeking nominations for the office of county tax collector. In her 10 years of residence in Orange county she has been actively identified with progressive work in civic, school and women's affairs, handling her work in an efficient manner.

TELLS OF SCHOOL IN ATHENS, GREECE

One of the interesting personages at the Congregational conference held recently at Asilomar was Professor George L. Marsh, of the School of Religion at Athens. Professor Marsh, who has been home on leave for about a year, shortly will return to Athens. During his stay in America he had been asked to make known the work of this great institution of Greece in order that funds may be solicited for the building of a permanent structure for the school, which is now housed in rented buildings.

While at Asilomar, Professor Marsh conducted many interesting discussions. He has presented the following sketch of the School of Religion at Athens:

"'It is a training school for men and women who are looking forward to Christian service in the Near East. It is for the training of pastors, priests, teachers, and social leaders and offers an equal opportunity to men and women."

West To Enter Five Dogs In Long Beach Show

Five dogs from the Malibu kennels of District Attorney Z. B. West will be entered at the dog show of the Long Beach Kennel club, which is to be held in the old auditorium on the "pike" in the beach city Saturday and Sunday. The entrants include three of the famous Scottish terriers which have won renown at many shows in the past, Miracle of Malibu, Champion Lady Bug of the Malibu, and Peterkin of Malibu.

West's dogs are widely known by fanciers throughout the country and have won many championships and awards at shows. Only four more points are needed to make Miracle a champion and West hopes that the competition at the Long Beach show will result in the creation of another champion for his kennels. This dog has won 11 of the required 15 points in the five previous shows in which it was entered.

MRS. SPANGLER QUALIFIED FOR COUNTY OFFICE

Mrs. Belle Spangler, only woman contestant in the primaries to be held on August 26, is seeking the office of county tax collector in the firm belief that she is qualified to handle the office in an efficient manner.

Mrs. Spangler is one of the best known and most popular women in Orange county, having devoted her 10 years' residence in this county to civic, school and women's affairs. That she has made good in everything she has put her hand and mind to is attested by her host of friends and coworkers.

Mrs. Spangler is the mother of two fine girls, both of them dependent almost solely on her for the thorough completion of their education.

When she came to Orange county 10 years ago Mrs. Spangler immediately entered into the civic life of the county. She became interested in school work in Santa Ana and her efforts along these lines culminated in her election as president of the City Parent-Teacher association. Continuing further Mrs. Spangler became interested in county school work and was elected vice president of the Fourth District P.-T. A., the county-wide organization.

It was through the work of Mrs. Spangler that the summer playgrounds were opened in Santa Ana.

Mrs. Spangler believes in the youth of the country and has confidence in the future men and women whose groundwork is built up in the public schools of the nation.

In addition to her school and civic work Mrs. Spangler has worked with the W. C. T. U. for the last several years.

PEARSON TALKS TO SANTA ANA WOMEN

Declaring that his departments made more arrests and returned a larger amount of money in fines last year than the office for which he is running, Police Chief James M. Pearson of Fullerton, candidate for nomination for sheriff, addressed a group of women in Santa Ana yesterday afternoon.

The meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Erickson, 1041 West Sixth street, also was addressed by Verne A. Baker, county manager for the Fullerton police official, who said that Pearson strength was showing a great increase in all parts of the county. The candidate in his address also discussed various phases of law enforcement, handling of juvenile crime and his stand on the liquor question, which is for enforcement of prohibition laws.

WHERE 150 MINERS DIED

Grim disaster had struck a thousand feet underground when this picture was taken at the entrance to the Wencelaus coal mine in Neurode, Lower Silesia, Germany. One hundred and fifty-one workers had lost their lives in a terrific subterranean explosion of carbonic acid gas, and here you see rescue workers and relatives of the entombed victims as they gathered at the scene soon after the blast. Official investigations to fix responsibility for the explosion—one of the greatest tragedies in Germany history—still are being conducted.

LAUNCH DRIVE FOR YOUNG IN ORANGE COUNTY

Judge Rex Goodcell, touring Southern California as a speaker for the C. C. Young-for-Governor campaign will make seven appearances in Orange county today and tomorrow, it was announced today by Freeman Bloodgood, manager of the county organization.

Judge Goodcell opened his itinerary today at 10 a. m. in the office of Attorney Albert Launer, in the Chapman building, Fullerton. He spoke at St. Ann's inn this noon, with Freemen Bloodgood presiding. At 3 p. m., Goodcell made an appearance at the Orange city hall, with Bloodgood presiding. At 5:30 p. m. a dinner was scheduled at the White House cafe in Laguna Beach, with Roy W. Peacock presiding. At 8 p. m., Goodcell will speak at the Chamber of Commerce in San Clemente, with Hal Warner presiding.

On Saturday, Judge Goodcell will open his schedule at San Juan Capistrano, talking in front of the Mission. Judge John Landell, justice of the peace, will preside. A luncheon will be held at noon on Saturday in Anaheim, with Lotus H. Louden, presiding.

ONE WAY IN FRANCE

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Traffic conditions are so muddled between here and Versailles that a radical solution has been offered. It is a strict system of one-way roads which offers two routes to motorists—one to go and one to return. This is thought to be the only country in the world to consider a plan making country roads one-way affairs. One-way roads in cities are common.

'LIGHT OF WORLD' SUBJECT TONIGHT

"The first Seventh Day Baptist church of which we have record was organized in 1617 in London, England," said Evangelist Hargis last night in answering a question handed in on the origin of Seventh Day Baptists. "It may be said to have been founded by John Trask and his wife, two school teachers, who were imprisoned for their view upon the Sabbath. This was the church of Millyard, Goodman's field, London. The first church in the United States was established at Newport, R. I., in 1672, 258 years ago."

The question box is a feature of the meetings in Orange conducted by the Pacific Coast association of Seventh Day Baptists. It is being used by the people in attendance for all sorts of questions about the Bible and Christian living.

Tonight Evangelist Hargis takes as his subject, "A Man Whom I Want You to Know."

The usual song and vesper service will open at 7:45 o'clock, under the direction of the Rev. Lester G. Osborn. The picture study for tonight is Holman-Hunt's "Light of the World."

The Sabbath mornin gworship service will be in charge of the Rev. Mr. Osborn, who will preach on "Caesar's and God's." This service is at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

FLYING DERBY FOR WOMEN TO START SUNDAY

With the dead line for the filing of entrance fees set for midnight today, the list of women who have posted their fees with the headquarters of the Women's National Air derby has reached eight and at least two more possibilities are said to be headed for the coast.

All of the women will be honored tonight with a dinner-dance to be held in the cocoanut grove of the Breakers hotel in Long Beach, where the race is scheduled to take off from the Municipal airport Sunday afternoon. Mayor Asa E. Fickling will act as toastmaster at this affair.

Preceding the start of the derby for Chicago over a 2365-mile route touching 17 cities with nine overnight stops, the Aviation-Industrial Jubilee committee, sponsor of the start of the derby, has planned an aerial show which will start at 11:30 a. m. and will be continuous until the start of the race at 3:30 p. m.

World famous aviators headed by Colonel Arthur Goebel, winner of the Dole prize for the first flight to the Hawaiian islands, and Colonel Roscoe Turner, holder of the Vancouver to Mexico record, will be on hand. Colonel Turner will bring "Gilmore" the flying lion cub, to the municipal airport.

Colonel Goebel will thrill the thousands of spectators who are expected at the beach city Sunday, with a series of daring aerial stunts for which he is famous.

The women entrants in the race are constantly watching the eastern horizon for more planes to arrive in Long Beach for the start of the race.

Helen Cox, of Valley Stream, Long Island, is on her way to the coast and notified the headquarters of the derby in Chicago that she was intending to enter the race. Ruth Stewart, of St. Louis, also is headed this way in a Curtiss St. Louis Robin plane which she is planning on using in the race. She also made inquiry of the Chicago office if it were to late to enter the derby.

Those who have definitely entered are Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, who will fly a Waco Speedwing biplane; Margery Doig, of Danbury, Conn., flying a Pitcairn Mailwing biplane; Claire Fahy, of Los Angeles, Waco Taperwing biplane; Jean LaRene, of Chicago, American Eagle phaeton; Florence Lowe Barnes, of San Marino, holder of the world's speed record of 196 miles per hour established August 4 in Los Angeles; Ruth Barron, of Hollywood, Lockheed Vega; Bobbie Trout, of Los Angeles, and formerly of Anaheim, where she operated a filling station; and Mildred Morgan, of Los Angeles, Travelair.

Bleachers, boxes, grand stands, parking facilities, road markers leading to the municipal airport from every direction, press box, telephones, wireless aparatus and other arrangements are being rapidly installed by the committee.

Loud speakers mounted on a truck will be set up in front of the grand stand to give the spectators full announcements about the happenings of the day and the entrants, officials, movie stars, city, county and state officials who will be present. There are four speakers on this equipment, which is being furnished through the courtesy of the Standard Oil company.

LIPTON'S GUEST

When the Shamrock V tries for the America's cup in September, George Kessler, below, foreman of a Philadelphia coal dock, will witness the famous race from Sir Thomas Lipton's private yacht again. He has been Sir Thomas' guest before.. The two became acquainted when Kessler, many years ago, lost a one-dollar bet on the Shamrock III, and Sir Thomas, hearing about it, personally consoled him.

OBSERVE BIRTHDAYS OF CLUB MEMBERS

Those who attended the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hotchkiss, Mr. and Mrs. O. U. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hemphill, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Strain and son, John, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Turner and daughter, Marcelia, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Huscroft and daughter, Anna, Mrs. Rebecca Pope, Miss Sue Rankin, Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. Ed Windolph, Mr. and Mrs. F. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Campbell and granddaughter, Margery.

FIGHTING FISH

BANGKOK, Siam, Aug. 15.—The fish fighting season is in full swing in this city's ten halls devoted to that sport. Two fighting fish are put into a bowl and bets made on them by patrons. The fish put up a vicious battle, tearing off their enemy's fins and taking huge pieces of flesh out of each other's sides. A fight sometimes lasts for six hours.

STATE BOOSTS RURAL SCHOOL APPROPRIATION

Under the provisions of a bill passed at the last session of the state legislature, increased state apportionment for rural school supervision was provided. This however was at the expense of the apportionments to city schools, as the total amount of state school funds available is fixed by law, it was pointed out today.

In Orange county the operation of the law will result in a gain of $2,172.36 for the rural schools, according to Walter E. Morgan, head of the bureau of research and statistics in the state department of education. This is part of the sum of $239,400 that is the total in the state which will be gained for the rural schools. State school funds lost to Santa Ana through the operation of the law amount to $1375, Morgan's report shows.

Rural supervision of elementary schools was adopted in California in 1921, and the last legisalture adopted the plan of employing regular supervisors for directing the work, rather than leaving it up to the state. Morgan characterized the law as having done more than any other single provision to improve the rural schools.

"It ha improved instruction, stimulated teachers, raised standards and provided educational leadership in the rural areas," he declared.

Richland Avenue Church Provides Charming Wedding Setting

A score or more close friends assembled last evening in the Richland Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, for the quietly impressive nuptial ceremony uniting Miss Evelyn Broden, recently arriving in this city from Crookston, Minn., and Clarence Ulseth of Buena Park.

The church was adorned with flowers in soft pastel hues, for the service which was conducted at 7:30 o'clock by Frank A. C. Fairley of this city, a close friend of the bridegroom, and a retired pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The single ring ceremony was employed.

Miss Broden made a very charming appearance in a gown of soft blue georgette, and carrying a great sheaf of delicate pink rosebuds. She was attended by Miss Doris Stewart, while Paul Marion served Mr. Ulseth as best man.

Just perceding the entrance of the bridal party, Miss Mary Harlow, daughter of the Rev. R. W. Harlow, sweetly sang "I Love You Truly."

Immediately after the beautiful ceremony and its attendant congratulations and good wishes, the new Mr. and Mrs. Ulseth left for Buena Park, where they will welcome their friends in a pretty home which Mr. Ulseth had in readiness for his bride. He is an employe of the Standard Oil company, and has lived in Orange county for a number of years. His bride has been a teacher in the public schools of her home city, Crookston, Minn.

The Loren Meads Will Sail Tonight For Home In China

Summering in California, their former home, was especially enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Mead, and their sons, Rodney and Donald, who have been residing at 709 South Birch street for the past few months, but will leave this evening from San Francisco for Shanghai, China, on the Dollar liner, President Pierce. Mrs. Mead and her son, Rodney, accompanied by Miss Mildred Mead, 601 South Ross street, left Los Angeles last evening for the Bay City, where they were to join Mr. Mead and Donald who left Wednesday by automobile. That interesting character, Yung, who has been serving the Meads so faithfully, accompanied Mr. Mead.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead have been making their home in China for a number of years, where the former has a responsible position with the Standard Oil company. Their friends and relatives were especially glad to welcome them back to Santa Ana, and regretted losing them so soon.

Miss Mildred Mead will make the return trip from San Francisco with Miss Wilma Plavan, who has been touring Europe for the past year.

Garden Bridge Party Was Happy Event Of Yesterday

All the elements of a happy afternoon seemed combined yesterday in the gardens of the T. F. Ham home, 2039 Heliotrope Drive, placed at the convenience of Ebell's Day Nursery benefit. For the garden has a distinctive charm of its own, with its velvety lawn and nodding blossoms, and then the hostess group had "gilded the lily" by adding yet other flowers in pretty rustic baskets and artistic vases, and placing big garden umbrellas like giant mushrooms in bright colors, to shade the various card tables.

The guests in their pretty garden-party frocks, rivaled the flowers in colorful appearance, and altogether the scene was one of the prettiest and most animated of the summer.

The Day Nursery board members, Mrs. Clyde Bach, chairman, Mrs. T. F. Ham, hostess; Mrs. Perry E Lewis, Mrs. C. S. Dunphey, Mrs. C. H. Lurker, Mrs. W. E. Watkins, Mrs. M. C. Williams, Mrs. Edward C. Erwin and Mrs. W. W. Kays, spared no detail to make the afternoon interesting for their guests, and among other thoughtful courtesies, was the serving of iced fruit punch, wafers and candy throughout the interval of play.

The pretty prizes had been donated by various friends, and the first reward, a handsome luncheon set of embroidered linen, went to Mrs. J. P. Hatzfeld. An embroidered towel, as second prize, was presented Mrs. Noel Berry, while Mrs. Luella Stewart was consoled with a charming framed picture motto.

Financial returns from the party will be especially acceptable just at present, for the Day Nursery finds itself in more or less straitened circumstances, due entirely to the present labor situation. Few of the mothers whose patronage gives it the main source of revenue, are able to secure work at present, so have no occasion to leave their children. Or in many cases where the little people are left for the care and attention given at this friendly little home, the service is donated.

So the treasury is sadly depleted, and members of the board are planning on other events throughout the year, to aid them in raising funds to maintain the individual work.

Merry Group Enjoys Beach Picnic

An all-day beach party was held at Newport Beach Wednesday, with Mrs. J. R. Smith of this city, and Mrs. Espy Williams of Costa Mesa, as joint hostesses.

The greater portion of the day was spent in surf bathing. A delightful picnic dinner was served at noon to the following guests: Mrs. Ralph Williams and daughters, Ora-Jane, Leigh and Gayle, Miss Ethel Fitch, Mrs. Fred Viele, of Hemet; Miss Elizabeth Smith and Lucile Smith of Santa Ana, and Miss Lois Macartney of Hemet.

Church Societies

One of the most interesting meetings held by the First Christian church Missionary society this year was that of Wednesday in the community house, when Mrs. A. N. Glancy, vice president of the organization, presided as leader for the day's session. Echoes of the Southern California convention held in Los Angeles during the month of July, provided the theme for the afternoon.

The lighter vein of the program was presented by Miss Barbara Gerrard, who favored with a reading, and Mrs. L. Johnson, who gave a vocal solo. Various phases of the convention were discussed by Mrs. W. S. Buchanan, Mrs. R. T. Harris, Mrs. W. P. Hagthrop, Mrs. F. O. Pierce, Mrs. A. N. Glancy and Mrs. James O'Brien. The session was completed with an enjoyable talk by the Rev. W. Scott Buchanan.

The many friends of Mrs. Daisy McGee, 519 West Second street, will regret learning that she is bedridden following a nervous breakdown.

Mr. and Mrs. John Turton, 1045 West Chestunt street, had as recent house-guest, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Craig, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, 1911 Spurgeon street, is spending a few days in Balboa as the guest of Miss Mable Larrick and Miss Marcia Babbitt of this city, who are enjoying their vacation there.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark B. Lacy are occupying the Emrys White home, at 2115 North Broadway, while the Whites are spending the summer in Dillon, Mont. They expect to return in early September.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Overton of 616 West Third street, who have had their summer made doubly interesting by a group of pleasant house-guests, including Mrs. Overton's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Steiner and family, of Albuquerque, N. M., have more recently entertained Mr. Steiner's father, J. H. Steiner, also of Albuquerque. Many pleasant trips were planned for the visitors, and the young people especially enjoyed the beach and watersports and the thrills of flying at the nearby airport. Mr. Overton, who spent several weeks with relatives in Kansas City, returned in time to share some of the short trips and beach outings.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mize were hosts to Mrs. Augusta Equen and Miss Virginia Wilkinson, on a recent trip to Agua Caliente. Mrs. Equen and Miss Wilkinson are here from Columbus, Miss., for an extended visit with their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Westover, 1527 East Fourth street, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. E. P. Wilkinson, also of Columbus.

Mrs. Alice B. Stanley, who has been at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Neil Stanley, 1457 Orange avenue, for the past two weeks, has returned to her home at the Kennedy apartments in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Ray King of Corona, who have been spending the summer at Hermosa Beach, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Finuf, 1709 Greenleaf street, for the past few days.

Mrs. Harvey J. Hart, 503 South Sullivan street, had as luncheon guests yesterday, Mrs. A. S. Beggs of Long Beach, and Mrs. T. Strawn and daughter, Marjorie-May, of Arizona.

Mrs. William Kuebler, 1005 West Pine street, is slightly improved following a lingering illness.

Mrs. James W. Chapman and children, Catherine, Robert and John, are sailing today from San Francisco for their home in Dumegata, Philippine Isles, following a two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Matthews, 721 Eastwood.

Mrs. M. C. Smith of Long Beach, and who has been in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Noe, 414 Maybury street for some time, is reported as severely ill.

Mrs. Franklin R. Pitner, 807 1-2 North Broadway, and Mrs. Cotton Mather, 2022 North Ross street, were in Los Angeles yesterday, attending a luncheon as the guests of Judge Ross.

Recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rinard, Tustin, were Mr. and Mrs. Travis Kerr, and Miss Sara Hales, of Los Angeles.

Bruce E. Colwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Burke, 1461 Orange avenue, left yesterday for Berkeley, where he will enroll as a junior in the University of California. He will continue his engineering course.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shields, 901 Hickory street, and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Brown, 609 South Main street, left early this morning for Montana and Wyoming, planning to stop en route at Yellowstone park and Zion National park. They plan to be gone about a month.

Mrs. B. A. Farrar, 601 East Sixth street, and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Farrar, of Long Beach, left this afternoon for Arrowhead, where they will spend several days in the J. L. Farrar cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Pankey, 815 North Broadway, and Miss Phyllis Pope and her brother, Frank Pope, 409 East Walnut street, are spending this week at Big Bear.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morris, 812 East First street, have as a house-guest, Miss Alma Macy, of Los Angeles.

Mis Anna Johnston of Detroit, Mich., is a guest of Mrs. F. W. Wager, 1009 1-2 West Walnut street.

Mrs. John Van Deusen and daughter, Beverly-Jane, of Beloit, Wis., are visiting with Mrs. Van Deusen, parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Griffin and Miss Betty Griffin, 835 North Parton street.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Jacobs, 512 West Santa Clara avenue, left yesterday by automobile, for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Collins of Medford, Ore. On their way north, they were planning to stop in Sacramento for some of the American Legion convention sessions.

Mrs. T. J. Cottingham of West Washington avenue, is anticipating the early arrival of her sister, Miss Clarkson of Sioux City, Iowa, who left her home city on July 31, for Winnipeg, Can., traveling via the Canadian Pacific line. Her plans included visits in Banff and at Lake Louise in the Canadan Rockies, and in Vancouver, Seattle, Portland and other nothern points of interest. Mrs. Cottingham is expecting her to reach Santa Ana sometime during the coming week.

Mrs. E. W. Spruance of 1313 North Broadway, is entertaining an interesting house guest, Mrs. Roy Harris of Springfield, Mass., who with Mr. Harris and their three children, Robin, Joyce and Janet, have been spending the summer with Mr. Harris's people in National City. Mrs. Harris is accompanied by Master Robin and the little Misses Joyce and Janet on her Santa Ana visit, which will continue until Sunday. The family will return to Massachusetts about the middle of September.

Losing Card Players In Summer Series Complimented

Losers can be choosers, even though beggars can't, and when four members of a little card club added their scores for eight rounds of bridge which have taken place this season and discovered they belonged to the low scorers, they were not in the least chagrined. For they discovered they were to be guests of the high scorers, and treated to the best of everything.

So it was that Mrs. Paul Carnahan, Mrs. Fred Cole, Mrs. Cornelius Neuschwanger, and Mrs. Edward Prentice were hostesses to Mrs. O. K. Carr, Mrs. Joe Steele, Mrs. Roy Ivins, and Mrs. John Gould yesterday afternoon, choosing a Long Beach theater as the place of entertainment.

Returning to this city, the merry makers assembled in the home of Mrs. Cornelius Neuschwanger, 620 Cypress avenue, for an evening of bridge. Dahlias in various shades adorned the home. Mrs. Paul Carnahan upheld her previous record as a high scorer, and held high honors, while Mrs. Edward Prentice, not wishing to seem too professional, dropped to low score. The enjoyable evening was concluded with a delectable refreshment course.

Sycamore Members Join In Celebration of Anniversary

Celebrating the anniversary of its founding on Aug. 4, 1888, Sycamore Rebekah lodge held a "homecoming" at its recent meeting in Odd Fellow hall, in which achievements of the order in the intervening 42 years were emphasized.

Members present were given an idea of the changes and of the accomplishments wrought in the interval, when minutes of the institution meeting and of the first lodge meeting were read. Officers of the grand lodge who conducted the institution, were all men and of the older members who have been in continuous good standing, several were men, including James Clark, George Peters and W. W. Chandler. Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Peters, Mr. Chandler, Mrs. Fannie Rose and Mrs. Robinson were others of those long-time members, while of the charter membership, only two are now living, Mrs. Martha Ritchey of this community, and Mrs. Frances Fierstenfeld of San Bernardino, the first noble grand of Sycamore Rebekahs.

Mrs. Clark gave an entertaining history of the lodge, while other members added many reminiscences of early days which were especially interesting.

An important anniversary of the founding of the order is to be celebrated by the district lodges on Sept. 20, and a committee was named to confer with district officers regarding the celebration. There will also be a district meeting on Sept. 27, with Sycamore lodge as host organization.

To conclude the evening's entertainment, a host committee served ice cream and cake in the banquet room, which like the assemly room was brilliantly decorated in pink and green, Rebekah colors.

The ladies of the United Brethren church are giving a cooked food sale all day Saturday Aug. 16, at 312 No. Sycamore.—Adv.

San Bernardino Social Editor Wedded Here To Legionnaire

Widely varied details contributed to the general interest of the wedding in this city yesterday at noon, of Miss Wanda Moran and Everett Lucke, prominent young people of San Bernardino, who, accompanied by a little group of close friends, arrived from the Gate City in the late forenoon hours, and assembled in the Charles Van Wyk home at 840 North Ross street, where the ceremony was conducted.

As editor of the woman's page of the San Bernardino Telegram, the bride is prominent in Southland newspaper circles, while as a member of a pioneer Southland family, she is identified with the social circles of San Bernardino, where her grandfather was one of the founders.

Mr. Lucke is a World war veteran, and active in American Legion, San Bernardino post No. 14, American Legion, as well as the Disabled Veterans' association, in which he holds the chief office. His Legion activities form the bond between him and Charles Van Wyk, who not only was host to the wedding party, but served as best man at the simple but charming rites.

For the ceremony the bride had chosen a poudre-blue georgette with touches of lace whose bisque tones were repeated in her hosiery and snakeskin slippers. Her hat was a smart little close-fitting creation of lace and georgette in the tones of her frock and adding the final touch to her charming appearance was a great cluster of pink rosebuds tied with maline in self-hue.

Mrs. Laura Kronke of San Bernardino, assistant county service officer, and a close friend of the bride was her matron of honor, and wore a pretty frock of ecru georgette embroidered in golden brown, with a hat of horsehair braid and deep brown velvet to harmonize.

The Rev. Golder Lawrence, pastor of the San Bernardino First Methodist Episcopal church, and chaplain in both the American Legion and Disabled American Veteran posts, conducted the solemn rites, and maintained the semi-military atmosphere of the wedding.

It seemed especially appropriate to the lovely color effect of Miss Moran's soft blue gown and pink roses, that flowers adorning the Van Wyk home should be misty pink and blue larkspur.

Accompanying the young people were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Deakins of Colton, the Rev. Mr. Lawrence, Mrs. Kronke, J. L. Hickey, L. Burr Belden, district commander of the American Legion, and a writer on the San Bernardino Sun; R. J. Welch of Riverside, commander of the Fifth Area, American Legion, and C. D. Dinsmore, also of Riverside, a state officer in the 40 and 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucke left Santa Ana yesterday afternoon for the north, and will attend the conventions of the American Legion and auxiliary and the 40 and 8, in Sacramento, after which they will continue to Lake Tahoe and other northern California points of interest.

They will make their home in San Bernardino, where Mr. Lucke is county welfare officer for the American Legion, a position requiring all of his time, and where Mrs. Lucke will continue her newspaper work for the time being.

Chiropractors Meet In Workman Home

The hospitable home of Drs. Workman and Workman, 1905 Valencia avenue, was the scene of the regular meeting of the American Bureau of Chiropractic, California unit, last evening, when members and friends met for a social and business evening.

A business meeting took place earlier in the evening, followed by a talk by Harry C. Westover, candidate for district attorney's office in Orange county.

Kenneth Workman, accompanied by Mrs. A. W. Grebe, presented a group of vocal selections, followed by a talk by Dr. James Workman, on the subject of Infantile Paralysis.

The rest of the evening was spent in answering various questions from the question box, after which refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed on the lawns. Many interesting games were provided for the children throughout the evening.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Pythian Sisters and their friends are anticipating a gala event for tonight, when they will assemble at the Edward W. Cochems home, 323 East Chestnut avenue, for a garden party of varied attractions. Fortune telling, games, contests and every merry entertainment feature that a resourceful committee can devise, will be offered on the program, and ice cream and cake will be served. Funds raised by the hospitality will be devoted to the needs of the Pythian home in the Valley of the Moon, Sonoma county. The affair is open to the general public, and among those availing themselves of the cordial invitation, will be the members of the Orange County Photographer's association, of which E. W. Cochems is president.

Torosa Rebekah lodge will hold a public benefit card party, Tuesday afternoon, August 19, at 1128 West Fifth street from 2 to 4 o'clock. Mrs. Edna Kinsella and Mrs. Ida Carey, will be hostesses. Bridge and 500 will be in order.

Farewell Courtesy Is Extended Departing College Girl

Last, lingering days in sunny California for Miss Doris Lewis, who is soon to return to her home in Deerfield, Mich., have been made especially memorable for her by Whittier college classmates, and the latest occasion given in her honor was that of Wednesday evening, when Miss Charlotte Harnois entertained in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Harnois on East Walnut street.

The bridge game of the evening progressed amid softly harmonizing surroundings, effected by the pastel-color motif carried out in numerous bouquets of pink, orchid, and yellow mid-summer blossoms. When tallies were checked, it was revealed that Miss June Goodwin was to receive first prize, a lovely Japanese print, while Miss Fountelle Rentschler was more than consoled with an attractively-decorated flower pot. Miss Lewis, the honor guest, shared in the awards when she received an exquisite corsage as special guest prize.

During the supper hour, the pastel motif introduced earlier in the evening, found expression in the slim tapers at each table, as well as in nut baskets filled with multi-colored candies. The cakes and ices, too, were in the same soft colorings.

Those sharing the pleasant evening with the honoree, Miss Lewis, and wishing her a happy journey, were the Misses Blanche Siegel, June Goodwin, Jean Campbell, Fountelle Rentschler, Nettie Jones, Louisa Hampton, Della Hampton and the hostess, Miss Charlotte Harnois, and Mesdames Charles A. Hunt of Anaheim, and Lyle Roberts, Robert Lufbery and Marshall Harnois of this city.

Mrs. Leon Holt entertained at her home in Lynwood with a delightful shower for her cousin, Miss Ethel Phillips of Anaheim, whose marriage to Donald Eisenhauer, of Los Angeles, took place last night in Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside.

The guests upon arrival were given tea towels to embroider for the bride-elect, afterwards joining in games planned by the clever hostess. At a bride and groom guessing game Miss Philura Felton won first prize. Mrs. George Post, of this city, who assisted the hostess in entertaining, won a prize for another guessing game. The guests were then given the fascinating task of fashioning a hat for the bride out of fancy paper. Miss Felton again won the prize offered for the best millinary creation.

Miss Phillips was taken into the flower garden where she found the shower gifts piled high on a table. After opening them the group returned to the house where four tables were attractively appointed for luncheon, using a pink and green color theme.

Present with the hostess and the honored guest were Mrs. George Post, Mrs. John Croughan and Mrs. Edward Gray of Santa Ana; Mrs. Ida Cumberland of Orange; Mrs. Hattie Allan of Garden Grove; Mrs. Willard Smith of Southgate; Mrs. Lloyd Baxter and Miss Beatrice Baxter of Los Angeles; Mrs. Charles Recknor, Mrs. Luther Strain, Mrs. Lyle Felton, the Misses Philura and Leola Felton, and Mrs. N. R. Phillips, all of Anaheim.

Miss Beulah May Made Flying Visit Here Today

Making only a flying visit in this city, Miss Beulah May was a guest today in the home of Mrs. Robert C. Northcross, 1318 Spurgeon street. She accompanied her niece, Mrs. Clyde Huffman, formerly Miss Margaret May of Santa Ana, who came from her Los Angeles home on business. While here, Miss May also attended to business matters in connection with her ranch on Mabury street.

It will be gratifying to her host of friends, to learn that she is receiving so much benefit from her extended stay in Las Encinas sanitorium, Pasadena, and while her recovery seems tedious, yet she is making a daily gain in health.

Since the publication of her recent book of poems, "Daggers in a Star," Miss May has had quite a number of her compositions accepted by leading magazines, and in addition to her writing activities, she is continuing her modelling, finding many interesting subjects as well as friends, among her fellow patients at Las Encinas.

As a member of the "Country Bard club," she recently had the pleasure of entertaining that noted little organization of writers, as her afternoon guests at Las Encinas.

Recent Bride Welcomes Friendly Group In Her New Home

Touring occupied the afternoon hours, at the close of which, delectable refreshments were served. A lovely kodak book was presented the honoree at parting. Of interest was the fact that the little affair was the first to be given in the new home, as Mr. and Mrs. Walworth have only recently taken possession, upon their return from their honeymoon, Mrs. Walworth was Miss Zelma Beemer.

Those present included the honoree, Miss Lola Christie, Miss Dorothy Grizzle, Miss Ramona Smith, Miss Erma Baxter, Miss Ruth Beemer, Miss Mary Mendenhall, little Miss Betty Warren, Mrs. C. E. Waggener, and sons, Deering and Calvin, Mrs. J. J. Beemer, and the hostess, Mrs. Ray Walworth.

Various Parties Are Given For Guests

The present week has held no end of pleasure for Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, 1413 Spurgeon street, and their house guest, Mrs. Warren Argast of Galesburg, Ill. For while the hosts are escorting Mrs. Argast to various of the noted Southern California points, they are experiencing anew the thrill that comes in viewing a familiar spot of beauty.

One of the most recent of these little journeys was that of Wednesday, when, accompanied by Mrs. Albert Raymond of this city, and several friends from Southgate, the group enjoyed a luncheon at the Mission Inn in Riverside.

With the advent of Thursday evening, came a little informal party at the beach. Sharing the pleasant event with Mr. and Mrs. Gould and Mrs. Warren Argast, were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Raymond.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Members of the Sewing circle of Calumpit auxiliary were delightfully entertained yesterday, when they shared the hospitality of the Laguna Beach cottage of Mrs. Howard Wassum. The morning was spent in Sewing, followed by a delectable basket luncheon, served at the noon hour. The afternoon was spent on the beach, where most of the group enjoyed swimming.

Thirtyseven guests and members were present. Assisting the hostess, Mrs. Howard Wassum, were Mrs. Arthur Randall, Mrs. Marie Lindquist and Mrs. Anna Patmore.

Baked Ham—And What's Left Over

Baked ham, while high priced in one way, is actually an economy because the cold ham can be used in so many ways.

Buy half a prime ham, cut from the large end. Parboil it, seasoning the water with vinegar and garlic, then wrap in a thick blanket of stiff dough and slowly bake it for four hours. Remove the dough and baste with honey or cider while browning. That is how I like it for dinner.

The left-over ham I use once for luncheon, sliced thin. The rest is ground up and used in various ways. A little of it is mixed with the scrambled eggs for breakfast, or used in a puffy omelette. A sum-shus macaroni dish is made by using a lawyer of macaroni spread with cheese sauce, then with a thick sprinkling of ground ham, more macaroni, sauce and ham until the casserole is full—this baked 30 minutes in a moderate oven for dinner. Delicious sandwiches can be made by mixing the ground ham with a little India relish, and enough mayonnaise to make it spreadable (put plenty of prepared mustard in the mayonnaise).

But the choicest use for the left-over is this:

Prepare and chill a delicately made gelatine salad with tomato juice as one ingredient. Arrange on crisp lettuce with a dressing of mustard-flavored mayonnaise and serve ham and cheese savories with it.

Make them by spreading rounds of bread and butter, then with grated cheese, over the cheese a lawyer of ground ham with a dab of mustard, then the top round of bread. Slip under the broiler and toast on one side, turn, sprinkle grated cheese on the other side and let it toast, too. Serve piping hot with the crisp cold salad for luncheon or a swanky dinner entree.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Veal Kidney Stew With Polenta

2 veal kidneys
Flour for dredging
Fat for browning the meat
4 slices diced bacon
1 onion, 3 carrots, 2 stalks celery, chopped fine
1 cvan mushroom sauce.
1 bay leaf
2 beef cubes dissolved in
2 cups hot water
Pepper and garlic salt to season to taste

Split the kidneys open and cut away the white gristly part. Wash in salt water and soak 15 minutes, drain, roll the kidney, now cut in pieces, in flour and brown quickly in hot fat. Transfer to a casserole, and in the fat left, put the chopped vegetables rolled in flour, to saute for 10 minutes.

Put them with the kidney, add seasoning, beef broth and mushroom sauce. Cook in a fast oven until the casserole begins to simmer, reduce the heat, cover and cook for 1½ hours. Serve with polenta.

Polenta is the Italian's potato. We would call it "plain corn meal mush," and while that is it exactly, a well made polenta is not to be laughed at. To make it—

Have 2 cups of water boiling hard, add½ teaspoon salt and sift in corn meal, stirring constantly, until the mixture begin to get very thick. Cook it fully 15 minutes after it thickens and in a double boiler to save it from burning on the bottom. The polenta must be thick enough to cut when served. What is left over can be fried in butter for breakfast, served with syrup or jam.

The stew serves three people, and the calory total, with a generous serving of polenta, is a little more than 500 per person.

"Greater Talkie Season" Opens

STYLE REVIEW SEEN TONIGHT AT FOX-BD'WAY

With the best pictures that have been made recently at hand, the Fox theaters of Santa Ana were ready to offerthe public the best in motion and talking pictures.

At the Fox Broadways theater, starting today is Norma Shearer's latest all-talking sensation, "Let Us Be Gay," a sophisticated play that should prove popular in Santa Ana and at the Fox West Coast theater, starting tomorrow is "Grumpy," the famous old stage play, made over, 1930 fashion, with the original star, Cyril Maude.

Some of the pictures scheduled for Santa Ana during Greater Talkie Season include "Animal Crackers," "Anybody's Woman," with Ruth Chatterton, "The Last of the Duanes," return of "All Quiet On The Western Front," and "The Arizona Kid," "So This Is London," with Will Rogers and many others.

Style Review Tonight

In connection with the official opening of Greater Talkie Season, a big fall fashion review will be staged at the Fox Broadway theater tonight at 8:45 o'clock, between the first and second shows. The style show is staged by Gene Kahen,, of the Santa Ana Sample shop and some of the most gorgeous creations in sport dresses, evening dresses, wraps and coats will be shown.

The clothes will be modeled by professional Hollywood models and more than 50 guests have been invited to attend. The styles shown are the Fanchon and Marco mode, of which the Sample Shop here is the exclusive dealers. Six changes are to be seen.

Aside from the style show there will be several acts of vaudeville, it was announced.

SLAVE TO APPETITE

ANAHEIM, Calif., Aug. 15.—A burglar should have enough will power to walk away from food and drink when he is robbing a house. That's what Lauro Ahumado, 21, should have, anyhow. He was robbing the home of Jess Michaeli recently and after he made his haul noticed some perfume, which he drank. This he followed with some rubbing alcohol and topped it all off with marshmallows. He contracted such a severe stomachache that he was easily caught when Michaeli returned home.

FAMOUS STAR

Cyril Maude, with Mrs. Maude, who came out of retirement to play the lead in "Grumpy," which comes to the Fox West Coast theater tomorrow. He has played the part 1300 times.

MICKEY MOUSE CLUB TO MEET SATURDAY

Members of the Santa Ana Mickey Mouse club, unable to attend their weekly meetings and entertainment for the past several weeks because of the fear of infantile paralysis, will meet again for the first time tomorrow at noon at the Fox West Coast theater.

The shows have been staged at the Fox Broadway theater in the past, but a change will give the kiddies more time, it was announced.

The picture for the meeting tomorrow is Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood," one of the greatest silent films that was ever made. It has a particularly strong appeal for boys and girls and is considered one of the best pictures that could be procured for the club.

A number of acts of vaudeville, including Mildred and Junior Martin, in a series of dance numbers, also are scheduled for tomorrow's show. More than 500 members are expected to attend at which time the Santa Ana Mickey Mouse club will be re-organized permanently.

HAY-MAKING RABBIT

JASPER PARK, Alta., Aug. 15.—Warden Davis, who has been studying the coney of rock rabbit, makes the statement that this is the only animal in the world which makes hay. It cuts grass when it is green, lets it lie in the sun until it is cured.

FAMOUS STAGE HIT "GRUMPY" STARTS

Cyril Maude, famous English actor, comes to the Fox West Coast theater tomorrow and Sunday in his first all-talking picture, "Grumpy," famous stage play, which he made one of the outstanding stage hits of the century.

The show, brought to the United States in 1913 by Maude, is outstanding in the memory of theater goers as one of the biggest hits ever to come to New York. Maude had the original Grumpy part and has played it for more than 1300 times.

He was retired when Paramount decided to make the play as a talking picture, and he came out of retirement at the age of 83 to play the part.

The story concerns a grouchy, testy, insolent old man who as a retired criminal lawyer, lives with his granddaughter. She is his only love and when her happiness is threatened, he takes a hand in a most surprising manner, to see that her happiness is secured.

"Grumpy" decides that the man who wants to marry her is a crook, so he investigates and his findings bring the story to a startling climax.

Burglar Alarm Of Motorist Stolen

GLENDALE, Calif., Aug. 15.—Judge Dudley S. Valentine believes in safety first and always. Addressing a group of Elks here recently he told of his automobile burglar alarm, which will arouse the neighborhood in case a burglary of his car or any of its accessories should be attempted.

After the meeting, Judge Valentine walked out to the curb with several of the Elks. To their dismay, tires and other removable accessories had been stolen from a number of cars, they found.

After expressing his sympathy to the unfortunate Elks, Judge Valentine said, "Now come over and I will show you my burglar alarm." A few men accepted the invitation, to discover that the burglar alarm had been removed from Judge Valentine's car while he was speaking on precaution.

"LET US BE GAY" AT FOX-BROADWAY

Norma Shearer will be seen today, tomorrow and Sunday at the Fox Broadway theater in "Let Us Be Gay," all-talking adaptation of the successful Rachel Crothers play in which Francine Larrimore starred on Broadway for ten months. The star will be supported by Rod La Rocque in the leading masculine role, and a large cast which includes Marie Dressler, Gilbert Emery, Hedda Hopper, Raymond Hackett, Sally Eilers and Tyrrell Davis. Robert Z. Leonard directed.

The play presents the amusing situation of a wife who when she discovers that she has become too dowdy to retain her husband's affections, goes to Paris for a three year's training course in acquiring "it" and returns to make a sensational come-back.

The scenes are laid in the wealthy home of a dowager whom the wife has met in Paris, and who solicits her aid in "vamping" a man who is becoming entirely too chummy with her granddaughter. When the wife discovers that it is her own ex-husband whom she is supposed to make a play for, the hilarious situations begin. No little of the fun is reported to be contributed by Marie Dressler who as the eccentric dowager is said to present a portrayal which even outdoes her much-discussed one of "Anna Christie."

Miss Shearer is said to look more stunning than ever in a variety of Paris-copied creations designed by Adrian, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stylist. Others who appear in smart models include Miss Hopper and Miss Eilers.

NEW BRITISH BOMBER

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The newest bombing plane to be put in British service is the latest word in aviation. It has a range of 2500 miles and when fully loaded with projectiles, the machine can fly nearly 200 miles an hour and remain aloft for 12 hours. It is capable of traveling half way across the Atlantic and back to England again between breakfast and dinner.

SOLDIERS, WOMEN AT WALKER STATE

Columbia's pretentious all-talking production of the well known stage success, "Soldiers and Women," which enjoyed a long and successful run on Broadway, is coming to Walker's State today. The action is laid in Haiti.

Aileen Pringle plays the leading feminine role. She is ideally suited to the difficult role of the sophisticated, neurotic heroine.

Grant Withers, who has been in great demand by all the large companies because of his unusual talent, his excellent recording voice and appealing screen personality, plays the masculine lead opposite Miss Pringle.

ROLLING SLEEPERS

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 15—No matter how soundly you sleep, you are constantly on the move. Dr. H. M. Johnson, of the Mellon Institute here, has conducted numerous experiments to prove this. Only persons who are heavily drugged lie perfectly still when asleep, he says. And the best rest is had by those who assume a considerable variety of positions when asleep.

Last day to see this delightful romance with the sweetest voice this side of heaven singing 11 immortal songs. Laugh till your sides ache—Cry till your heart breaks.

What the Papers Say

"Song O' My Heart" is a genuine accomplishment. There was frequent applause at the opening for the McCormack songs and high praise can be bestowed for both the manner in which they were done and the recording.—Los Angeles Times.

If "Song O' My Heart" had nothing else to recommend it, "Little Boy Blue" would make it well worth hearing. The comedy couldn't have been put into better hands than those of J. M. Kerrigan. He and Farrell Macdonal are a grand pair.

GREATER TALKIE SEASON

The Other Bullet

By Nancy Barr Mavity

SYNOPSIS

Peter Piper, a newspaper reporter and his wife, Barbara are spending a vacation in the Sierras at a small hotel run by the Carters. Mrs. Coak, a middle aged woman arrives at the hotel and tells Peter and Carter that Mortison, manager of the Everett ranch, has been murdered. Peter and the woman, who shows an uncanny interest in murders, start for the ranch while Carter goes for the sheriff. Mrs. Coak says that Everett is a construction engineer and is away from home the greater part of the time. She intimates that Mrs. Everett was in love with Mortison and killed him.

Peter finds Mortison's body pierced by two bullets, one through the neck and the other through the lungs. He sees Mrs. Everett who says her sister, Marjorie who has been living with them is gone. Everett and the sheriff arrive separately.

When the officer asks Everett if he killed Mortison, Aline, Mrs. Everett, declares she shot him for her sister Marjorie's sake. The sheriff takes Peter, Mr. and Mrs. Everett and their sheep herder, Julio, to jail. Peter is later released

At the jail Everett tells Peter he is only interested in helping his wife, and the reporter arranges to retain Emil Kurtner, famous criminal lawyer, on the case. The reporter t alks with Mrs. Everett who tells him of her three years on the ranch—that she has tried to live by eastern standards. She declares she has an indication to fall in love with other men and that she fell in love with Mortison. Marjorie had also been in love with the man she says. The sisters quarrelled and Marjorie threatened to tell Everett of his wife's affair with Mortison. Aline says she shot Mortison but that the first bullet went wild. Peter says the two bullets found in the room where Mortison met his death may not be identical although they seem to be and that whoever shot first, is the murderer. Aline says the man was seated at a table when she shot him.

Barbara on her way to a nearby town meets a sheep herder who provides an alibi for Everett. The sheepherder also declares that Mortison has wronged Julio's girl, who it appears is Mrs. Coak's daughter. Barbara returns to the Carters with this news for Peter.

Peter asks the sheriff to let him fire a bullet from the gun with which Mortison was shot and as the reporter has assisted him in narrowing down the suspects, the sheriff consents. Pictures of the two bullets found in Mortison's body are made. Peter searches until he finds the first bullet Mrs. Everett says she fired and which went wild. Peter and the camera man from his paper, go over Mortison's belongings at the ranch house which reveal that he was cultured, traveled, and had evidently held a position of prominence in the social world. A loaded gun is found in the drawer of the table at which he sat when shot. Peter senses a story behind the story of the murder when he finds an old-fashioned photograph, with a mother and two boys. The boys faces have been cut from the picture.

Peter added the broken Chinese box to the contents of his bulging pockets, replaced the papers in the drawer and thrust it back into place. The elation faded from his eyes, leaving them speculative and a little weary.

"Let's get back to the shooting," he said, extracting pipe and tobacco from his pocket, where they lay beneath the two handkerchiefs and the Chinese box.

"I ain't got another plate to shoot any more bullets with," Andrews said sternly. "I got some swell shots of the dame and her husband. They jibbed at first, but they seemed to think they owed it to you to do whatever you said. I suggested they'd better beware of undesirable publicity, and turn the other papers down."

"Good boy!"

"I want to rush back to town with these on the afternoon train. I can finish 'em up in time for the first run tomorrow."

"You wait for me, and I'll drive you down. I've got to go to the office myself, and to see Kurtner, and get a lawyer, and about a million other things. A grand vacation this turned out to be!" Peter strove to make his voice sound injured, but Andrews was not deceived.

"Now about this shooting. If Aline's first shot went through the open window—and it did, because I found the bullet outside in those damned thickets, why didn't Mortison reach for his own gun, to defend himself? You'd think he had time for that, when it was right at hand, in the table drawer. Aline said there wasn't any quarrel, but she may not be telling it all. She made up a pretty good lie, on the spur of the moment, when the sheriff questioned her last night, and one good lie may deserve another.

"Then there's the second wound to account for. We've got three bullets, and three shells—and only two of them came from Aline's gun. Maybe it was someone else who fired through the window, and Aline knew it. But there's no use speculating on that—Kurtner will know whether both bullets in Mortison's body came from Aline's gun or not. The point is, there's someone else besides Aline and Mortison in the picture. The chambers in Mortison's gun are all full, so that lets him out."

"What did Mortison do—that's the question. It doesn't seem reasonable that he'd just sit there and let them pump him full of holes. What does a man do when he finds himself being shot at? He didn't have time to fire his gun, but maybe he reached for it. No, the drawer of the table was closed. He was slumped forward across the table—Say, that's a thought!"

Peter suddenly straightened in his chair and, reaching forward, pulled the table drawer half open.

"Hold this!" He handed his pipe to Andrews, and then, with somewhat horrible realism, relaxed his whole body and fell slowly forward until his head and shoulders lay on the table, as he had found the dead man's two evenings before. One arm dangled over the edge.

With a bound, Peter righted himself, and turned to Andrews. The camera man had dropped Peter's pipe to the floor and was stooping, his hands on his knees, to get a view of the front of the table. The weight of Peter's body falling forward, had slid the drawer back into place.

"It could be done!" Peter frowned.

Andrews retrieved the fallen pipe and regained an upright position.

"Well, after all, what difference does it make?" he said, somewhat ashamed of the contagion of excitement with which he had watched Peter's demonstration. "Suppose he did reach for his own gun in self defense."

"But don't you see, it works both ways!" Peter insisted. "If Mortison reached for that gun before Aline fired, and then she shot and killed him, it was justifiable homicide. She was 'in imminent danger of great bodily injury.' Don't you remember the Fiorentino case?"

"But you don't know that the drawer was open," Andrews argued.

"Of course I don't," Peter said impatiently. "But Aline's got to remember. She'll need every defense angle she can get. Maybe this other bird fired and missed, and then got scared and beat it just before Aline came along, and she found Mortison in the act of reaching for his gun. In all probability she knew where he kept it. Or maybe it was a three cornered row between Mortison, Aline and sister Marjorie, and she fired to save Marjorie. That's justifiable homicide, too, you know."

"It seems to me you're collecting a whole pocketful of maybes," Andrews interrupted skeptically.

"Maybes are just what lawyers thrive on," Peter asid cynically. "Whatever comes out at this trial, it isn't going to be the whole truth. You can bet your next week's pay check on that. If Aline testifies that the drawer was open—Of course it all depends on what Kurtner says about thoseb ullets that you hated to waste your precious plates on."

"Hey! What are you doing?"

"Around the house! Beat it!"

Peter was quoting the judge's instructions from memory. The passage runs: "Homicide is also justifiable when committed by any person..when resisting any attempt to murder any person..or to do some great bodily harm upon any person..or when there is reasonable ground to apprehend a design ..to do some great bodily injury, and imminent danger of such design being accomplished." 13 Cal. Jurisprudence, 34.

Peter was through the open door in a flash, and rounded the corner of the house just as Andrews scrambled through the window and thudded to the ground. No one was in sight, but a heavy thrashing in the thicket was clearly audible. Peter's long legs scissored across the short open space, and in another instant he had plunged out of sight, the bushes swinging their stiff branches in place behind him.

The swishing of boughs abruptly ceased.

"Got him!" Peter's voice came in a muffled shout.

A moment later, he emerged, and dragging behind him a figure which he held firmly gripped by the collar of a sweat-stained blue shirt.

"Now, then, what were you doing around here?" Peter demanded with as much severity as his shortness of breath would allow.

"I was doing nothing."

Peter spun the figure around until it faced him, and glanced sharply into the wizened countenance of an old man. A stubble of white hairs roughened his chin, giving it a gray motheaten appearance, and wisps of disordered gray hair fell across his forehead. But it was his words, rather than his appearance, which had riveted Peter's attention. Although there was no trace of accent in his actual pronunciation, there was something oddly uncolloquial in the word order of his short sentence.

"Why were you hanging around the place where Don Mortison was killed?" Peter reiterated. "If you don't tell me, you'll have to tell the sheriff, so you'd bette rget busy on it."

The old man with surprising strength wrenched himself free of Peter's grip, but he made no further effort to escape. He lifted both hands high above his head, shaking his knotted fists."

"I came back—because I was glad—that he was dead!"

"O—oh! So you came back, did you?" Peter murmured thoughtfully. "And why the cheers?" he added, again addressing the old man, whose arms had now dropped listlessly at his sides.

"The cheers—?"

"Why are you glad that he is dead?"

Peter had asked many questions and received many surprising answers. But he long remembered the old man's next words as the most unexpected he had ever heard.

"Because he made my crops not to grow," he said with sullen conviction.

"Oh, yeah?" Peter was unable to conceal his utter bewilderment. "What did he do?"

The shrivelled face changed with the clenching of the old man's jaws. Something fierce and inimical shone from his faded eyes. Even his bent frame straightened with the force of unalterable conviction.

"He hexed me," he said with stern finality.

"He—what?"

"He hexed me. He was a bad man. He walked around my fields at night, in the dark of the moon. I watched him. I saw him. I had done him no harm." A curious note of pleading crept into the old man's voice. "No hurt have I done him, ever. Yet he made my crops so that they would no longer grow. Now he is dead, and my fields will be safe."

"But look here," Peter said idiotically, "do you mean to say you actually believe that?" He knew, incredible as it sounded, that the old man was speaking what he believed to be the literal truth.

His mind groped for an explanation. Hexed? Hexe—the German word for witch. But "hexe" was not a verb. Where had he heard that strange verbal distortion? He had read of a case somewhere—He had it now. It was in Pennsylvania. A farmer in a community of German extraction had murdered a man who, he insisted, had "Hexed" him, and had gone to prison well-contest because the spell was lifted. Blymer, or something like that, his name was.

"How long have you been in California?" he asked suddenly.

"Since one year. I sold my farm and came to end my years in the sunshine." There was unconscious pathos in the old man's words.

"No wonder your crops wouldn't grow—you don't know one thing about California farming?"

"My crops always grow, in Pennsylvania. How should I not know how to farm? My farm would be all right. But that Mortison, he walked around my fields when the moon is dark. And now he is dead!" The cracked voice rose in a shrill note of triumph.

"So he is," Peter agreed absently. "By the way, what is your name?"

"Schnitzler—Herman Schnitzler."

"It would be. Where's your gun, Mr. Schnitzler?"

"My shot gun? It is in the tool shed—that is where I keep it."

The old man stared.

"I have nothing like that," he said slowly.

"No, you wouldn't. If you had, you've had plenty of time to dispose of it."

Andrews, who had retreated quietly around the corner of the house, reappeared, camera in hand. He set up his tripod on the grass, and spoke persuasively.

But Schnitzler did not "hold it." His bony hands darted upward, covering his face. His thin frame shook so violently that the torn cuffs flapped about his wrists.

"No!" he cried. "You shall not have it! You were in that room. Perhaps you learn from him. You get my face in the picture—and you hex me with it!"

With a sudden twist which sent Peter spinning off his balance, Schnitzler darted between the two men, overturning the tripod as he went, and ran with amazing agility down the road.

Andrews righted the tripod and glowered at the rapidly disappearing figure.

"If he'd broken my camera," he said direfully, "he'd have heard from me!"

"Pleasant old customer," Peter rubbed his shin where Schnitzler's heavy farm shoe had caught it a glancing blow. "If we're looking for enemies of Mortison, we seem to be getting what we want and plenty of it. Up to date there's Julio, and Mrs. Coak and Mrs. Coak's daughter, and Marjorie and Mrs. Everett, all of whom had plenty of reason for taking a shot at him. And now it appears that women weren't Mortison's only trouble. He's gone and added witchcraft to his gift of shootable exploits. A bright little thought you had, pointing your hexing camera at the old bird!"

"He'd have made a swell picture," Andrews said mournfully.

"Well, thanks to you, he's going to be as hard to catch, after this, as a scared rabbit. And something tells me we're going to need to catch him, before we're through."

"But if he shot Mortison, why dosen't he say so, and plead insanity? If he really believes that witchcraft dope, he's certainly cracked," Andrews suggested.

"That just what the man in Pennsylvania did, but he didn't get off. He was convicted, and got a life sentence. That case happened only about a year ago. It's ten to one that coming from the same part of thec ountry and the same people, Schnitzler knew about it." Peter pondered a moment and then added. "Lots of people won't sit thirteen at the table, and refuse to change their seats at cards if they think the luck is running in their direction. Their beliefs are just as irrational as Schnitzler's, but it's only when it's the other fellow's superstition, and an unfamiliar one, that we see how absurd it is. If the old fellow did have a hand in the shooting, he may still be quite able to keep his wits about him afterwards. Maybe he isn't so crazy, after all!"

FAMILY NIGHT OBSERVED BY LOCAL CHURCH

Family night was observed at the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church Wednesday night at the regular mid-week service. Representatives of 38 families were present, making an attendance of 80 persons. The largest family present was that of Frank Heemstra, of Buena Park, whose entire family of seven persons was at the service, including the 18 months old baby.

A fine program was presented, with a social hour following the worship hour. A course on how to enjoy the Bible, which is being given by the pastor, the Rev. Moffet Rhodes, was continued last night with the reading of the first part of the Epic of Elijah, from I Kings, chapters 17 and 18.

Refreshments were served by the young people of the church during the social hour, which was in charge of Mrs. Henrietta Heemstra and Martha Heemstra. Solos were presented by Paul Allen, of Los Angeles, and James Nuckolls, who were accompanied at the piano by Henrietta Heemstra. As part of this program the Rev. Mr. Rhodes gave a 15-minute illustrated lecture on Death valley, using colored slides.

The "church night" series is being featured by the church every Wednesday night, and the public is invited.

AS FAST as Hills Bros. Coffee comes from the roasters which produce the famous flavor, it is packed in vacuum cans. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out of the can and kept out. No air-tight can will keep coffee fresh. Hills Bros.' vacuum can is easily opened with the key

DON'T SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION

Prevent It This Pleasant, Healthful Way

Beware of the frequent headaches, the listless feeling, bad breath and sallow complexion.

If allowed to continue, constipation may get its grip on you and serious sickness can result.

The poisonous wastes in your system must be removed. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to do this—safely, completely. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—recurring cases, with every meal.

Doctors recommend Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Because it is ALL-BRAN it brings complete results. Far better than habit-forming drugs or pills that are often dangerous. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN not only prevents and relieves constipation pleasantly—it also supplies your blood with the iron it needs to keep a healthy color and a strong body.

Ready to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Recipes are on the package for muffins and breads. Sold by all grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A LAUGH FOR EVERYBODY

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

While they were standing by the well, the Tinies heard wee Clowny yell, "Hey, look at who is coming. What a funny man is he." The Tinies looked and what they saw just seemed to fill them all with awe. The man they watched walk to the well, was strong as could be.

Upon his back there must have been 'bout forty cans, all made of tin. "Why don't they fall?" said Coppy. "Gee, at balancing he's fine!" The Travel Man then said, "That man's an expert with a water can. He very seldom drops one 'cause he keeps them all in line."

The cans were soon stacked 'round about the well. "Oh, gee, let's help him out," cried Carpy. "We can fill them up with water. He won't mind." The man looked up and said, "Why, say, I'm really rather tired today. If you will fill these cans up, I will think you're very kind."

And so the task was shortly done. The Tinies thought it heaps of fun. "'Twill take me several trips to take them back," the man declared. "When full, I cannot take them all. They are too heavy and they'd fall." Said Clowny, "My, I'll bet your back is glad that it is spared."

The Travel Man soon said, "Well, we must move along so we can see some other sights. What say we take a plane ride through the air? The flying field's not far away. For some new place we'll start today." And so they started hiking and the whole bunch soon were there.

The Travel Man arranged so they could soon be on their merry way. Before they left, however, all the Tinies looke around, and eyed the plane from tail to nose. Said Scouty, "Think how fast this goes. And we will soon be in it. My, I wonder where we're bound."

Missing Letter Links

RULES:

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't. TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.
2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.
3. The order of the letters can not be changed.

HALF to DEAD—This isn't such a nerve-wracking hole that you will be HALF DEAD when you finish it. However, you shoot for HALF DEAD.

Tomorrow: Solution of Today's Puzzle.

(Copyright, 1930, The Bell Syn., Inc.)

HUMAN PLANE

OAK PARK, Ill., Aug. 15.—Peter Karabatsos, local inventor, has been working for some time on an apparatus which, he hopes, will enable him to fly by flapping wings like birds. The wings have a spread of 16 feet, and are covered with aluminum. They flap by means of levers attached to a new type of motor. The whole machine straps to the shoulders and weighs only 50 pounds.

REAL TATOOED MAN

SAUTELLE, Aug. 15.—(UP)—To look at Dave Warford, 64, once one of Roosevelt's "Rough Riders," you wouldn't think he was tattooed from chin to ankles. But he is—yet has never been in a sideshow in his life.

STATE CAMPAIGNS TO REDUCE FIRES

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 15.—The motorist who carelessly discards a cigar or cigaret stub from his automobile is likely to find himself in court, explaining it to the judge, after August 2, if plans of state and county officials are successful.

A statewide drive against motorists who start grass and grain fires by such means has been set for August 2, and traffic patrolmen will co-operate with state and county fire wardens in arresting violators, it is announced by State Forester M. B. Pratt.

The decision to adopt drastic measures against "involuntary incenciarists," was reached recently at a meeting of all interested agencies with Governor C. C. Young and Fred G. Stevenot, director of natural resources.

PORTRAIT TABLECLOTHS

LONDON, Aug. 15.—London society hostesses have adopted the style of using portraits on tablecloths used at the dinners they serve. The cloths are of fine linen, and the portraits are woven into the center. The pictures are either of the hostess or of some visiting celebrity.

Pegasus Club Writers Enjoy Hospitality Of Beach Home

Luncheon was served at noon amidst appointments reflecting the blue of sea and sky, for the central bouquet of lantana, as well as the china, the table cloth and the napkins, all emphasized the cerulean hues. Mrs. Earl Morris and Mrs. Frank Was were responsible for the success of this phase of the day's hospitality.

Mrs. George Bond as program chairman, had prepared an interesting afternoon, with Mrs. Walter Foote opening the group with two original verses, "No Credit," and "Angels Have Climbed to the Fifth City" both humorous. Miss Marjorie Lusk continued with her story, "Blue Ribbons," which members believed to be truly a polished product. She announced the program for the next meeting of the League of Western Writers, of which she is a member, which session will be held in Oakland in October. Mrs. Frank Was' "Black Swan," a Spanish story, was well received as all of the foreign names and custom introduced were so accurate and authentic. Mrs. C. F. Jackson contributed an arrangement of poems titled, "Song of the Aviators." Very clever was the original poem read by Mrs. Earl Morris, "My Latest Hobby." Mrs. Ray Brown chose her favorite poem for her part in the program. A selection from Emerson's Essays was read by Mrs. Frank Lansdown. Mrs. R. H. Winchester presented a well-written true story, "Our Secret," and Mrs. George Bond continued with "The Road to Tomorrow," a beautiful original poem. Mrs. Fannie Lash concluded the interesting program with a poetical interpretation of "My Mother."

A number of those present chose a dip in the ocean as a fitting conclusion to the day's entertainment.

Mrs. Kesemann Greets Bridge Club Members At Pretty Party

Members of an informal little bridge club were pleasantly entertained yesterday afternoon, when they met in the home of Mrs. William Kesemann on Durant street. Lovely asters in all of the soft, pastel tones formed the floral decorative motif.

When the game of the afternoon was over, it was found that Mrs. Maude Swarthout held high score, which was put down with the remainder of the permanent records, to be added with the completion of the season. A delectable refreshment course concluded the interesting afternoon.

Those present, other than the hostess, Mrs. Kesemann were Mesdames Herbert Allen, A. C. Bowers, Allie Cain, A. B. Chandler, Edna Kinsella, Frank Pickel, Maude Swarthout, Nellie Young, Frank Sawyer and two guests, Mrs. Claude Brown and Mrs. Ida Carrie.

Friendly Group Shares Enjoyable Evening Of Cards

A charmng little informal card party was that of last evening, when Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lepper entertained in their home at 2212 Maple avenue. Gladioluses in tones shading from shell pink to deep rose added to the attractiveness of the surroundings.

Five hundred was the game of the evening, and results of the pleasant contest showed that Mrs. R. O. Metz held high score for women, receiving a luster cream and sugar set, while Mrs. J. F. Jacoby was consoled with a bridge set. R. O. Metz received a handsome deck of cards for upholding men's honors while G. P. Ames was consoled with a pencil. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Those sharing the pleasant evening with Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lepper, were Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Metz, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Ames, Mrs. L. White and Mrs. J. F. Jacoby.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Cross currents prevailed in a moderately active session on the curb today and the market made little headway in either direction as a result of conflicting price movements.

Further covering came into some of the recently pressed utilities, American Gas advancing a point and Electric Bond & Share almost that amount. United Light encountered a good demand that resulted in a 1 polt gain. Niagara Hudson and Brazilian Traction were in supply at small concessions.

Oils weakened on profit-taking that followed yesterday's upturn, fractional declines taking place in Gulf, Houston and Misouri Kansas pipeline. However, support was forthcoming on the dips and recessions were confined to a narrow range. Standard of Indiana was firm at a fractional advance. Cosden was weak.

A break of almost 3 points in Anglo Chilean Nitrate featured the general list. Ford, Ltd., encountreed good support when offerins dried up following a profit taking dip at the opening. Trading was inaguurated in Warner Bros. Rights which had an active turnover around 1⅜. Willow Cafeterias was in supply, receding almost a pint to a new low for the year.

Investment trusts backed and filled in a narrow range. Goldman Sachs eased a fraction, while public utility holdings was steady. National Investors was in supply at a concession of ⅝ point.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Free short covering in the last half hour on the Board of Trade today advanced wheat and corn to the best prices for the day. The market was very erratic, continuing its sharp fluctuations which have characterized the week's trade. The east was a good buyer on the way up with offerings scarce. Oats showed almost an independent action, being relatively stronger than wheat and corn early.

At the close wheat was 1½c higher, corn was 2⅝ to 3⅜c higher and oats were 1 to 1¼c higher. Provisions were 20 to 25 points.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Railroad securities continued to display strength in today's sesion on the bond market, despite the action of issues in most other classifications, which gave ground in an irregularly downward reaction through the general list.

Led by Seaboard 6s with a gain of more than 1 point, many standard an dsecond grade carriers advanced fractionally under a heavy investment demand. The exception in the department was Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 4½s which lost 1 point under pressure.

With exception of a few Latin American nad Scandinavian obligations, issues in the foreign section moved irregularly lower, although price drops were mostly fractional. United States government loans suffered price shading.

Individual issues were subjected to heavy pressure in the industrial column. White Sewing Machine 6s receded more than 3 points, while losses ranging from ½ to 2 points were recorded by Goodyear, Limestone 6s and Morris & Co., 4½s.

After an early show of firmness utility bonds moved downward in the wake of American Telephone & Telegraph 4½s, off nearly a point. Transcontinental Oil 6½s firmed up 1½ points, while other oil bonds sold off slightly under pressure.

L. A. STOCKS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Issues on the Los Angeles stock and curb exchangec were generally quiet today an dthere was a depression in most lines.

TransAmerica corporation, following the trend of the entire market, was extreme dull and dropped fractionally on sale of less than one thousand shares. Oils were lower and practically idle. Standard, Union, Richfield and Rio Grande, experienced one of the slowest days in recent history of the board.

Claude Neon had a brisk opening session, opening at 36, dropping off to 35 and with fair suport, rallied back to its opening quotation. Banks and utilities were idle.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Stocks made the best gains in three weeks on the stock exchange today.

United States Steel led the rise in the late trading, reaching a new high on the movement and other leaders made gains ranging to 4 poits or more. Special issues rose as much as 30 points in the case of American Machina and Foundry, old stock.

The rise started gradually. In fact for a time in the morning the whole list was unsettled by a sharp attack on the copper shares. When this was overcome, buying came into the principal issues of sufficient scope to touch off short covering and the rise gathered momentum until the close; the market closed higher.

L. A. PRODUCE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—(UP)—Bunched vegetables continued to move fairly well under the stimulus of cooler weather today while fruits were somewhat slower for the same reason. Suplies continued liberal in practically all lines, with several lines in over-supply.

Apples wer practically unchanged.

Local loose avocados were unchanged with seedlings bringing 20-35c per lb., Dickinson,s Sharpless and Colorados 50-55c.

Bunched vegetables moved well with carrots in rather light supply and jobbing at 25-30c per dozen bunches, large stock 35c.

San oJaquin seedless grapes were in heavy supply wth best stock bringing 25-35c per lug.

The lettuce market was stronger under lighter receipts of dry pack stock. Movement however, was rather slow as dealers wer trying to raise prices.

The peach market was about steady with Yucaipa Hales bringing 4-5c and smaller stock 3c. Elbertas 2-2½c, and Crawfords 2½-3c.

Tomatoes were in lighter supply with fairly good movement. Local Earlianas ranged from 60-75c per lug on No. 1s with Stones 75-85c, best 90-1.00.

NOTHING WRONG HERE

The bank has loaned $20,000.00 on this twenty acres of Valencias and as that is the limit of such loans, the grove must be good. The Valencia trees are fifteen years old, there's a half interest in a pumping plant, the location is excellent. You can procure this property for cash, an exchange with smaller grove or with Los Angeles business property. What have you? No. 4548.

GRAND OPERA LOSSES AND THE RADIO

Mr. Samuel Insull, president of the Chicago Civic Opera Association, reports to the guarantors a loss of $558,528.26 by that organization during the last season. If a group of guarantors can be found who are willing to back opera which is enjoyed only by a very few people, one wonders why there are no benefactors for high class programs over the air. The United States is one of the few countries dependent upon advertising for radio programs. In most other countries those who have radios are taxed a small sum which money is spent for programs.

If a few men of money would unite to inaugurate national broadcasting of classical and educational programs, their growth in popularity would probably ultimately bring about their support from public funds or a foundation. Radio is handicapped because men of advanced cultural vision have not gotten behind it, and the few who have the vision have not money to support it. Probably the situation is as it is because the men and women who are willing to give money to such enterprises as opera and free concerts, among those who have money to give, are naturally conservative. Some such groups should begin to back broadcasting programs as back opera in Chicago and in New York, and the civic concerts in the latter city. But they must be people who are willing and able to experience some financial loss because there isn't money in promoting culture.

Of necessity the advertiser cannot afford to put on programs which are enjoyed by a majority. The advertiser devotes attention to the largest number he can possibly attract. And the broadcasting station with the type of program which attracts the largest audience is the one that commands the highest rates.

The minority who want programs of a class higher than jazz and wise-cracks and dated popular songs are out of luck. They are nobody's concern. But on the other hand these people in the minority should feel under obligations to show their appreciation of programs of their favorite type whenever they hear them. Most of them are so silent that many people in charge of broadcasting do not believe that people with their taste exist in any numbers at all. They should "talk up" their own class of entertainment.

Nobody in Scotland, says the American consul in Glasgow, wants to migrate to the United States although a year ago 33,000 sought entry. Most of them, perhaps have saved up but are waiting for that rainy day.

SPECTATORS' SPORTSMANSHIP

"Bill" Tilden, who is national singles champion, was playing in hard luck with his knee out of condition, and evidently put up a poor exhibition of a game. At one time it seems that his leg gave way entirely. But the 20,000 spectators jeered him and "booed" him, evidently without the least particle of consideration or sympathy, indicating simply a mob spirit. Finally, Tilden could stand it no longer and left the court, surrendering any chance he might have had, to his opponent.

We often criticize a player for his lack of sportsmanship, and it is possible that Tilden, in spite of the attitude of the crowd, should have continued his play, but on the other hand there is an obligation upon the spectators to exercise sportsmanship also. Physical condition has a tremendous amount to do with the playing of a game by any man. There are times when he is not himself, and it has necessarily an effect upon him which makes it more difficult at the moment to stand criticism, and particularly to stand for what he feels to be unfair ridicule. Those of us, who have never filled any other position than that of spectator in such games, should at least endeavor to have an understanding mind and to give the player in our own thought a fair chance.

A cheer at a man's doing his best, even when failing, enables him to do better, if not turn defeat into victory. It gives the crowd, incidentally, a "better run for their money." We never saw "Bill" Tilden play, but our sympathy was entirely with him in the incident of yesterday.

A VISIT FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN

Congressman Phil Swing has been in our city, giving to us of his time, speaking to our various clubs, and showing in every personal way his appreciation of the fine relationship which exists between him and the people of Orange county.

We believe we have one of the most capable, genial, determined representatives that any district possesses in this country. Mr. Swing is faithful to his duties, trustworthy in every respect, has no opposition in the primaries, and really no serious opposition at election.

A man in the prime of life, capable and enthusiastic, he is serving all the people in the finest manner imaginable. His successful work for the Boulder dam is an outstanding performance in any man's life, and the Southwestern section of this country will forever owe a debt of gratitude to Phil Swing.

A MALICIOUS CHARGE

The other evening at San Bernardino, according to the San Bernardino Sun, Buron Fitts, in his address to the voters, said:

> Several weeks ago a site for the women's prison was purchased—1100 acres without water in Kern county. I would like to know what commission the Young manager in Bakersfield, who sold the site, received.

The implication of this statement is that Governor Young, through a commission appointed to select a site for the women's prison, had arranged for them to hand money over to some supporter of his, living in Bakersfield, with the state being euchered out of its money in the purchase of a worthless property that had no water. If this were true, the implications involved in this statement should be made, and they should be made directly, for if $110,000 of the state's money, which this property cost, has been paid for a barren waste, in order to get a few thousand dollars into the hands of a supporter of Governor Young, it is nothing short of criminal. If it is not true, the man who uttered it is unfit for the office of Governor of the state.

Now what are the facts? We happen to be one of the commission that selected that site, and we positively know that there is not one word of truth in the entire statement, outside of the fact that the property selected is in Kern county. The acreage is nearly 50 per cent more than the number of acres stated. The reports of every authority which the commission could reach, including the experts of the state, declare there is as much water available for that site as for any available site that can be found in Southern California, and incidentally, the desire was to locate the site for this institution in Southern California. The one thing above all things that this commission looked after was the abundant supply of water for the tract. Not only is water there in abundance,—wells and springs already providing abundant water, but precaution was taken in the purchase to add other water lands where water is known to be, which can contribute its supply to this property, though not immediately contiguous.

On this commission there are three women and two men. The three women spent unlimited time in scouring the state from San Francisco to San Diego to locate those properties which might be available. When possible sites were found, all the members of the commission visited them. After such visitation, those that were determined upon as possible sites were checked up by the experts on soil and water and the climatic conditions were thoroughly learned. Of all of these sites, this site in Kern county, a few miles from Tehachapi, was selected.

Every check-up possible, even to the extent of employing an outside real estate man to go in and make final examination in regard to the value, was made. Then it was agreed upon and the property purchased. A realtor of the finest standing in his profession, a high class man in every respect, took the commission over the ground, as he also did over other property, some with which he had no connection. He presented no other arguments than to show us the land, presenting the facts concerning it from individuals and organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce. We presume he received a commission. For his work he certainly was entitled to it. Everything in connection with it was absolutely legitimate, and to insinuate that the matter was done for the purpose of getting money into somebody's hands, who supported Governor Young, is demagoguery of the clearest type.

We are confident the statement on which we have written here, is the type of statement to appeal to the prejudices and not to the intelligence of the voters. We doubt seriously if it gains votes. It certainly evidences the unfitness of the candidate for the office when he makes such utterances.

IRVINE PARK

Irvine park is a wonderful asset to Orange county. Unsurpassed in its natural advantages and beauty, it has been made an ideal place for assemblies, parties and picnickers. Every accommodation is there,—the arches for cooking, tables and seats, the dance hall, the beautiful setting, the surrounding mountains. It is ideal, and the people are appreciating it.

Every afternoon and evening they come there by the scores and even hundreds and thousands on some days. It is being used more and more, and will continue so to be.

The supervisors are to be congratulated on the way in which they have looked after it, the accommodations which they have afforded, and the manner in which it is being taken care of. It will grow in its usefulness and value.

Milton K. Young

Sacramento Union

Milton K. Young, Democratic candidate for governor, thought it would be a smart thing to have his name on both the Republican and Democratic ballots in the August primary, doubly smart because Governor "C. C." Young is one of the Republican candidates.

The trick was played and Milton Young's name went on both ballots. Then a cry of deceit arose all over the state in such proportions that Milton Young decided he had made a mistake. He asked that his name be removed, which the attorney general states is impossible. The supreme court is to determine whether it can be withdrawn.

Milton Young has antagonized Democrats as well as Republicans and has turned many voters away from his own party by what he has done. Politically he deserves no consideration and will get little.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WHALES

When Billy grows to manhood,
To strong and lusty manhood,
So he can sail
Before the gale
To far off Baffin's Bay;
He means to brave the billows
That look like giant pillows,
And, free from fear,
To wield a spear
And harpoon whales all day.

With arms held strong and steady,
He always will be ready,
To watch a chance
To thrust his lance
Across the tossing floes.
And how his eyes will glisten
The while he sits to listen,
Till, strong and stout,
The cry rings out:
"Ahoy, Bill! Thar she blows!"

But whales are not so plenty
As back in Eighteen Twenty,
When they would ride
The tossing tide
Like herds of buffalo.
And Billy's filled with worry,
For if he doesn't hurry,
There'll be no more
Up there before
He's old enough to go!

Only A Fairy Tale

Once upon a time there was a very large country, completely covered with gloom. Pessimism in the markets was so thick that you could cut it with a knife. But nobody did cut it. All the knives were used on those few bold prophets who dared to say a hopeful word about business.

For there was no hope. Business had gone to the dogs and would stay there. Nobody had any money to spend. The soundest of stocks were thrown on the bargain counter. There was scarcely a rift in the business skies.

To know that the entire economic system had failed, however, was not enough for the "Statistical Sadists." They insisted on measuring the extent of the failure.

So an army of statisticians girded on their slide rules and drew up their calculating machines in battle array. Never before had any nation been so well equipped with moving averages and coefficient correlations. The problem was attacked simultaneously on many fronts. The offensive was brilliant.

At its worst, business was producing at least 30 per cent more per capita than business at its best produced in the previous generation.

Although business had gone to the dogs, it was still turning out enough wealth every day to maintain the highest standard of living ever reached by any people in the world.

Although nobody had any money, consumers bought more goods than they had bought in any other year, except one, in the nation's history.

These were the fundamental findings of the army of statisticians. And so the gloom that settled over the nation was thicker than ever!

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Ma hasent been able to get pop to go to the automobeel show yet, and last nite she was reeding the paper, saying, Willyum, the discription of some of these cars is enough to make your mouth water. It would reely be an artistic treet to go and see that show. Now just lissen to this discription of the Sizzly Six for instants, she sed.

And she started to reed it, saying, The Sizzly Six has streemlines plus. If you can imagine a painting of a perfeck modern bathing bewty by a grate old master, you will have some slite conception of the exstatically melting contours of the Sizzly Six.

Sounds like the ravings of a dope fiend, pop sed, and ma sed, Why Willyum its perfeckly bewtiful and I dont see how you can sit idly here at home when gorgeous sites like that are positively clammering for attention. Now just lissen to this about the new Wimple. It says, You may of seen the Bay of Naples, you may of seen the bullyvards of Paris, but you havent fully lived until you have feested your eyes on the new Wimple, wich combines the ageless bewty of the old werld with the matchless luxury of the new.

What about it for goodness sakes? ma sed, and pop sed, Its contours are like the countours of the Bay of Fundy in a delicate mist, its arms are twice as graceful and 4 times more comfortable than the arms of the Venus of Milo before her fall, and as I sit here, a symfonny of sispended motion with my feet up, the whole ensemble is enough to make Hamlet forget his justly famous soliloquey.

O well, if your going off on a crazy streek Im not going to bother tawking to you, ma sed. But the show will be open for several days, so you better prepare to go, she sed.

Wich he proberly will agenst his will.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

AUGUST 15, 1916

A high class winter and summer resort will be made of the Modjeska ranch, according to Don H. Porter who has leased the resort to W. M. Mackey of New York.

A. W. Pontius, traffic manager of the Pacific Electric, has announced that through cars will be run from Santa Ana to Orange beginning October 1.

There will be a grand Republican rally at Campbell's Opera House, Orange, at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, as Orange, more nearly than any other place is the population center of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Stanley, and family, of Tustin, attended the Iowa picnic at Long Beach last Saturday.

The Tustin band boys gave their first open-air concert Friday night on the roof-gardens of the school building, and a large crowd was in attendance.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

IF LUTHER WROTE AGAIN

Yesterday I tried to imagine what Martin Luther might write, by way of counsel, to the Protestant Churches, if communication between the mortal and post-mortal worlds were in active operation, assuming that Luther had been watching the fortunes of the protesting movements he launched during the generations since his death.

I stressed yesterday the fact that Protestantism needs spiritual integration even more than it needs theological revision, but since there are so many who still look upon the periodic revision of the religious outlook of their ancestors as an impious and irreverent enterprise, I want today to suggest what I think Luther might now say to his latter-day followers about theological reconstruction.

I think he would say that a Protestantism that insists upon stating its documents in terms of the philosophical and scientific outlook of his day is not likely to sway the mind of the modern world.

I think Luther would remind present-day Protestantism that he nailed his ninety-five theses to the door of the cathedral at Wittenberg ninety-nine years before Galileo was tried for saying the earth was a moving body, 167 years before Sir Isaac Newton announced his law of gravitation, and 342 years before Darwin launched the theory of organic evolution. I think Luther would smilingly remind his latter-day followers that he called Copernicus an upstart astrologer and said of him, "The fool will overturn the whole art of astronomy. But, as Holy Writ declares, Joshua commanded the sun to stand still and not the earth." I am sure he would not want his fololwers today to cling to that sort of outlook.

He would, I think, remind his present-day followers that the major patterns of Protestant theology were drawn by men whose minds were far removed from the spirit of modern science and from the knowledge of the universe and of man that is now common property.

We would want Protestantism to realize, I am sure, that we may appreciate the light that shone from Luther without remaining prisoners of his and his generation's intellectual and philosophical limitations.

I think he would agree that even if religion itself were a once-for-all deposit, fixed and final, innocent of the possibility of growth and enrichment, it would still be strategically necessary to translate its meanings into the thought-forms and language-forms of successive generations in order that religion might not suffer the handicap of what would amount to an alien tongue.

I think he would admit that it is manifest stupidity to insist upon the permanent entanglement of religion with obsolete conceptions of man and nature.

OUR CHILDREN

THE TRYING AGE

Children of seven years of age are very trying. Neither a baby nor a reasoning child, this little one goes his individualistic way to the great distress of those about him. We would suffer less if we knew more.

A seven-year-old child rarely thinks of other people. He is bound up in his own interests and desires. He sees nobody but himself. If he feels like shouting until the rafters ring, he shouts, though the agonized family entreats him to be quiet. If he wants something he takes it although his weaker brother or sister protests in tears. If he is hungry he eats what and where he will. Manners, he has none. To morality he is a stranger.

What shall we do about ? Why, train him of course. Day by day, point by point, correct and adjust and train. There is no other way. This child must learn by experience what is expected of him. He must learn that he shares life with the whole world of people and that only a tiny fraction of space and of personal liberty is his.

When he grabs he is to be removed from the scene of his depredations. Even though there is company at the table, away he goes. He has to learn that grabbing is not permitted and he may just as well learn that hard truth when the company is present than delay it until later when other company is present. Grabbing is one of his characteristics and only inconvenient experiences will teach him the bad taste of his actions.

When he shouts he is to be stilled; first by silence on the part of all in the room. Let him hear himself in the stillness. Unless he is more than usual self-centered he will hear and heed and reduce his voice power for that time at least. And each time counts. But if he remains unconscious, put him off in a room by himself to learn silence.

Dirt and disorder are characteristic of these children. They will not remember to hang their clothes on the right hooks, to put their wheels away at night, to put their balls and bats in the closet and their books on the shelves provided for them. The only thing we can do is to keep steadily after them. Sometimes a posted list of reminders helps. The forgetful child will forget to look at the list but a reminder to scan it will save time and trouble. All required duties should have time limit set upon them and a prompt checking up to supplement the idea.

There is no need for the worry parents suffer. This is the way seven-year—up to nine-year children perform. If they are trained to correct their conduct they go on to the next stage of growth and you go on with them still correcting and adjusting and helping and encouraging. Take it all as a matter of course and interfere only when you must. If you can establish an impersonal, self-working scheme of life for them, so much the better. The posted list helps in that particular.

All too soon this troublesome little grub is an adolescent and you are wishing him and her back in the earlier stage, troublesome as it was. Enjoy this one with them as long as you can.

THE PAMANA CANAL

On August 15, 1914, the Pamana Canal, the ship canal across the Isthmus of Panama connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, was opened to commercial traffic by the passage of the government steamship Ancon, carrying the Secretary of War and 200 guests. The passage was made in nine hours and 40 minutes.

From that time the canal has been opened to general traffic, except when the slides at Culebra hill and at Cucaracha have interrupted navigation. At the end of the first year 1317 ocean-going vessels passed through the canal paying in tolls $5,216,149. The tolls were established by the president at the rate of $1.20 per net vessel ton for loaded vessels.

The canal is 50 miles long and cost about $4,000,000 to build. The engineer to whom greatest credit is due for the success in its construction is Col. George W. Goethals. Both Col. Goethals and Col. William C. Gorgas, through whose work in sanitation improvements on the Isthmus it was possible to construct the canal under favorable health conditions, were raised to the rank of major-general in recognition of their services.

BUSINESS METHODS

TOMMY: I say, mother, will you let me borrow a quarter for five minutes?

MOTHER: Borrow a quarter! What mischief are you up to now, Tommy?

TOMMY: Well, mother, Uncle Job said he'd give me a dollar for every quarter I could show him this week.—Answers.
